Princess Anne Bank Exceeds $3,000,000

ARAGONA VILLAGE — The Bank of Princess Anne moved past the $3-million mark in assets this week, W. Albert Hess, president reported to the board of directors.

Hess also announced that construction of a branch in the Bay-side area should start in two weeks and be completed before the end of summer.

Traffic Rise Is Predicted

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. — Surveys predict that traffic will increase by three or four times when the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel is completed late 1963 or early 1964 — but will Eastern Virginia and North Carolina be prepared for it?

This was the question under discussion when Sidney S. Kellam of Virginia Beach, a bridge-tunnel commissioner, spoke to the Elizabeth City Rotary Club and met with the Chamber of Commerce.

"If we haven't built the necessary roads," he said, "people are going to stop using the bridge-tunnel."

"We have a lot of people who think we ought to move the traffic to Suffolk and on to Emporia. I don't agree with them. . . . In my opinion, however, I don't know how we're going to start asking people to use a shoreline route and then send them inland when they get to a certain point."

"I think our interest is in a coastal route all the way from Maine to Florida."

In speaking to the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Kellam said that a report has been ordered on routes along Va. 166 and 168. "That study is expected to be completed in about 60 days and then they will determine exactly what can be done," he said.

Toll-Free Road

"We hope this will be a toll-free road," Kellam told the Rotarians, "everybody is against a toll road. But if it is necessary to move that traffic we may have a small toll."

"I don't know what will take place and I don't think the State Highway Department knows, but the people in our area want a road that will hook up with yours and I think they are determined to have it."

"Our two areas are so close together we're dependent on each other and we've got to work together. The roads have got to be built."

WARS VETS

All World War One Veterans, their Wives or Widows, are urged to attend a meeting of their Baracks 1604, at City Council Chamber, Sunday, May 6th, 1962, at 2:00 p.m., for the installation of new Officers and to formulate plans for an Auxiliary Drive.

Stock Firm Opening Here

VIRGINIA BEACH — A new addition to the financial district of Virginia Beach in the 31st street and Pacific avenue area is expected to open in early June when the investment house of Anderson & Strudwick of Richmond opens its Virginia Beach office at 3110 Pacific Avenue.

Anderson & Strudwick has leased the Pacific avenue location currently occupied by John Senter TV and Appliances.

Two Virginia Beach men, Willard R. Ashburn, Jr. and T. N. P. Johnson, will be among the personnel in the Virginia Beach office of Anderson & Strudwick.

According to plans the Beach office will be a complete stock exchange facilities with a quotation board and teletype service to the New York Stock Exchange.

Present plans call for opening of the Beach office on or about June 15, it is believed.

Hospital Week Being Observed

Governor Harrison has designated May 6 - 12 as Hospital Week in Virginia and has invited the people of Virginia to join in the observance by participating in the tribute to the men and women who have contributed so much to the good health of our people.

In a statement the Governor said "Virginia Hospitals, regardless of size or ownership, are striving to render the best patient care possible to the citizens of Virginia." He commented further that "the progress in scientific care prescribed according to individual need, coupled with the individual services rendered by dedicated physicians and hospital personnel, warrant the continued support throughout our Commonwealth."

Sponsored by the American Hospital Association and supported by the Virginia Hospital Association, the Hospital Week observance, originally celebrated as National Hospital Day, has been marked annually since 1953. It is held each year during the week of Florence Nightingale's birthday (May 12).

This year's theme . . . "Your Hospital — Uniting Science and Patient Care," is the combination of science and individual patient care which has benefited 1 out of 8 persons in our population hospitalized last year.

TOLL-FREE COUNTY SERVICE IS ASKED

PRINCESS ANNE—A petition is being circulated among telephone subscribers throughout Princess Anne County asking for toll-free service after the county merges with Virginia Beach January 1.

Drawn up by the public utility committee of Creeds Rutland Club, the petition is directed at the Princess Anne Telephone Company and the Norfolk-Carolina Telephone Company.

Kermit S. Land, general manager of the Princess Anne firm, which serves Seaboard and Pungo districts, said Monday that he will meet May 15 with representatives of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to discuss a plan.

The petition, addressed to the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors, asks for elimination of all toll charges within the boundaries of the future Virginia Beach and extension of C&P exchanges to all parts of the new city without additional charges and requests improved service in the rural area of the county.

Epic Flight

Everything A-OK Year Ago Saturday

The historic-making space flight of Virginia Beach's Commander Alan B. Shepard, Jr. will have a birthday come this Saturday. It was exactly one year ago that Commander Shepard blasted off from Cape Canaveral to the fringes of outer space in the Project Mercury spacecraft "Freedom 7".

In fact the day was Friday, May 5, 1961, at Cape Canaveral and it was exactly 9:34 a.m. when the rocket left its launching pad. Thousands of newsmen were on hand at the Cape, including three representatives of the Virginia Beach Sun-News.

While all this was going on at Cape Canaveral Mrs. Louise Shepard, the Astronaut's wife, was waiting in her Bay Colony home with her daughter and her mother and father.

The historic flight took only 15 minutes and it went off like clockwork. Commander Shepard was picked up out of the waters of the Atlantic and America had taken a giant stride in the space race.

Since that time there has been one other flight of the Shepard type and later Lt. Col. John Glenn orbited the earth three times.

Commander Shepard's flight remains the first real breakthrough for America in the space race and Saturday will mark the first anniversary of that flight and the famous Shepard words, "everything is A-OK."

Driver to Retire

'His Kids'

Bus Driver Deluxe

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH—"I've got to go to the dentist again today," the young boy told the bus driver. "Will you drop me by there after school?"

To some bus drivers this would be an imposition. But not to James E. Gregory who for the past three years has transported students of Friends School and has ingratiated himself with the youngsters, parents and school personnel by overstepping his duties for the welfare of "his kids."

Will Soon Retire

Because he loves the youngsters, Mr. Gregory decided to retire at the end of this school term.

"When you reach my age, I'll be 73 this fall, it isn't safe to drive that many children," he said. "I've never had an accident but I don't want to take the chance of hurting a one of them."

A person of extreme good health (he was only sick once, in 1955), Mr. Gregory is energetic and cheerful, always flashing a welcoming smile to his young passengers. They, in turn, have responded to his patience and understanding with good conduct—during the three years he only turned in two students who got out of line.

"He lifts us every time he comes in this office," school principal Mrs. Louise Wilson said, "not only by what he says but how he says it. It isn't that he's so friendly . . . it's because he is a friend."

Mr. Gregory's interest in the children far exceeds the bus driver. If one of them misses a day, he inquires if they are sick. If the child is ill, he plagues the office daily about his welfare.

Armed Forces Day

Godwin, General Vissering Are Parade Leaders

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia's lieutenant governor and a major general in the United States Army will serve as civilian and military grand marshals of the annual Armed Forces Day parade to be held on Saturday, May 19, it has been announced by Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., general chairman of the event.

Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr. and Major General Norman H. Vissering, U.S.A., will be the parade marshals. Gen. Vissering is the Commanding General of the Transportation Corps Training Command and Commanding Officer of Fort Eustis.

The reviewing stand will again be located at 30th Street and guests and dignitaries will assemble at the Sir Walter Hotel for a social hour and luncheon starting at 12 o'clock.

'The Hurricane' Gets Top Award

LEXINGTON — "The Hurricane", the Virginia Beach High School annual yearbook, captured the achievement award of Group III for 1961, it was announced by the Virginia Press Association last week at the Southern Interscholastic Press Association convention here.

Beach Attracts Honeymooners

VIRGINIA BEACH—Long acclaimed as a family resort, Virginia Beach is now gaining national recognition as a honeymoon spot. The summer editions of "Modern Bride" and "Bride and Home," with combined circulations of 242,200, carried pictures and information on the resort.

But Virginia Beach has reached print in many other publications during the past few weeks, according to Mrs. Laura Lambe, head of the city's News Bureau and Lambe Advertising Agency, and other spots are scheduled in the near future.

State Foots Bill

The state supplemented the city's request for spring advertising with 250-line ads on Virginia Beach in four major newspapers. The city launched its advertising schedule in 29 newspapers March 25 with the thrifty rate offers of local hotels and motels through April and May.

Also sponsored by the state were 500-line ads featuring Virginia Beach and other Virginia beaches in all major resort issues to appear May 6 and May 13. The state will allocate $10,000 in June to promote the fact that Virginia's beach resorts will be ready for summer visitors.

This promotion is to overcome the coast's unfavorable publicity from the March 7 storm. It is sponsored by the Virginia Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Division of Public Relations and Advertising.

Virginia Beach will be spotlighted in the Journal American Travel Bureau window on the

A story with pictures on the beach's recovery, its attractions and special events will appear in the May issue of "Virginia Records" with a statewide circulation of 10,000 professional people.

Richmond News Representatives The News Bureau staff assisted two feature writers from Richmond newspapers in compiling material on Va. Beach. One writer will use the information in a before-and-after series and the other will do a story on the resort's recovery and summer schedule.

Twelve publicity stories, taken from News Bureau releases, have appeared in major newspapers and many indicated they will use further information in the May 6 resort issues.

A large amount of television and radio time in Virginia and North Carolina will soon be devoted to Virginia Beach, Mrs. Lambe said, and the resort had the emerald spot on the Baltimore Sunday

Sports Roundup

By FLETCHER BRYANT JR.

Last year college basketball received a tremendous jolt when the point shaving scandal was exposed. Cool calculating gamblers throughout the country were taking advantage of athletes by offering them money to shave points. Some of these boys were hard put financially and a chance to pick up an extra $1,000 dollars was just too much temptation to turn their back on, especially when they did not have to throw a game. It is a shame that these boys were involved in the scandal, but in my opinion they are no more guilty of deceiving the public than the professional wrestler who wrestles knowing full well the eventual outcome of the match. In many states professional wrestling is considered an exhibition and that is exactly what it should be considered in this state.

It is difficult to visualize how a person could sit and watch a match and believe the punishment that some of the pro wrestler supposedly administer to one another. Thousands of uninformed fans pay good sports dollars to witness a match that is nothing more than a show. I have talked with many of these fans and it is difficult to convince them that what they are paying to see is not legitimate. I have asked the question, "Would you continue to go to these matches if the fraud were exposed?" and the answer is, "No, but I don't believe they are fixed." The people that attend these matches are very enthusiastic and yet they are having perpetrated upon them one of the biggest frauds in the sporting world today.

Pro wrestlers are well trained and in some cases are good athletes, but by the same token the matches are all well rehearsed and designed to bring the uninformed back week in and week out. Sure pro wrestling takes a tremendous amount of skill, tumbling ability, ham acting and rehearsal, but is it a sport and does it deserve equal space in the sporting world? Many hours of rehearsal went into the production of "Flower Drum Song" but did we read about it on the sports page? To me the world of professional wrestling is no different in that the element of competition is removed and only the staging is set to make it appear that the contestants are competing when they are not.

In 1957-58 the University of North Carolina played George Washington University in the Norfolk arena and less than 500 fans were present to witness a game that had what was to be the National Champion participating. Five hundred fans attend a top flight basketball game that has all the competion, spirit, and enthusiasm of a true sporting event and yet, 3500 fans turn out to be deceived by a group of pro wrestlers.

It is hard to imagine that there are so many people in the world who will pay to be fooled when they could divert some of their attention and enthusiasm to the legitimate sports.

Scandals, deaths and bum decisions in sports cause some people to start grumbling for investigations of the sport, as was the case with basketball fixings, Benny "Kid" Paret, Black Sox scandal, and others, but wrestling the biggest fraud of all is allowed to flourish in a sporting world all of its own. Sure sports should have its checks and periodic investigations, but because the people that are informed know the situation is it right to allow pro wrestling to flourish at the expense of the uninformed?

Grapefruit Loop Open with 105

The Princess Anne County Recreation Grapefruit League opened for trials for the various teams in the area last Saturday with more than 105 players participating in the various leagues.

Coch Skinner of Seateck's Red Devils was able to take a look at his Midget team, Jr. High team, and both girls teams. He reported that he was well-pleased with the results that were shown. He is quoted as saying that there will be some new faces on each of his squads this year.

New comers in the coaching staff area Coaches Miller, Williams and Willis who had their first opportunity to look at the offering in competition. They all seem to believe that their teams will be on top of the league at the end of the season in August.

Next week will find six additional practice games, beginning at 11:00 a.m. and continuing until 4:00 p.m. Each game will begin on the hour.

New Bay Harbour Club Launched Here

VIRGINIA BEACH—A large group of directors and their wives of the new Bay Harbour Club gathered here Saturday and Sunday for an inspection and launching of the club facilities.

A buffet and dinner dance was held Saturday night for the invited guests and boat excursions around Linkhorn Bay and the area highlighted Sunday's activities.

GUEST LIST

Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. FitzGerald Bemiss, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Bryan, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Easterly, Jr. of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fulton, Jr. of Roanoke; Mr. and Mrs. C. Randolph Huggins, Jr. of Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Ray of Franklin; and Mr. and Mrs. William P. Kellam and Mr. and Mrs. Toy D. Savage, Jr. of Virginia Beach.

The club, scheduled to open to limited membership in the near future, is located on Laskin Rd., adjacent to the Olympia Health Club, overlooking Linkhorn Bay.

Built in-the-round, the entire decor follows the circular pattern with a round gold-carpeted band area, semi-circular parquet dance floor and semi-circular green carpeted dining area.

The entrance hall is gold carpeted, accented by green plants and original paintings designed especially for the Bay Harbour Club by a Richmond artist. A semi-circular simulated whalebone cutwork screen separates the dining area from the entrance way and a modernistic Rondeley screen separates the bar from the main room.

Unique Panels

The Shoals Bar, lighted with jeweled prism lanterns, features three decorative panels of deep-demensional arrangements of marine life embedded in glass with a background of indirect lighting.

Stressing the emerald green and gold motif, alternating panels of drapes enclose the dining area from the private patio overlooking the yacht basin and Linkhorn Bay.

The club was built by the Pine Harbor Corp., a group of local and state-wide businessmen, headed by Virginia Beach's Reid Irvin as president.

Other members of the board of directors include Frank Batten and C. Wiley Grandy of Norfolk; E. H. Church of Virginia Beach; Edwin Hyde and C. Malcolm Little Jr. of Richmond; Sture I. G. Olsson of West Point; and Burton P. Short Jr. of Petersburg.

Rebel 300 Entries Is Filled

The field for the May 12 Rebel 300 convertible classic at Darlington Raceway is filled with the addition of three more entries including retired veteran Cotton Owens of Spartanburg, S.C.

Owens, whose 1962 Pontiac had been entered earlier, named himself as the driver in the $40,000 race.

With one week to go before inspection and practice starts at the big South Carolina race plant, officials predicted the entry list would reach forty cars and drivers. Only 32 are allowed to start.

Time trials Thursday and Friday, May 10, 11 will determine the starting field.

Also formerly entered were Buddy Baker, Charlotte, N.C., with a 1962 Chrysler and Billy Wade, Houston, Texas in a Pontiac.

Value of Sand Replenishment Program Here Hard to Estimate

Back in 1952 an act of the General Assembly of Virginia created the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission and this body then went to work to restore the eroded beach here and thus began a study of how best to maintain the sand on the beach. The first job was to restore the backfill behind the boardwalk and to put the walk, itself, in shape.

With its initial work accomplished the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission, working in harmony with the United States Corps of Engineers, then arrived at a decision to set up permanent sand pumping operations. This phase of the program began in earnest in 1954.

Since 1954, under the supervision of the Erosion Commission, approximately 60,000 to 70,000 cubic yards of sand have been pumped annually to replenish the sand beach here. At the same time the Commission has maintained the concrete bulkhead and boardwalk.

Just what has this sand replenishment program meant to Virginia Beach? Some have criticized the work of the Commission and the cost of the perpetual pumping of sand. Most have praised their work. Now comes an estimation from Colonel J. D. Snow, USA, District Engineer for the Norfolk District.

Colonel Snow, in a recent interview, gave a great deal of credit to Virginia Beach's sand replenishment program for the comparatively light damage and property loss resulting from the freak March 7 storm and tidal wave. Colonel Snow indicated that Virginia Beach would possibly have suffered much more if it had not been for the sound condition of the boardwalk and bulkhead and the almost constant sand pumping program of the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission. The Army Engineers stated that the amount of sand on the beach in the off shore water provided invaluable protection to the bulkhead and boardwalk and thus to the oceanfront here.

At the present time the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission is operating two dredges and the beach, itself, is better than before the storm. The large dredge is at work 16 hours a day and the smaller dredge is working an 8 hour shift.

The sand replenishment program may cost thousands of dollars each year, but according to the reasoning of expert engineers it is well worth whatever we spend. Credit should be given to the Erosion Commission for the fine program they have followed and are continuing to pursue. It meant a great deal to this community at the time of the Ash Wednesday storm and it has provided a sound, stable sand beach for this resort.

Fertile Field

In the last 10 years second-class mail rates (applied to newspapers and magazines) have increased 89 per cent. A current proposal would send them up again, by something like 50 per cent.

The result, in the view of Editor & Publisher: "Magazines will feel the brunt of it in proportion to their size. In the newspaper business it will be the small dailies and weeklies that will suffer. It will ultimately mean the suspension of many marginal publications that are just making ends meet."

One trouble seems to be a comparatively new idea that the Post Office should be treated as a business, paying its own way in all particulars. That simply isn't in the cards. The Post Office performs many public services which are inevitably losers—such as the maintenance of small, but needed post office outlets and rural routes. To quote Editor & Publisher again, "These are services performed for the people . . . The cost of fulfilling that obligation of service through non-profitable offices, routes and services, should not be charged to the users of the mail."

This is the traditional view of the Post Office function, held throughout the nation's life. But there is an exception—a function which is relatively new, and which in no way meets the standards of public service, education, and enlightenment of the people. That is parcel post, a purely commercial undertaking, which competes directly with private parcel carriers on the national, state, and local levels. Parcel post should pay its own way in every respect, the indirect as well as the direct costs included. That is something it has rarely if ever done. Here is a fertile and natural field for making a dent in the Post Office deficit.

Group Named By Conservation District Head

HOLLAND — Edward L. Felton, president of the Virginia Association of Soil Conservation Districts, has announced a three-man committee who will select the state's outstanding conservation district.

The judging committee will review score sheets of soil conservation districts entered in an annual recognition awards program sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. The top farmer—conservationist chosen and a member of the district's governing board will be guests of Goodyear for a study-research trip to Arizona in December.

Judges, in Virginia are: J. K. Abernathy, Assistant State Conservationist, Richmond; R. L. Crouch, Virginia State Soil Conservation Committee, Blacksburg; and Dr. W. E. Skelton, Assistant Extension Director, Blacksburg.

Winning districts and individuals will be announced in August. Conservation program judging is being carried on in Puerto Rico, Hawaii and all 48 continental states to name the state winners who will receive trips to Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Ariz.

Judges score competing districts according to a uniform point system which rates accomplishments made as well as future planned programs.

Seat Belts For Phonemen

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia announced plans to place seat belts in its motor vehicles as an added safety measure.

The largest industrial vehicle fleet in the state is operated by the C&P. Some 1,700 pieces of equipment including trucks, passenger cars and station wagons are used in C&P's operations in Virginia.

C&P enjoys one of the best industrial safe driving records in Virginia. Drivers of C & P motor vehicles travel about 18 million miles each year. And, it has been more than 12 years since C&P has had a fatality with a company driven vehicle.

The C&P has a continuous safety program, on the job as well as off the job. Through the use of seat belts in their vehicles, C&P hopes to avoid fatalities and serious injury resulting from accidents.

The seat belt installation program is now getting under way and more than $40,000 will be spent in the next two years on this activity.

The C&P is also encouraging its employees to equip their personal cars with seat belts, on a voluntary basis, as an off-the-job safety practice.

Life insurance, a bank account, and a growing stack of United States Savings Bonds are three requisites of a sound personal savings plan.

SURFSIDE '62

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Lt. (j.g.) John M. (Mike) Hagen, a native of Minnesota now stationed at Oceana Naval Air Station, got a big birthday surprise recently, thanks to his mother and Mrs. Julia Nelms, executive secretary of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Hagen wrote the Chamber office asking them to please get her son a birthday cake and enclosed a check for it. Mrs. Nelms, herself the mother of a son, ordered the cake from Moore's Bakery and took it to the young lieutenant on the designated day. With the help of Carroll Sutherland, manager of the Oceana Officer's Club, she staged an impromptu cake-cutting party in the club, much to Lt. Hagen's surprise.

Friday was Mrs. Nelms' turn to be surprised—she received a nice thank-you from Mrs. Hagen and a bottle of cologne.

This is just one of the many personal requests that often confront the gals who hold down the fort at the Chamber of Commerce. Shopping, packaging and mailing assorted items from Virginia Beach, answering detailed inquiries about the area, and maintaining a lost and found service are every day occurrences.

Working with Mrs. Nelms in this constant flow of beach promotion are Mrs. Wilma Davis and Mrs. Grace Druggan and, periodically, Mrs. Isabelle DeMarco who sends out the printed literature and prepares requested shell displays.

Nothing is sacred to Mrs. DeMarco when she has a shell project underway. The walls are quickly stripped of star fish, conch shells and anything else she feels the person might enjoy. It's a constant effort to keep the Chamber office in seashore decorations when Mrs. DeMarco is at work.

CHURCH BAZAAR REQUEST

Last year the Chamber received a request from a Catholic Sister asking for some shells for a charity bazaar. Mrs. DeMarco got busy. She polished conch shells until they sparkled and decorated matchboxes with tiny bits of shells. The finished products was a big, lovely display of seashells from Virginia Beach for which the Sister was most grateful.

Mrs. Nelms settled a major family dispute by sending a cap with the resort's name on it to the mother of two young boys who had just visited here. One of the boys had lost his cap on the way home and there would be no peace in the family until both youngsters had one, the mother said.

A dotting grandmother sent money for a tiny bathing suit with "I Am A Tax Exemption" stamped on it for her baby granddaughter. After shopping through most of the shops along Atlantic Avenue, Mrs. Nelms and Mrs. Davis found one and sent it to the child.

Young Michael wrote and asked for a "sack of gold dust," a most unusual order to say the least. Mrs. Nelms finally decided that he meant the package of Virginia Beach sand that she often refers to as "gold dust" on her travel tours. Off the sand went to one happy boy.

Collectors give the staff a fit. They are constantly filling bottles with ocean water or looking for a post card with a certain number which must fall in sequence with the collector's series.

LOST: FALSE TEETH

Their lost and found department is quite active. A set of false teeth found on 72nd Street were claimed several days later by a young man who had lost them on 31st Street. An initialed wedding ring seemed a hopeless case, but Detective Nelms called the hotels, had them check the guest book for names with the same initials and soon found the owner.

But sometimes the staff receives packages. Two William and Mary students from Norfolk, spending the Easter Holidays in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., took time out from their partying to mail the Chamber a small box of sand with a note explaining that it was to "help rebuild Virginia Beach" after the March storm.

Whispering Pines Garden Club

The April meeting of the Whispering Pines Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Hall. Ten members were present and one visitor, Mrs. B. H. Murden.

A slate of officers for the coming year was presented and voted approved.

After the business meeting the members made flower arrangements to be sent to sick friends.

Little Theatre Play Is Well Received

VIRGINIA BEACH — "The Philadelphia Story," presented by the Virginia Beach Little Theatre, opened Tuesday night for two performances at Virginia Beach High School.

Most of the roles were well enacted — some exceptional — but the play itself was slow moving and lengthy, often bogging down in jumbled dialogue.

Under the direction of Rich Newman, the actors gave the roles sincere characterization but it wasn't until the third act that the play came to life and caused the audience to sit up and take notice.

All lines (and there were plenty of them) were delivered fluently and unhesitatingly with no prompting. Kay Johnson, as the confused and wealthy Tracy Lord, did an excellent job with her lengthy role but teen-age Holly Winters as her younger sister and Dick Sullivan as Dexter Haven, Tracy's ex-husband, walked off with most of the acting honors.

Fred Hines and Gwen Dobbs, as magazine writers assigned to cover Tracy's socially prominent wedding to George Kittredge (Bud Fuller), came through like troopers. Gwen seemed so natural it was hard to believe she was acting and Hine's drunk scene was brilliant.

Cox High Tid-Bits

April showers bring more than just May flowers... weeds, weeds, and more weeds lamented six Key Club members. Last week on the 21st of April, the following boys began the needed task of weeding the flower beds here at Cox: Brad Stillman, Johnny Bolger, Leon Tew, Dickie Freeman, Ken Johnson, and Steve Cockran. Mr. Pete Stillman, a University of Va student, willingly supervised the group working from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Until the end of this year and during this summer, the Key Club plans to keep up this lasting Key Club service project.

Combined Effort of Club Members for Queen's Table

VIRGINIA BEACH—Wednesday morning members of four garden clubs journeyed to the Norfolk Azalea Gardens and spent the day at the barn, planning, cutting and preparing plant materials used for decorations for the Civic Club luncheon April 26, that was held at the Golden Triangle, honoring the Azalea Queen IX, her princesses and 30 ladies-in-waiting.

It was sponsored by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce of Norfolk. Thursday, Mrs. D. J. Dee Sr., chairman of decorations for the Queen's table, and other members started decorating at 8:30 a.m. at the Golden Triangle Ballroom.

The tables were bordered with Chinese yew and pink azalea corsages. The table arrangements were made of pink azaleas. The members overlooked few possibilities to include all shades of pink azaleas.

Three arrangements on each table bordered with a frame of Chinese yew with pink corsages placed 20 inches apart on the border made a beautiful setting.

Representing the Cape Henry by-the-Sea Garden Club were Mrs. Dee, Mrs. Charles Hunter, Mrs. James Darden, Mrs. George Dana, Mrs. Horace Coleman, Mrs. Joe Watson, Mrs. C. L. Ackiss, Mrs. M. L. Clark, Mrs. M. L. Clark, Mrs. W. F. Appleby Jr., Mrs. Mable G. Davis, Mrs. J. J. Standing, and Mrs. Herman White.

Other clubs and representatives were: the Cardinal Garden Club, Mrs. J. W. Fields; the Chesapeake Colony Garden Club, Mrs. F. C. McCune; and the Whispering Pines Garden Club, Mrs. L. P. Crockett, Mrs. Stanley Howard, Mrs. N. C. Edge, and Mrs. A. Waller.

Your Social Security

If your wages had stopped and your family needed money, would you disregard a source of income that might be "yours for the asking?" This may sound like a ridiculous question, but that is exactly what many families are doing.

Many disabled workers and their families are not receiving social security disability benefit payments because an application has not been filed by the disabled worker or by someone on his behalf. If you are totally disabled and have worked under social security for at least five years of the ten-year period ending when you were disabled, you should apply for benefits.

If a disabled worker's claim is approved, his wife and dependent children under 18 may also get checks. A disabled son or daughter over 18 may be eligible for benefits on his or her parent's account if he or her disability began before age 18, and is so severe that he or she is unable to do a substantial job for pay.

The present law provides that disability applications filed on or before June 30, 1962, will be effective as of the date the disability began, no matter how far back that date might be. Applications filed after June 30, 1962, can be effective for only 18 months prior to the date of filing. For workers who became disabled prior to 1961, it is important to file a claim before the June 30 deadline, otherwise they stand a chance of losing all rights to present and future cash benefits for themselves and their families. We urge all people in this area who feel that they might qualify to contact this office.

Convention Center Coming into Own After Four Years

VIRGINIA BEACH—"It costs $165 a day to open the doors of the Convention Center," Bill Lillyman, the city's director of convention sales, said. "Why should the city pay for it?"

The aluminum-domed building, named the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center last year in honor of America's first astronaut, has been the topic of many controversial discussions during its four year existence: should local (and smaller) organizations be charged the same rate as the visiting groups?

"The taxpayers have provided the city with a very elaborate facility," Lillyman said, "and to acquire its effectiveness, those people who use it should be asked to share in its cost."

"If we loaded our calendar with rent-free events, we would lose the paying events because once the center is engaged for a specific date the contract cannot be broken. This is my policy."

"We can't offer it rent-free for one group without doing it for all. We can only do what we think is right."

"Once the center is operating in the black, the Board of Directors may re-evaluate the rates. I don't know. But when we do operate in the black, we will be the only area in Virginia to maintain itself."

Certainly the center is in better financial condition than it has ever been. As of April 24 it had brought in $27,364.46 in revenue as compared to $11,166.02 by April 28 of last year. May and June are the most popular convention months so the revenue will jump considerably during the next few weeks. It costs the city $52,000 a year to operate the center.

Since the first of the year the city has received $2,466.31 in taxes derived by activities held at the center.

Built "Convention City" The city built the $600,000 building in an effort to promote Virginia Beach as a "convention city." Undoubtedly it has helped because the number of meetings increases each year, but this is not a project that can be accomplished overnight. It takes years to build a city into a convention center. Groundwork that was laid four years ago is only now beginning to pay off, Lillyman said.

Meanwhile the dome must be maintained with as little expense to the city as possible. Hence the necessity of a permanent rental rate.

"The only Democratic way in which the building can justify its existence," Lillyman said, "is for the user to pay a proportionate share of the cost."

Under the present rates, all groups, with the exception of four classifications, are charged $250 for the first four hours and $125 for the second four hours.

The classifications exempt from this ruling include: athletics—10 per cent of the gross and no less than $50 for any 3-hour period; religious projects with admission charge — $100 for the first 3 hours and $50 for the second three; non-profit with no admission or collection charge—$50 for 3 hours and $25 for second three; and conventions—$100 for first four hours and $50 for second four.

The meeting rooms are available at 20 cents per folding chair during the regular work days Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Center Is Controversial "When the center first opened it was free to any local group for meetings, shows and what-have-you. The cost was prohibitive. With its present rates, the center is becoming less of a financial burden. Yes, it draws criticism. Anytime you change a precedent, even if the precedent was a mistake, you get criticized," Lillyman said.

The city is also improving the center's facilities in hopes of adding to its revenue with "Broadway-type" entertainment. A new sound system has been installed and immediate plans call for improved lighting and new backdrops.

It will also soon become imperative that the center improve its stage arrangement and provide a walk-over. Under the present set-up, performers must exit at one side of the stage, leave the back of the building and enter from the other side. Little Theatre and other productions have not been able to use the center because of this arrangement.

Although the center has improved its kitchen facilities, it does not serve food except to groups so large they cannot meet or eat at any other place. The food is usually catered by local restaurants.

"We are not in private industry," Lillyman explained, "and we try to do nothing that will take business away from our local privately-owned establishments."

NAHB Building Research House

(The NAHB has built four Research Houses and is planning to build a fifth. This series tells about the first one built in 1957 and the results to the industry.)

The National Association of Home Builders has announced plans to build its fifth Research House.

By JULIAN RASHKIND
President of Tidewater Assn.
Of Home Builders

This is welcome news to the Tidewater Association of Home Builders, an affiliate of the NAHB. It should be equally good news to prospective home buyers in every part of the country. Why?

Countless details that make 1962's new homes better built, more attractive and liveable, were first tested in the Research Houses which the NAHB has built in the past. A luminous bathroom ceiling, for example, is no great novelty today. Yet it was little known outside of possibly a few luxury homes when the NAHB experimented with an economical installation of a luminous ceiling in 1955, when it built its first Research House.

The home of the late 1960's may well have standard features that are but research dreams today, as a result of the new Experimental House the NAHB is about to build. It will be constructed in Rockville, Md., near Washington, D.C.

To get an idea of how this experimental work can change the homes we live in, it is well to take a look at what has been achieved in the earlier Research Houses.

Ralph J. Johnson, director of NAHB's Research Institute, emphasizes that the fundamental purpose in constructing these test houses is to find ways to "build a better house at a lower cost."

NAHB's first Research House has had virtually a revolutionary effect on home building techniques. It successfully demonstrated the value of using component parts—that is, large panels or other large parts instead of small pieces—in the building of a home.

Some component construction was done before the building of this Research House, in Kensington, Md., also near Washington, D.C. But the Kensington House is credited with giving the push to wide usage of this building technique. Home builders from all parts of the country, in Washington to attend NAHB meetings, inspected and studied the Research House—and went home to put to use their findings.

An NAHB survey disclosed that in 1960 component construction was used at least partially in 62 percent of the new homes produced by the 450 builders contacted. A recent NAHB survey revealed that 48 percent of the builders covered planned to increase their use of component construction this year.

At first glance, it may seem that component construction is of concern only to home builders. But prospective home buyers have an interest in the matter because it affects their purses. It is one way of holding down the cost of a home in an era of generally advancing costs.

More Through Planning
The Kensington House proved too, that living space can be increased by careful design planning without enlarging the dimensions of a house. This Research House is 40 feet 8 inches by 32 feet 8 inches, and is built of four-foot panels.

The interior walls are only two inches thick—in contrast to the 4-5/8 inches which were the standard thickness of interior walls up to the time this house was built. It's interior walls could have been even thinner because they were non-load bearing. That is, they did not have to help support the roof. Use of roof trusses put the support load on the exterior walls.

Johnson, who in his capacity as the Director of the NAHB Research Institute, was closely identified with the development and design of the Kensington House, says that use of the thinner interior walls added from 20 to 25 square feet to the floor area of the house. Thus, more house for the money was provided.

The building crew for the Research House consisted of five men who had never seen this type of construction before. Yet they had the house under its roof in one day, an almost unheard-of feat in 1955.

Since labor costs are one of the biggest cost items in the construction of a home the time-saving building procedure was a money-saver.

Any reduction in construction time also cuts down on waste generally. Loss through vandalism is reduced. Halts in work because of bad weather are fewer. Each of these things by themselves may not save a large amount of money, but added up, they can be impressive.

Other ways in which the NAHB's research program has met the objective of "building a better house at lower cost" will be discussed in subsequent articles.

Local Man Graduate in Eye Fashion

VIRGINIA BEACH—Bernard H. McNamara of Traylor's of this city, recently completed a special course in the fashion and cosmetics of eyewear selection sponsored by the Tura Foundation of Great Neck, New York, a division of Tura, Inc., manufacturers of fashion frames.

Aspects of this course of study included eyewear and wardrobe fashion coordination and the science of cosmetically functional frame ornamentation. Included as part of the program was a complete course in P.C.A. (Prosopie Chromatic Analysis). This is a new science developed by Tura, Inc. and in everyday language, "Prosopie" means an analysis of a person's facial features with a view toward designing a frame to highlight the most attractive features and to camouflage or minimize less attractive facial characteristics. "Chromatic" refers to an analysis made of the basic colors in a person's wardrobe with a view towards color coordinating the most flattering eyewear with the wardrobe.

A few of the many applications of Prosopie Chromatic Analysis include—slenderizing a broad bridge, distracting from the effects of conspicuous lenses, slenderizing the fullness of a round face, and creating youthful effects to counterbalance the "middle aged" look. For men, special frame designs were illustrated and discussed to give men's eyewear a masculine and individually distinctive appearance. Special eyewear problems of teenagers were also analyzed.

Colony Club Back on Full Time Schedule

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Cape Colony Club has recuperated from the March storm damage and is now serving three meals a day, seven days a week in the recreation room, C. Aubrey Taylor, promotional director for the club, said today.

Family Nights, with special menus for the youngsters, are held every Thursday and the popular Sunday Buffets will get underway every second and fourth Sunday throughout the summer, starting June 10.

The pool and snack bar are also open, Taylor said, and luncheon is served on the ocean terrace and the bridge facilities are again available. The bar is open daily at 11 a.m.

The main dining room is the only section of the club still under repair but is scheduled to open by Memorial Day and will feature the John Dierieux Trio nightly, except Mondays, through July 8.

Many special events and pool-side cook-outs are now being planned to make this a fun-filled summer for Cape Colony Club members, Taylor said.

KIWANIS CONDUCTING SPECIAL TWINE SALE

VIRGINIA BEACH—Mayor Frank A. Dusch bought a ball of twine Monday from Pete Boshier, President of the Virginia Beach Kiwanis Club.

Far from being an ordinary purchase of a household item, however, this initial sale launched a Beach-wide door-to-door sale of balls of Indian Jute twine by Kiwanis members. The purpose is to raise money to be used to assist two high school boys, members of the Princess Anne High School Key Club, to attend a convention this summer in California.

Key Clubs are international high school service clubs sponsored by Kiwanis Clubs in Canada, Mexico, and the United States. The Key Club International Convention is being held the first week in July at Long Beach, California.

A varied program will be presented, including: "Let's Laugh and Play and Sing," a canon, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Bach, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," Lutkin, "Kentucky Babe," arranged by Churchill, "When You Wish Upon A Star," from Pinocchio, "Country Style," by Burke, a spiritual, "Goin' to Shout," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

In addition the seventh grade boys will present a medley of Gay Nineties Tunes, including: "In My Merry Oldsmobile," "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie," "Little Annie Rooney," and "On a Sunday Afternoon," with Fred Behning as soloist. The seventh grade trio, Mary Pope, Susanah Athey, and Fred Behning will sing, "In the Good Old Summertime."

The sixth grade girls trio—Sydney Stockton, Martha Korte, and Martha Bonwell—will sing Leroy Anderson's, "The Waltzing Cat."

The sixth grade boys ensemble, consisting of Neil Ohlson, Michael Faulkner, Bobby Belcher, Wayne Coleman, Tom James, George Lyons, and Dart Pullen, will sing Hamblen's, "A Sea Song."

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert which will follow the May P.A. meeting.

Myrtle Beach

Beach Has Kinfolks

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C.—Myrtle Beach is the mother-in-law of Virginia Beach!

It's been common knowledge that the famous South Carolina vacationland of Myrtle Beach and the well-known playground of Virginia Beach have been bidding for seashore vacationers for a long time.

But until this week, nobody realized that Myrtle and Virginia were kinfolks.

Elridge Huffman, Myrtle Beach attorney, made the discovery in Charleston, S.C., where he met an attractive young lady named Virginia Beach. He found out that she is Mrs. Harvey H. Beach and that her husband is the son of Mrs. Myrtle Beach of John's Island S.C.

A look into the records of the Greater Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce revealed that Virginia's mother-in-law is the same lady who entered a Chamber-sponsored contest in 1957. The purpose of the contest was to find a lady whose real name was "Myrtle Beach." The John's Island housewife was one of 20

Proposed Tax Change May Curb Real Estate Sales

PRINCESS ANNE—Ownership and transfer of real estate will suffer a serious blow if the recent recommendations of the Secretary of the Treasury to the Senate Finance Committee to curb capital gains on real estate sales is enacted by the Congress, Homer W. Cunningham, president of the Virginia Beach Real Estate Board warned recently.

The Treasury Department's recommendation would substitute the present high ordinary income tax rates for the lower capital gains rates on the sale of real estate which has been subject to tax depreciation allowances and held for six years. After that the ordinary income rates would apply to less of the gain, but a property owner would have to hold property 14 years and 4 months before all of the gain would be taxed at capital gains rates. This affects all real estate which is used in a trade or business or is otherwise income-producing such as apartment houses or single-family dwellings held for rent.

In addition, the Treasury wants to end all depreciation deduction methods except the straight-line method. Mr. Cunningham pointed out that the National Association of Real Estate Boards testified against the Treasury proposals recently before the Senate Finance Committee.

He explained that the Treasury recommendations would have an adverse effect upon investments in new industrial, commercial, and residential construction because the higher tax on the gain would prove a substantial deterrent to the sale of real estate and re-investment of the sales proceeds in new construction.

Mr. Cunningham added that these changes run counter to the central purpose of the tax bill which passed the House on March 29, 1962. "On the one hand," he said, "the Administration wants to provide a tax credit to stimulate construction of plant equipment, machinery, air conditioning, washing machines, bowling alleys, furnaces, electric ranges, and just about everything but buildings. Not only are buildings excluded from the investment credit provisions, but the Treasury wants Congress to penalize investors in real estate."

"Members of the local real estate board are uniting with Realtors all across the country in opposing this proposal," he said, citing this as an example of how Realtors—members of NAREB—keep abreast of national, state, and local legislative measures affecting their community, and take action in the community's interest.

To illustrate the impact of the proposed change, Mr. Cunningham cited the following hypothetical case:

A four-family structure is acquired for $40,000 and held for rental purposes for 9 years. Depreciation deductions reduced the "book value" or tax basis of the property to $30,000. The property is sold for $38,000.

Under present law, the $8,000 gain is taxable at capital gains rates. Under the Treasury's proposal, 64 per cent of the $8,000 gain, or $5,120, would be taxed at the higher ordinary rate, and only $2,880 taxed at the capital gains rate. For a property owner in the 38 per cent tax bracket this means an increase in the tax of $972.80.

"The basic weakness in the Treasury's position," Mr. Cunningham said, "is that very likely the taxpayers gain is attributable to increase in the value of the land, yet the cost allocated to land was not subject to depreciation deductions. If the Senate Finance Committee goes along with the Treasury, then 'Heads I Win, Tails You Lose' is really part of our tax laws."

"Tax considerations figure prominently in real estate sale plans," he asserted, "and enactment of this proposal certainly would adversely affect all investment in real estate in Tidewater and other communities throughout the country."

Beach's Oldest

90 Years Young

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH—Every day, weather permitting, Capt. Edward Drinkwater leaves his 25th Street home for his farm near Seatack where he spends the better part of the day caring for the 25 steers he keeps there. He never misses a day though last month he celebrated his 90th birthday.

"Capt." Drinkwater, a rank his age has awarded him, now holds the position of the oldest male resident of Virginia Beach, yet his keen mind and enthusiasm are the envy of men many years his junior.

He came here from North Carolina when he was just a toddler; his father was keeper of the old life saving station.

"Why Virginia Beach was just a wilderness in those days," he commented. "The growth was so thick it'd take the curl out of a rabbit's tail. There were no houses. The only activity here were the two men who fished along the beach and took their catches back to Norfolk in a horse and cart."

But his childhood was far from being lonely. He had 12 brothers and one sister to keep him busy. After the life saving station was built in 1903 the Drinkwater family lived there. They, along with all youngsters between here and a London Bridge, were educated in a one-room schoolhouse near the present Holly Road-31st St. intersection by the one teacher, Miss Mamie Overstreet.

Property was so cheap that his father bought 114 acres of what is now the resort area of the beach for $800.

After working 10 years as a lineman ("I climbed every pole between Cape Hatteras and Cape Henry"), he enlisted in the Coast Guard in 1902 and saw service at Paris Hk., Little Island, Dam Neck and Virginia Beach before he retired in 1933 after 30 years.

He saw some pretty rugged times during his service and well remembers February 10, 1904 when he literally froze to the saddle during a beach patrol. He finally slipped out of his coat and hung it, secured to the saddle on the barn wall.

March 7 Was Mild
"That wasn't a storm we had here March 7," he said, "that was just a high tide. I've really seen some storms in my day. Once, with a wind clocked at 105-miles-per-hour, the ocean cut a canal down 25th Street all the way to Linkhorn Bay. The wind took off the roof of the old Princess Anne Hotel down on 14th Street and dropped it about where the ice house is now on Norfolk Avenue. That was some storm."

The Virginia coastline became the graveyard of many grounded ships in those early years but the greatest tragedy was the sinking of the Norwegian ship, Diktator, which sank in 1891 with great loss of life, including the captain's wife and child.

"The ship was loaded with heavy stock timber," Capt. Drinkwater remembers, "and was running in close to shore. The surf was so bad the captain thought he was headed into Chesapeake Bay but instead headed into the beach near the Cavalier Hotel. About 350 yards from shore the ship went aground. This was about 10 in the morning and by that night she broke up. The heavy timber was pounding into the beach. It was mighty dangerous."

Work is now underway in Norway to sculpt a replica of the old Diktator figurehead which stood for many years at 16th Street. Since Capt. Drinkwater is the only person who remembers the wreck, he is often consulted about the details.

The first building here was the life saving station followed by a hunt club located where the Prince Charles Hotel now stands. Marshal Parks instigated the building of a narrow gauge railroad to bring club members here and this eventually led to the construction of the old Princess Anne Hotel that burned in 1907. This was the beginning of Virginia Beach.

Those early years saw visits from such famous sportsmen as President Taft and President Harrison and millionaires such as C. A. Bryant, president of Equitable Life Insurance Co. & Clarence and Ed Wycoff, manufacturers of Remington Rand typewriters, and many others. The budding resort was a secluded haven for the rich.

Mrs. Drinkwater, the Capt.'s wife of 60 years, who is only 80, lives with him on 25th St., but is in poor health. They have three children: Mrs. Baby D. Perry of Kill Devil Hills, N.C., now visiting with her parents; Edward H. Drinkwater, Windsor, Conn.; and Vernon Drinkwater of Virginia Beach.

Capt. Drinkwater is emphatic that he never longs for the "good old days."

"You could offer me the entire city of New York and I wouldn't want it," he said. "This is my home. And I like it just the way it is. I'm glad to see it grow and prosper. I wouldn't want to turn back the clock and have it a wilderness again. Those were hard times."

Seahawk TID BITS

By DARLA SUE DESKINS
Sharpen your red lead pencils, we have important dates that have to be remembered! You can start circling the calendar as soon as you finish the column.

May 5th is a day dear to the hearts of Juniors & Seniors. This Saturday, the gaily decorated Alan B. Shepard Convention Center will be the site of the annual Junior-Senior Prom. The theme of the dance has been a closely guarded secret, some of the Juniors don't even know that we have the theme. The dance will be attended by some 200 and more students plus outside guests (an outside guest is one who is not a member of the Junior or Senior class at Virginia Beach High School). Plenty of planning and plenty of the green "stuff" has gone into the preparation for this 1962 Junior-Senior Prom. As a Junior, I feel qualified in saying that there is every indication that unless you break your leg or break-up with your steady, you should have a good time!

May 11th is the night for open house at V.B.H.S. The teachers have started sprucing, and the outlook for the evening looks good. Parents, teachers, and guests will be entertained by both the band and the high school chorus. The band is under the able leadership of Mr. Dale Browder, who has a very successful and eventful year with the band. The chorus will be under the direction of Mr. J. William Miller, and as is always the case, the audience can expect high things from this group of fine voices. Plan to attend if you have sons and daughters here, or even if you are just interested in what young people are doing come on down and look around. You are always welcome at V.B.H.S.

May 17th & 18th are the nights for Senior BLACKOUTS. This sneaky reporter knows just enough about what is going on to recommend that you attend. There is a lot of talent in the class of '62 and their hard work deserves your support. Do you remember when these people were youngsters? They aren't youngsters any longer, they have grown up and they have developed some of the talents that adults didn't even know they had. Just to mention a few of the "grown up" Seniors who will appear in the BLACKOUTS: Tommy Dennis, Becky Parnell, Gary Williamson, Reva Keeley, Hazel Tucker, Toddy Garrison, and Nani Swerfeger. These aren't all, just the ones I could snoop around and... well you know.

DIVERSIONS FOR THE SICK

So someone in your house is sick! Maybe it was sudden, or perhaps it has been coming on slowly. Anyway, the routine of your home has been disturbed, and you will quickly find it's the little things that make the difference between a contented patient and a complainer. These little things can't be charted or weighed, for they are the diversions and attentions of family and friends.

As the patient, Mother or Grandmother may feel she is a burden, or that she is being left out of the family affairs. If the illness is not critical or communicable the other members of the family should visit in turn, carrying the supper tray or reading a story. A few minutes spared as soon as they return from school or work or a shopping expedition keeps the patient from feeling neglected. They should realize, however, that it is sometimes necessary to adjust one's enthusiasm to the mood of the patient. When visitors are not permitted, pleasant messages may be carried back and forth by the attendant.

A patient returning from the hospital may be upset by the change of routine. Don't let this worry you; adapt some of the hospital routine and gradually ease the patient into home life. Remember that the "T. L. C." (tender loving car) which is most important in the care of the sick is the same quality in an untrained person as in a professional.

A soft hairbow, a gardenia pinned on the pillow, or a dab of color enlivens a woman's spirits, while a shave and a dash of lotion pep up a man. The thoughtful attendant keeps her patient attractive and well-groomed. During the visits of "important" people—the boy friend, boss, or critical caller—she turns on the softest lights.

On the Bedside Tables

Necessities for comfort (paper tissues, refreshing lotion, brush and comb, etc.) should be arranged within reach of the patient who is well enough to use them, although care should be taken with things which might be knocked over. For children, clown and comboy sippers make milk-drinking a game. A bell to call the attendant is almost a necessity. A quiet clock will save a few steps for the nurse when the patient asks "Isn't it time for my medicine?" or "How soon will Jane be home?"

Outside the Room

The noises of the home, particularly the telephone and doorbell, should be softened. Put the telephone on a soft pad or pillow, or call the telephone company. Ask the man of the house or a neighbor to muffle the doorbell. The patient's illness or unpleasant conversations should not be discussed on the telephone or within the patient's hearing. Friends should be considerate by making short telephone or personal calls at a time most convenient for the household.

Visitors

If the doctor says the patient may have calls, they should be brief and neither stimulating or depressing. Business calls should be limited to emergencies only. When well-meaning Aunt Minnie drops in with her long tale of woe, stand by with your eye on the time. A cue from the patient that he is getting tired is a great help. Arrange a private signal with him in advance—a gesture or word that might save him from discomfort.

When friends who cannot come and ask what they can do, suggest a "sunshine box" of

Social Security Changes May Alter Your Plans

There've been some changes made!

We live in a world of constant change—changes in the weather, in learning to use new products, even in the changes involved in the day to day process of growing older. Many of the changes are for the better.

In 1961, there were some changes in the social security law which may affect you and your plans for the future. These changes tend to make it easier for people to draw social security benefits. Among the changes were these:

1. The amount of work required to qualify for benefits is not as much as was needed before the change in the law. There was no change, however, in the requirement that no one may draw social security benefits without credit for at least 6 quarters (about 1½ years) of work under social security.

2. Retired men may now choose to start drawing social security benefits as early as age 62 if they are willing to accept a reduction in the amount of the benefit. The amount of the reduction is 5/9 of one percent for each month a benefit will be paid before he reaches age 65. Persons between ages of 62 and 65, who are not employed and whose wages are low, may want to inquire about how this change would affect them personally.

3. Another important change is the method of considering a beneficiary's earnings that are over $1200 for the taxable year. Under the new law, $1 will be withheld in benefits for each $2 earned—from $1200 to $1700. This means that for most people, they can get more per year in combined earnings and social security benefits. Because of this relaxation in the law, all persons who are 65, or older, should file an application if they have not done so.

Can you spot "Mr. Million"?

Put Your Best Foot Forward!

Of course you can't. "Mr. Million"... the man considering your town as a possible site for a million-dollar plant... looks just like a casual passerby. But in his quiet, friendly way he is asking questions, checking your community for physical evidence of progress, its civic pride, its "go" spirit. What he sees, what he hears, will largely determine whether that new plant comes to your town... or goes elsewhere.

A vigorous, dedicated effort to make your community more attractive to industry can pay off in new jobs, new progress, new prosperity... in greater opportunity for you and your children. So if your town is actively seeking new plants, the time to revitalize community spirit... to spruce up... to create the right business climate—is right now! Because "Mr. Million" may be appraising your town tomorrow!

ON KNOWING THE TRUTH

By Edith Y. Williamson
Asst. Committee on Publications
First Church of Christ, Scientist, Virginia Beach

Doubtless everyone who has ever read the Bible is familiar with the statement which Christ Jesus once made to those Jews which believed on him, as related in the Gospel of John: "If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." (8:31, 32).

In this statement there are three points which the Master has made quite clear. The first is that we, in this world, are believing certain things to be true which are not true at all. Secondly, as a result of such mistaken beliefs, we are in bondage to a greater or lesser degree. Thirdly, when we learn what is true, and cease believing falsehoods, we are made free.

No one likes to be mistaken. Nor does anyone appreciate being deceived. But, judging by these words of Christ Jesus, isn't it obvious that we have been misled somewhere along the way? And isn't it advisable that we discover what led us astray and get back on the right path as quickly as possible? When a young child is working on a problem in arithmetic, and arrives at the wrong answer, the thing for him to do is retrace his steps and find where he made an error. He could never solve his problem, however, if he believed two times two to equal five.

What is it that we are believing to be true, which is not true at all? Christian Science says: "It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy). Here then, is the clue to our difficulty. God is Spirit, Mind, as the Bible reveals. And since God is infinite, there can be no matter, the opposite of Spirit, for it is impossible that there can be more than all "I am God, and there is none else." (Isa. 46:9).

If an individual believes himself to be a mortal man, living in a material world, subject to physical laws, he is in bondage. He is as much mistaken, though it is not as generally known, as the child believing 2x2 equals five. And how does the individual correct this error? Wouldn't it be by realizing he is not material at all, but spiritual, the image and likeness of God, Spirit? Furthermore, man is not partly spiritual and partly material, because matter is only a mistaken concept, not a reality. Therefore man cannot be material in fact; he can only conceive of himself as material, that is, believe himself to be so.

Again, it is only this material concept of himself which is bound; not the real man, himself. So when we begin to understand, to "know" this truth concerning ourselves, we immediately begin to experience a greater sense of freedom. The bondage begins to lessen its hold upon us and sickness, sorrow, sin, lack — whatever the form in which bondage may have made itself manifest — begins to disappear. If one has not endeavored to prove this, can he say it is not the truth?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

How Important is an Inch

Not long ago Genevieve was thirty-seven inches tall. Soon she'll be thirty-eight. Just how important is that next inch?

It's all-important! Without that inch her growth will cease.

Folks sometimes underestimate the importance of a Sunday in Church or Sunday School. What difference, they think, can just one Sunday make?

But every day of worship or religious instruction adds its inch to our spiritual growth. And whenever we neglect the soul's needs, then, temporarily at least, growth ceases.

Children, and adults, too, need to keep on growing spiritually. How different our world could be if all of us reached the spiritual maturity God wants men to attain.

A Sunday, like an inch, is important. Next Sunday is all-important for all of us!

HOMEMADE SOUP TAKES A BOW

Minestrone, the most popular of the thick Italian soups or minestrone, has many variations; each typical of an Italian region. This Creamy Minestrone, an American version, boasts milk which makes it even more substantial and satisfying.

The soup pot simmering slowly atop the back of the range has all but vanished from the kitchen scene.

It's been upstaged by canned condensed soups and packaged dehydrated soup mixes which rate accolades due to ease of preparation and convenience.

Yet it is really simple to prepare soup the old-fashioned way. Using canned or fresh vegetables, or a combination of both, and plenty of fresh rich milk, you can make a hearty soup like Creamy Minestrone that practically prepares itself, needing only time to simmer to goodness.

Legend has it that minestrone soup was a staple food in the Italian monasteries; the kettle was always filled with this thick substantial vegetable soup ready for hungry travellers. Creamy Minestrone is similar to that ancient recipe, with milk added for extra flavor and nourishment.

On a frosty day, this meal-in-a-soup bowl makes a satisfying yet economical lunch for a hungry family. Serve it piping hot, garnished by flakes of pungent Parmesan cheese and accompanying it with crusty bread that's split and stuffed with butter. Add ripe olives to greens tossed with a zesty dressing and fill glasses with well-chilled milk to round out the meal. For finale,

CREAMY MINSTRONE

8-9 servings
Saucapan, 3-quart
6 tablespoons (¼ stick) butter
½ cup minced onion
½ cup diced green pepper
1 cup diced celery
2 cups (1-lb. 3-oz. can) tomatoes
1 cup (8-oz. can) green beans
1 cup cubed potatoes
1 cup carrot coins
¼ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 bay leaf, crumbled
2 cups water
½ cup flour
3 cups milk
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In saucapan melt butter; add onion, green pepper and celery. Sauté until vegetables are tender. Add undrained tomatoes & green beans, potatoes, carrots, marjoram, pepper, salt, parsley, garlic powder, bay leaf and water. Mix well; heat to simmering point. Cover; continue simmering 30-40 minutes. Remove from heat; blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and is heated through. Top each serving with a heaping tablespoonful of grated cheese.

Minestrone, the most popular of the thick Italian soups or minestrone, has many variations, each typical of an Italian region. This Creamy Minestrone, an American version, boasts milk which makes it even more substantial and satisfying.

Asparagus Soup
½ stick butter
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 can asparagus chopped
2 bouillon cubes (chicken)
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups water
1 cup light cream
Dash pepper

Sauté onion in butter, blend in flour, add half of water and cook few minutes. Mix all other ingredients except cream—that is rest of water—asparagus, bouillon, seasonings and onion mixture, cook for 15 minutes (gently). Strain & press through sieve. Now add cream and blend in heat and serve immediately.

SEAFOOD BISQUE

3 cups minced cooked shrimp
1 pint cream sauce
1 pint coffee cream
Salt & pepper
½ cup white wine
Mix the cream sauce and seafood and let simmer a few minutes. Season to taste. Add cream and wine and let get hot. Oysters, lobsters or crabmeat may be used or any combination you desired.

For very rich garnish, you may top with whipped cream slightly salted.

CREAM SAUCE

½ stick butter
¼ tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk

Melt butter in top of double boiler or in a small heavy sauce pan. Stir in flour and blend, add milk and blend in thoroughly with fork—a wire whisk helps keep the sauce smooth. Cook about 2 minutes, stirring constantly until thick.

Rebel '300' to Have Big Field

DARLINGTON — Four more entrants in the May 12, Rebel 300, including veteran Marvin Panch, have now pushed the entered listings past the field limit of 32 starting cars.

Panch, with a brilliant Darlington record reaching back to 1953, will drive a 1962 Ford as will Gerald Duke, College Park, Ga., and Cale Yarborough, Timmonsville, S.C. Tommy Cox, Asheboro, N.C., will drive a Plymouth.

A full field for the $40,000 race is now assured. Bob Colvin, Darlington general manager stated at least four more entrants will sign before time trials start on Thursday, May 10, thus putting a premium on having a good qualifying run to make the field.

Panch, with 13 classic starts at Darlington, is fifth among all drivers having logged competition miles over the historic race course. The transplanted Californian has completed 4,785 miles during which he placed third four times.

Last December Panch was a member of the Ray Nichols Pontiac team that broke the world 24-hour record at Darlington.

Yarborough is the only other of the four drivers to have had Darlington experience. The parachute jumper and farmer started in the 1957, 1959 and 1961 Southern 500s.

4-H JUNIOR STEER SHOW & SALE, MAY 9

The highlight of the year for 21 4-H Club members in Princess Anne is just around the corner.

On May 9, 19 boys and girls who have been feeding steers will walk into the show ring to vie for top honors. Princess Anne also has two heifers; one Angus and one Hereford entered into the heifer show. Naturally, the steer show draws the most interest because of the size of the show. There will be 19 steers from Princess Anne competing with 18 steers from Norfolk County.

The Show is sponsored annually by the Agricultural Committee of the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce.

This year the Show will be held in Portsmouth, either at the Mid-City Shopping Center Parking lot, or in the Buck Child's Field, which is just adjacent to the Portsmouth Stadium. The Show starts at 10 a.m.

The Show goes something like this:

First, the Princess Anne Angus are judged and placed in order of the finish and confirmation. Next, is Norfolk County Angus class. From these two classes the first and second animal from each class then competes for Champion Angus of the Show.

Immediately following, the Princess Anne Hereford Class will be judged, followed by the Norfolk County Hereford Class. From these two groups, the first and second place Herefords will be judged for Champion Hereford and Reserve Champion Hereford.

And then comes the big moment, when all hearts are in the stomachs or throats, depending on how good a chance you think you have for the "big" honor, for at this moment, the Grand Champion and Reserve Grand Champion of the Show will be selected.

Last year Princess Anne just about took all of the honors in the Show, and this year the boys and girls are trying for the same thing.

Following the Grand Champion Class, all 4-H Club members vie for honors in the Fitting and Showmanship Class. This class is when the 4-H Club member is judged on his ability to fit and show his calf, rather than his calf being judged again as far as finish and confirmation.

Sale at 1:30

All 37 steers from Norfolk & Princess Anne will be sold at 1:30, to the highest bidder. Orders have already come in from individuals who want this 4-H beef in their freezers, from businessmen who would like to promote their own business through advertising, and from restaurant owners. Anyone in securing beef for their freezer at very reasonable prices, should call the County Agent's Office, at Princess Anne, for detailed information and to order your beef.

L. B. "Pop" Wilkins, Extension Horticulturist, from VPI, and the ex-County Agent of Norfolk County will be the M.C. of the Show, with Dr. Jay Gossett being the official judge. The official graders will be Mr. J. L. Shelbourne and Mr. C. T. Barnes.

Princess Anne Angus Showmen
The boys feeding Angus steers are: Al Basnight, Jimmy Brickhouse, Lee Durham, Tommy Chism, Jerry Moulton, Joe Moulton, John Moulton, Lee Parker, Jr., Joe Pecsek, and David White.

Hereford Showmen

PROGRAM OUTLINE

In July, 1961, we purchased the steers from several places in Virginia and one farm in North Carolina. Most of the calves came from around Warrenton, Charlottesville, the Valley, Northern Neck, Piedmont, North Carolina, and Princess Anne County. These steers were transported to Princess Anne in September and the 4-H Club members got them on September 16, at the distribution.

The 4-H Club member draws for the calf in the breed of his choice, and also draws for his sponsor. For each 4-H Club Member there is an interested businessman who sponsors him. This sponsorship involves the sponsor pays for the purchase price of the calf, and after the calf is sold in the spring, the 4-H club member pays him back.

When the 4-H'er gets his calf home, his first job is to get him on feed and halter broken. He brushes the calf and leads him every day and usually at the end of the first week the calf is on feed and will walk on halter. The 4-H Club members are visited on the average of every other Saturday by the Extension Agents to give them proper supervision and recommendations.

During the year, many meetings are held with the 4-H Club members, both out on the farm conducting demonstrations, and in meeting rooms giving general instructions on the feeding and management of beef cattle. One of the more popular schools that are held for these Club members is the Fitting and Showing School, which was held at Land of Promise Farm, at Hickory, on March 24. Here the 4-H Club members wash, fitted, and showed their calves to prepare them for the actual showing on May 9.

ISRAEL IFYE WRITES AMERICAN 4-H FRIENDS

The following is a letter to American 4-H'ers from one of the International Farm Youth Exchange delegates who recently spent some time in Virginia. Dear 4-H Club Members:

I certainly feel bad not writing for so long, but I am sure that those of you living on a farm will understand that the farm keeps me very busy. My father had about an acre of carrots to harvest when I got home, and we have just finished.

Ronnie Parsons leads the steer bred by John W. Potter to be shown May 9 at the annual 4-H Junior Steer Show and Sale in Portsmouth. John's steer is the only one of the entries to be purchased and bred in Princess Anne County.

I have given talks about my visit in that beautiful country called the U.S.A. and my unforgettable experience with the people in Montana and Virginia that I was so lucky to visit. My people here were really thrilled with the wonderful hospitality that you showed me. I am proud to say that I have the feeling that by this exchange of ideas, countries and people are getting very close to each other. I want to thank you and all the others that helped make my visit become my most exciting experience of my life. My hope is that someday, somehow, I will be able to return the wonderful hospitality to you.

Very truly yours,
Chaim Fried

DRUG FIRM HEAD PROPOSES PLANT FOR BEACH AREA

VIRGINIA BEACH — A new drug manufacturing firm has been proposed for the Virginia Beach area, Heber B. Lilley, president of Lilley Laboratories Inc., announced today.

By the end of the summer a full line of drugs and medical products will be ready for the market under the name of Lilley Laboratories.

These drugs are presently being manufactured by another firm since the Virginia Beach corporation has just been organized, Lilley said, but future plans call for a full scale plant.

The Lilley plant, to be located in Princess Anne County, will manufacture its own drugs under the supervision of a medical staff. It will eventually employ several hundred persons, Lilley said.

At the present time, the drugs will be distributed on a national and international scale from Lilley's 85th Street home but he plans to open offices in Virginia Beach some time this year.

Lilley Laboratories, Inc., is now headed by the president and a Board of Directors.

A native of North Carolina, Lilley came to this area in 1940 while in the Air Force. He moved to Virginia Beach in 1956. He attended Mississippi Southern College and has been associated with drug wholesale operations for several years.

Lilley lives with his wife, Ethel, and four children at 213 85th Street.

"The pharmaceutical industry is supposed to increase 100 percent in the next 10 years," Lilley said. "Our operation may start out small but we are convinced it will grow. The climate and location of Virginia Beach is ideal for the drug industry. That is why we plan to locate our plant here."

Academy Exams Basis Released By Congressman

WASHINGTON—Rep. Thomas N. Downing today announced that the competitive examination which he uses as a basis for nominating candidates to the military academies will be conducted for 1963 applicants on Monday, July 9, 1962.

Downing said his 1963 nominations to the U. S. Air Force Academy, the U. S. Naval Academy and the U. S. First District residents may elect to be examined in any one of the following Virginia cities: Alexandria, Big Stone Gap, Bristol, Charlottesville, Danville, Fredericksburg, Harrisonburg, Lexington, Lynchburg, Newport News, Norfolk, Petersburg, Richmond, Roanoke, Staunton, Winchester and Wytheville.

Young men interested in attending one of the military academies and in taking the competitive examination should immediately contact Rep. Downing. He will be required by the Civil Service Commission to provide a list of academy applicants by May 31, 1962.

Downing said young men who had already written to express an interest in attending an Academy in 1963 would not be required to contact him again.

SPORTS

Golf, Lacrosse, Baseball And Football Highlight The News

By J. Fletcher Bryant, Jr.
Eugene Corrigan, the University of Virginia lacrosse coach told the sports clubbers of Virginia Beach the lacrosse on the East Coast is growing by leaps and bounds.

Three years ago there were but 45 colleges playing the game and this year there were over 90. The University of Virginia long a power in lacrosse, this year won the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship and in so doing finished third in the National standings. For the first time in 10 years U.Va. beat the University of Maryland before a throng of 7,000 who gathered in old Scott Stadium to witness the high light of the teams season. Virginia has just compiled a 6-2 record with its only losses coming at the hands of Navy and Johns Hopkins the No. 1 and 2 ranked teams in the nation.

Lacrosse a sport that takes a tremendous amount of ability and stamina is very widely played in the East and especially in the Baltimore area. A major sport in the high schools it is not uncommon to find 5,000 fans at a good lacrosse game and only 500 fans witnessing the same caliber high school baseball in Baltimore.

Jim Brown, the Cleveland Browns great fullback, in his college days at Syracuse was one of the outstanding lacrosse players in the country and was selected to the All-American team during his Sophomore, Junior and Senior years.

Gordon Kavanaugh, last week a Sewells Points playing as a guest of Dr. Kirk Merrick, scored a hole in one on the 137-yard, par 3, five hole. Kavanaugh, who plays out of our own Cavalier Club, dropped the ball in the cup on the fly. How is that for a high 70's golfer who is 60 years young.

Baseball is in full swing and the fans of Tidewater have the opportunity to watch the St. Louis Cardinal form hands toil

Rebel '300' Is Attracting Top Race Drivers

DARLINGTON, S.C. — The entry list for next weeks Rebel 300 convertible stock car classic at Darlington Raceway closed with forty cars and drivers signed in the $40,000 event.

Four out of five winners in past Rebel 300s are in the list. Fireball Roberts, the only dual winner, Joe Weatherly and Fred Lorenzen will try to repeat their former victories. Two Southern 500 winners, besides Roberts, will try for a double Darlington title, Buck Baker and Nelson Stacy.

Ford, which has won four of the five Rebel 300s, have fourteen of the entries, Pontiac 11 and Chevrolet seven. Chrysler, Mercury, Plymouth and Dodge have two each.

Roberts, Weatherly and Lorenzen appear to be the drivers to beat although Richard Petty, always a strong contender at Darlington, has picked up surprisingly heavy backing.

Motor tear-down and inspection starts Monday morning with practice sessions carded for Tuesday and Wednesday. The first of two days of time trials for starting positions will come Thursday.

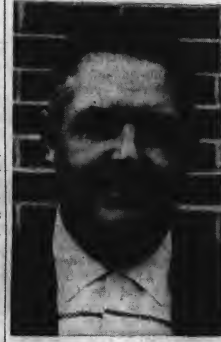

The field is limited to the fastest 32 cars in time trials. Fair weather is predicted for Saturday's 2:30 p.m. start. A 90-minute pre-race show featuring The Citadel band and bagpipers will precede the race. Infield gates will open at 7 a.m. in one of the fastest Class A leagues in the country. The children of this area can pick up free knothole tickets from their local grocer who sells Mary Jane bread.

College football is back in the spotlight with spring practice in full swing at three of the Southern Conference schools. VPI and VMI have found capable quarterbacking in Pete Cartwright at Tech and Butch Nunnally for the Keydets. With glowing reports from two schools, West Virginia, the third, has been heard to be having troubles in them 'thar hills. Fred "Colt 45" Colvard, who had been counted on to lead the mountaineers out of the doldrums has left school for parts unknown. The loss of the "Colt 45" may cause the "Mountaineers" to have to wait a year or two before they begin their rise to the top.

Baseball a game that takes approximately 2-30 hours to play only has 15 minutes of actual action. What about that.

New Service

Poodle Salon

VIRGINIA BEACH — For a glimpse of how the well-groomed poodle should look, drop by Floyd Legg's house at 607-21st Street. Here you will be greeted with a flurry of clipped, perfumed and be-ribboned canines.

They are the products of Legg's Poodle Grooming Service—a canine beauty salon, you might call it.

There is much more to grooming a dog than meets the eye. First he must be brushed and clipped, then bathed and dried, followed by such personal touches as brushing the teeth, clipping the toe nails, swabbing the eyes and ears and a final dash of perfume.

The entire process takes about two to three hours and should be done every 4 or 5 weeks, Legg said.

While this beauty treatment is underway, the "customers" enjoy the luxury found in most beauty salons. Legg has converted his garage into a smooth-operating facility, using a full sized bathtub to bathe the dogs and an adjustable grooming table that once was a dentist chair.

The salon is decorated in a poodle - print wallpaper with drapes to match. A workbench along one wall holds everything from nail files and brushes to atomized cologne bottles.

Legg and his wife, Bea, have three French poodles of their own: two large white males, Jacque and Andre, and a small apricot female, Abby.

A love of dogs drew Legg, a Navy career man, into the poodle clipping business. He started caring for his own dogs and became so interested in it he took a 10-week course in Norfolk sponsored by the Cavalier Poodle Club. Soon he began teaching the classes.

For a while Legg limited his grooming services to close friends. But the demand has snowballed until he now does about 10 dogs a week.

He will retire from the Navy in June after 21 years service, most of it spent at the gunnery school at Dam Neck, and will expand his business to a full time operation.

The grooming service is available to poodles, cocker spaniels and terriers, Legg said, and he picks up his customers and delivers them . . . bright and sparkling, smelling like a rose.

This match will be staged under the Texas death rules which do not count falls but one team must make the other give up.

Next, the country boy Haystack Calhoun, wrestling in overalls, will go up against the former Tennessee football star, Mike Paidousis.

The Orientals will split their team to open the match at 8:30 p.m. with P. Y. Chung facing Steve Bolus and Taro Myaki will meet Reggie Parks.

When an individual realizes he is putting a solid financial foundation under his home, his family, and his children's prospects, buying Savings Bonds becomes an extremely personal thing.

Seahawk TID-BITS

By DARLA SUE DESKINS

Hurray! Wow! It is here. The 1962 Hurricane, the yearbook, has arrived. The color pictures are beautiful, and if you happen to be in one of the pictures it makes 'em even nicer.

Sue Deskins

Congratulations to Stella Morris and her staff, a beautiful job was done on our "Hurricane". The sponsors of the annual, Mrs. C. King and Captain Hood, have a right to be proud. This reporter is only sorry that more people did not purchase an annual, after all it is about us!

It is not often that you find a principal who will try most anything to please his students. Virginia Beach High School is very lucky to have found such a wonderful person as Mr. James Helmer. Saturday evening at the Junior-Senior Prom, at the request of the student body, he attempted the twist. This reporter thought it looked like it wasn't the first time he had tried it—he probably practiced up just for the big night. And a big night it was!

Juniors arrived at the convention center at 7:00 in the morning to decorate. The theme of the dance was "Moonlight & Roses". We had some 1,500 roses, which we had made, to work with. There were a lot of people who really worked — to name a few: Reilly White, Bonnie Walshaw, Jan Shirley, Sharon Jones, David Muggleworth, Jan Gustafson, Mike Hill, Mike Armstrong, Darl Sue Deskins, Kitty Boshier, Fred Taylor, Tommy Ayres, Ann Sawyer, Marilyn Rice, Julia Hoggard, Barbara Seargent, Sandra Dolans, Carol Roberts, Mary Kay Newcomb, Elaine Zegan, Vitor Vanture, Touey Snider. All of the Juniors agree that the most important decorator was the ever talented John Dickens. John rigged the fountain, and he took care of all the lighting. Without his and these Juniors help the dance would not have been possible.

Just a helpful hint: if you are planning a Jr.-Sr. any time soon

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Youth Day 1962

Today is Youth Day in Virginia Beach and the Virginia Beach Rotary Club, as it has done for the past several years, is sponsoring the day's activities in recognition of the youth of this community.

The project spotlights the youth and also points up the responsibility and problems of public officials. The students are selected from the senior class and are, by and large, students who have evidenced interest in governmental affairs.

Youth Day started a few years ago and has grown into a project of great importance. Rotarians throughout the nation have adopted the program in many cities and it has proven to be a very worthwhile project.

The Sun-News is proud to salute the vigorous youth of this community on Youth Day 1962.

Further Praise Given for Sand Replenishment Program

Last week we wrote of the opinion of Army District Engineer Colonel J. D. Snow regarding the worth of the constant sand pumping and replenishment program conducted by the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission for the past several years and the protection it afforded this community from the Ash Wednesday storm of March 7.

Now comes another appraisal of this program by still another expert in the field and the conclusion is the same. R. O. Eaton, a member of the Beach Erosion Board of the U.S. Corps of Engineers is quoted as saying: "If the replenishment program at the beach (Virginia Beach) had not been carried out as planned in 1952, there wouldn't have been much to look at after the March storm." Eaton stated that the sand pumping operation here is a "good example of what can be done to reduce damages" during a storm. He made the comment at Nags Head during the 36th annual meeting of the American Shore and Beach Preservation Association.

According to Eaton's estimate the cost of the sand replenishment program here was returned eight times in benefits during the March storm.

We, too, agree with the experts that the program adopted by the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission several years ago has paid tremendous dividends to the property owners and residents of this resort city.

Drug Firm Announces Plans For Plant in Beach Area

Industry may be making its beginning in the Virginia Beach area if an announcement made this week is criteria. According to the announcement this area has been select because the climate and location is ideal.

The new industry is to be a drug manufacturing plant located in Princess Anne County, apparently near Virginia Beach. It will be known as the Lilley plant with Mr. Heber B. Lilley as president.

According to Mr. Lilley the pharmaceutical industry is expected to increase 100 per cent in the next 10 years. Lilley lives here at the present time and the new corporation has just recently been organized.

The announcement of this new firm opening in the beach-county area is another indication of the bright prospects for this area. The area is attracting more and more industry and we predict that the beach-county area will keep pace with Mr. Lilley's prediction in that this area's number of industries will increase 100 per cent in the next 10 years.

Pleasure Boat Time Calls For Water Safety Measures

The beautiful spring weather enjoyed by Virginia Beach is a reminder to us that there are more and more pleasure boats plying the waters in and around Virginia Beach and that means that it is a good time to remind boatmen of safe water traffic practices.

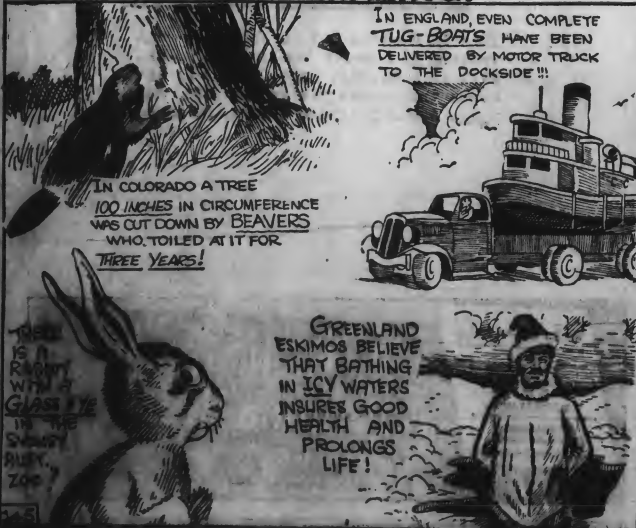

Each year there is a phenomenal increase in the number of pleasure boats and the United States Coast Guard, the agency charged with the responsibility of protecting life and property on navigable waters, is again making a plea to pleasure boat operators to obey the rules of safe boating.

Naturally as the number of boats increases the hazards to safety of life, limb and property increases. The Coast Guard believes, and we agree, that if the boating public is continually reminded of the cardinal necessity for common sense afloat, this will enhance the constant program of boating education and help keep the number of boating accidents and fatalities to a minimum.

The Coast Guard has issued a series of boating safety cartoons which this newspaper is publishing in the public interest. We urge all who enjoy boating to observe boating safety rules and live to enjoy it another year.

Students Transform School Into Art Gallery For Day

THALIA — The halls of Thalia Elementary School bloomed into an art gallery Tuesday when several hundred pieces of student creations were displayed for the benefit of the P-T-A.

"Little of the work was prepared specifically for the exhibit; most of it resulted from classwork projects. All grade levels, from the 1st through the 7th, participated in the show and the themes ranged from finger painting and simulated modern art to the more complex science work.

Of special interest were the talented displays of 12-year-old Danny Hamm, a fifth grader, who solved in several outstanding pieces (a special word of praise for his 4-part antique automobiles) and a 6th grader (a special word of praise for his 4-part antique automobiles) and a 6th grader (a special word of praise for his 4-part antique automobiles).

The school entrance was dominated by a window display depicting a "Panorama of African Wild Life." Made by 6th grade students, the jungle scene contained many assorted wild animals constructed of paper, pipe cleaners, feathers and other odds and ends.

Tiny Artists Several of the first grade pieces were far above average for that grade level, especially the posters on George Washington by Judy Nicholas and a run down on John Glenn's flight by Carol Gurganus and Jimmy Fisher.

Second graders held their own with the older exhibitors with a display of bird pictures. Outstanding among these were 8-year-old Clifford Burgard's cardinal and a Mike Carter's eagle, but all were excellently done.

Some of the art work was designed with shaped pieces of wallpaper and magazine pictures and 10-year-old Kay McEvoy managed to pattern an unusual "Swan Lake" out of tiny bits of paper.—RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Home Repairs

Realty Board Heads Warns Of Fly-by-Night Season

With the spring home repair and improvement season once more at hand, Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County home owners were warned today by Homer W. Cunningham, President of the Virginia Beach Real Estate Board, to beware of racketeers operating in this field.

"The eagerness of many home owners to repair winter damage to their residences or to take advantage of the favorable spring weather in making additions or improvements is commendable," Mr. Cunningham explained.

"As Realtors know, home maintenance is an essential factor in conserving property and neighborhood values and standards. And as long as our home owners contract with our many established, reputable repair and maintenance firms for services and products, results will be good."

"Unfortunately, however, spring always brings a return of fly-by-night operators who annually 'take' the public for millions. It is against this latter group that home owners should be on guard," Mr. Cunningham said in issuing his warning that he was following a suggestion made to all Realtors by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He pointed out that NAREB and its members have consistently sought to protect the interest of property owners in all fields.

According to the Beach County Realtor president, home improvement racketeers flourish in a wide range of services and products—landscape shrubbery, house sidings, patio construction, and "bargain" water proofing jobs on damp basements, to name just a few. While there is no hard and fast rule that may be used by home owners in distinguishing between the claims made by the racketeers and reputable firms, Mr. Cunningham cited six simple steps that have been developed by the Federal Trade Commission from its experience in investigating home improvement frauds. These are:

1. Before signing up for any offered service or product, get comparable cost estimates from at least one competing firm. Reputable merchants are quite willing to have this done. "Hit-and-run" organizations will immediately think of scores of reasons why the home owner should sign up with them immediately.
2. Obtain names and addresses of previous customers from the soliciting firm and contact these customers. Note in particular how long they say the work or product has been satisfactory.

B. O. SLAUGHTER, JR.

Benjamin O. Slaughter Jr., aerographer's mate first class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin O. Slaughter of 821 Carolina Avenue, Virginia Beach, is serving aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Intrepid, a unit taking part in the first Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force exercise of the year, to be climaxed with an assault landing on the island of Vieques, Puerto Rico. The joint Navy-Marine Corps maneuver, scheduled to run from April 9 to 30, includes more than 40,000 sailors and Marines aboard some 83 Atlantic Fleet ships.

addresses of previous customers from the soliciting firm and contact these customers. Note in particular how long they say the work or product has been satisfactory.

3. Make sure that the firm has a place of business. Many fly-by-night groups operate out of very temporary headquarters such as a hotel room.

4. If the product or service is said to be guaranteed, find out exactly what is guaranteed, any conditions that are attached to the guarantee, and who will make good on it if necessary and where he can be located.

5. Be doubly suspicious and ask many more questions if the price of the service or products is a great deal lower than the going price in the Tidewater Area for similar services or products. There are, of course, real bargains. But many so represented are no more than bait.

Mr. Cunningham urged home owners who find that they have been cheated despite taking these precautions to report their experiences to the proper authorities as a public service. In Tidewater the Tidewater Better Business Bureau or your Commonwealth Attorney is the best place to make such a report, he indicated.

Are you bored with television? If so, why not tune in to Cavalier Capers, May 11 and 12 which will be held in the PA. auditorium. The theme this year is take-offs from various television shows & commercials. From "Gunsmoke" to "Ben Casey", this show will be one of the best.

Cox High Tid-Bits

May, being the last month of school, the many events on the calendar are rushing to an end! Students everywhere await the moment of final exams, should I say anxiously? For knowing that exams are ended, these students look forward to fun-in-the-sun this summer.

A good sign that summer is upon us lies in Bermuda hops. To verify this statement, the Y-Teens at Cox are sponsoring a Bermuda Hop, May 12 in the school gym. The price of admission is 50¢ per ticket.

On that same date, the Forman Field Southern Conference will be held. The Cox Key Clubbers are selling tickets — 75¢ per student and $1.50 per adult. The money the Key Club receives from this will enable them to represent Cox at the National Key Club Convention, which will be held sometime during this summer.

As another hint to the coming of summer, the Cox chorus will present their concert, May 16, at 8:00 P.M., in the school auditorium. Among many numbers will be Rogers & Hammerstein's "Surry With The Fringe on Top", "Oh! What A Beautiful Morning", and "You'll Never Walk Alone". From the musical comedy, "The Music Man", comes "The Sound of Music". Irving Berlin's "76 Trombones", a selection from Bach's masterpieces, and closing the concert with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" are all included in the chorus concert.

Layer cakes, pies, cookies and other pastries really sound delicious on a warm summer day. These and other baked foods will be on sale, May 19, at Emanuel's Restaurant & Clyde's Market, both are on Shore Drive, by the Key Club. The food was baked and prepared by their mothers.

Last Friday, the Senior Day Assembly was held in the Princess Anne auditorium. The seniors, in caps and gowns, heard the "Last Will and Testament" read by Berry Folkes and Marlene Armour. The "Prophecy" was presented by Riley Gazzaway, Billy Shield, and Ronnie Godwin.

Seniors aren't the only Princess Anne High School students receiving scholarships. A six-week science and math scholarship at the University of North Carolina was presented to juniors Patrick Sidel and Robert Henderson. The boys will attend special mathematics, biology, and chemistry courses with regular university professors. Congratulations boys!

The Coronet Tri-Hi-Y, as two of its many service projects, donated $50.00 to Camp Civitan and gave (and made) Easter baskets to the children of St. Mary's orphanage. The girls from Coronet Tri-Hi-Y who attended the Tri-Hi-Y retreat last weekend were Helen Estes, Ruth Byrns, Elaine Thornton, and Cheryl Nichols.

The new officers of Theta Tri-Hi-Y are Rena Fishel, president; Tania Gavitt, vice-president; Sandra MacNeil, corresponding secretary; Anne Hefflin, recording secretary; Karen Tuttle, treasurer. The Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y Council composed of the Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y presidents elected the officers for the forthcoming year. They are Rena Fishel, president; Claudia Frias, vice-president; Ruth Byrns, secretary; Barry Almond, treasurer; Beverly Andrews, chaplain.

This week campaigning for the SCA elections began with the announcements of the slate. On May 15, an assembly will be held to hear the candidates speeches. Elections will be held May 17. Good luck, to all the candidates!

Good luck to Berry Folkes, Bonnie Hammerick, and Joyce Brown! These girls are contestants in the annual Lotus Blossom Festival for Lotus Blossom Queen. The Cape Henry Women's Club, sponsors of the festival, will present the annual parade and ball. Each contestant collects pennies at one penny per vote toward her crowning. The girl collecting the most pennies will be crowned the "Lotus Blossom Queen of 1962."

VB METHODIST CHURCH TO HOLD CARD PARTY

VIRGINIA BEACH — A card party will be held in the Virginia Beach Methodist Church social hall Friday at 7 p.m. to raise money to send members of Boy Scout Troop No. 378 to Camp Philmont this summer.

The event will be under the direction of the troop committee from the Men's Bible Class.

Dessert and refreshments will be served and prizes will be given.

The boys eligible to attend the 12-day expedition to the camp in Cimmaron, N.M., are also working to raise money. They recently collected a truck full of old newspapers which they sold to a firm in Norfolk.

Scheduled to attend the camp are Terry Whedos, Charles Sanders, John Ort, Mike Hallock, Stan Phillips, Louis Hubbard and Calvin Jones.

These boys will serve and clean up for the card party.

NORFOLK, Va.—Five employees of Ford Motor Company's Norfolk Assembly Plant were honored by the company here at the plant's third annual Community Service Awards presentation in recognition of civic contributions to their respective communities.

The awards, which were made at a plant luncheon, climaxed a 10-week long competition to select the five employees honored today.

WBOF Recognized
For News Program

NORFOLK — Bob Gheza, Boyd Harrier and Roy Marsh of WBOF received awards for "outstanding achievement" in the broadcasting of radio news during 1961 at a banquet held Friday night by the Virginia Associated Press Broadcasters at the Golden Triangle.

The WBOF awards were given for radio journalism in the comprehensive and special events division. The programs submitted were "1961... Year of the Count Down" and "December 7, 1941... A Day We Can't Forget." Both programs were written and produced by Gheza and narrated by Harrier and Marsh.

Gheza, a native of San Francisco and a former resident of Chicago, came to this area in 1951 when he was writing and producing radio shows for the Navy. With the exception of some time spent at WVEC-TV, he has been with WBOF since 1956. He joined the station as announcer and was promoted to program director three years ago. He lives with his wife, Betty, on Close Avenue.

A native of Sidney, Nebraska, Marsh broke into radio in 1948 in South Boston, Virginia, where he won state awards for news, commentary and sports. He was station manager for two radio stations in Wyoming before coming here two years ago as operations manager of WBOF.

Harrier resides on 24th Street with his wife, Trudy Doss, a native of Virginia Beach, and their two children. Tony, the oldest, is a student at W. T. Cooke Elementary School.

When Harrier was discharged from the Navy in 1946, he remained in this area to work with WGH Radio. He was in television for 10 years as a news and public service commentator and taught journalism and English at Princess Anne High School for two years. While in the education field he served as faculty advisor for the school yearbook and newspaper. He joined WBOF on a part-time basis in 1960 and became full-time news director in June 1961. A native of Pennsylvania and graduate of Pennsylvania State University, Harrier resides with his wife, Janet, and two daughters in Birdneck Acres. His oldest daughter, Marsha, is a sophomore at Princess Anne High School and the youngest, Amy, is a fourth grader at Linkhorn Park.

Ohio radio-television members of the Associated Press judged the contest which drew 41 entries from 10 radio stations and 24 entries from five television stations.

The presentations were made by Colgate W. Darden Jr., former governor of Virginia and former president of the University of Virginia.

Many entries were singled out by judges for special comment and commendation while radio and television contests were praised for the high quality of entries.

Along Beach

Outer Banks Trip

(The following article was written by Hattie Carter, secretary to William B. Lillyman, director of convention sales for Virginia Beach, following a trip down the beach and to the Outer Banks on the famous Beach Buggy service from the Beach. This article will appear this summer in the Virginia Beach Guide publication.)

By HATTIE CARTER

The Jeep jaunt from Virginia Beach to Virginia's Outer Banks is an amazingly rewarding experience. We have done it in the spring and in the fall; in the summer and in the winter. And it is ever refreshing.

The regular trek takes a good four hours, and what an eventful four hours! To enjoy it to the fullest, one must certainly be comfortably and adequately dressed. Loose clothing, consisting of shorts or slacks, a long sleeved shirt or sweater and tennis shoes will be a welcome and suitable outfit. To make the day complete, be sure to pack a hamper of sandwiches, stuffed eggs, fruit, cookies and cold drinks. For the bracing breeze from the sea will certainly whet the appetite.

Mr. Clarence Barco is a colorful and informative guide. His Jeep is a trusty steed and his thoughtfulness and courtesy are an outstanding feature of the trip. He explains the countryside on the ride to Sandbridge, pointing out the Oceana Naval Air Station, (which is the largest Jet Air Base in the world, and Dam Neck, the Anti-Aircraft Training Center; on through the fabulous Princess Anne County farming country and he calls attention to the various homes and farms, with an interesting story to tell about most of them. For instance, there is a tale of Mr. Stone, now deceased, who with his friend Mr. Burroughs, who were E.S.P.'s, and every time they got together, pictures would fly off the walls, chairs and tables would go spinning around the room and beds went leaping around like a jumping frog. Many witnesses have testified as to the validity of this tale and it is really a hair-raiser. Some years ago, a pamphlet was published on the vast experience of these two men and if it is still available, it is highly recommended for a nice quiet evening by the fire, with the wind and rain tearing at your windows and particularly, if streaks of lightning are flashing across the sky!

When everyone is rested and refreshed, the drive on the beach is begun. Over the sandhill you go and at the spectacle which lies before you, a rousing chorus of oh's and ah's rise from the Jeep! A vast expanse of golden sand, rimmed with exhilarating white-capped waves on the east, and the wide beach with low sand dunes on the west, is an adventure that should be experienced by everyone who loves the great outdoors.

Rows of houses have mushroomed at Sandbridge and it is truly a delightful spot to "get away from it all".

On you go, speeding along the ocean's edge as though you were on a mammoth highway. The driver's expert eyes are watching for every minute hazard and his hands are steady on the wheel, so you may rest assured that you're with a competent guide. He has known this beach all his life and nothing of Nature's whims is new to him.

Shipwrecks loom up in the distance and Mr. Barco unravels the lore of their fabulous history. He can tell you the dates of their disaster and the cargo they carried and how many men came ashore. You will feel like you have to get out and touch the old wreck for the story is so realistic that you will be reliving it with the sailors in their distress.

Someone in the crowd will spot a beautiful shell and once you stop to pick it up, millions will come into view and for miles and miles you will thrill to the wonder and the beauty and the glory of the fabulous gems that live on the ocean's floor. It is unbelievable that such fragile and dainty perfection can come in on a turbulent tide and still remain intact.

Col. Pope Named to Army Command Post

FORT STORY — The Commanding Officer of Fort Story has been named to a Staff position at Continental Army Command.

Col. William P. Pope will move to the new position effective July 1, 1962.

His successor as Post Commander & CO of the 4th Trans. Command (Terminal C) has not been announced.

The 48-year-old Transportation Corps Colonel came to Fort Story in September 1959, following a tour as Transportation Officer for Headquarters I Corps (GPF) Far East Command, Korea.

Largely through the efforts of Col. Pope, Fort Story became a permanent Army facility in December 61, after 42 years under a temporary designation.

During his tour as CO, Fort Story youth activities were also rejuvenated. Junior Athletic teams are now active in all sports and the post now boasts a new Junior baseball field.

Under Colonel Pope's "Operation Facelift," numerous post improvements have been made, resulting in an eye-pleasing as well as efficient Army community.

In January 1957, Colonel Pope transferred from the Artillery to the Transportation Corps and served at Fort Eustis for one year.

During World War II he commanded the Third Airborne Anti Aircraft Battalion in New Guinea and the Philippines. From 1950 to 1953 the Colonel served with U. S. Forces in Australia in the Logistics and Plans section.

Following his tour of duty in Austria, Col Pope was assigned to Fort Monroe, Va. At Fort Monroe he was Chief of the Plans and Doctrine Division for the Assistant Chief of Staff for Logistics and Supply, Headquarters, Continental Army Command. He held that position for four years.

He is a graduate of the University of Alabama, the advanced course in the Army Artillery School and the Command and General Staff College. For three years, Col. Pope was on the staff and faculty at the Artillery Center, Fort Sill, Okla.

Col. Pope received a reserve commission in the Regular Army.

The Colonel is a native of Marion, Ala.

PA-VB YWCA

Active Organization

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Princess Anne-Virginia Beach Chapter of the YWCA is fast becoming one of the most active organizations in this area, having expanded its services this year to evening classes for men and women.

Though the local Y has received more public recognition this past year, it has actually been in the organizational process for over four years.

When Princess Anne County was first included in the Norfolk United Fund, a group of local women approached the Norfolk Y about starting a program in Virginia Beach. Many women in this area had maintained membership in the Norfolk division but the distance made frequent trips impractical.

1894 Paper

From the Sea

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

BIRNECK POINT—A teen-ager's natural curiosity prompted Waldo Mowen III to pick up a piece of paper floating near the edge of Linkhorn Bay in the back yard of his Birdneck Point home.

What he retrieved from the water proved to be an Army report written 68 years ago. How it found its way to Linkhorn Bay and how it survived an undetermined period in the water remains a mystery.

Written in 1894

Dated July 26, 1894 "in camp at Ft. Sheridan, Ill." the 4-page report was written in the fancy script penmanship of that time by one "Hugh G. Brown, Capt., 12th Infantry."

The entire document relates how the captain and his company were sent to Hammons, Ind. to restore order to the strike-violent mobs of railroad workers.

Taking about 20 U.S. Deputy Marshals with them, Captain Brown, reported, the group arrived at 5:30 p.m. on July 8 to "restore traffic on the railroad."

"The crowds were demonstrative but committed no assault on the troops," he said. "By 9 o'clock p.m. the rail was clear and trains moving."

"We drew back 3 miles to protect a draw bridge and had to maintain a strong guard during the night to prevent the tracks being again obstructed."

At 7 a.m. the next morning, July 9, 750 militia troops arrived to relieve the Army group and Capt. Brown returned to camp.

Heavy Paper, Fine Ink

The heavy quality parchment paper is in good condition, scarcely damaged by its watery trip, and the fine, brown ink, though faded, is still completely legible.

Waldo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Mowen Jr. of Cheverly Court and a student at Virginia Beach High School.

"The report may have washed out of an oceanfront home during the March 7 storm," he said, "but I still can't see how it got into Linkhorn Bay."

Travel Council Gives Advice To Traveler

RICHMOND — How to see Virginia without bringing your automobile is the theme of a new publication just issued by the Virginia Travel Council. It lists all the air, bus, train and other special facilities, such as Rent-A-Car services available throughout the State. It also lists more than a score of regularly scheduled tours to Virginia available to the public, each of which is conducted at least for sixteen weeks, once or twice a week, annually. Daily tours for individuals are also listed.

The new publication will be distributed to 10,000 travel agents and transportation salesmen throughout America who are "retailers of travel," in the hope that by so doing, Virginia's visitation by common carrier can be increased materially. The Council points out that the number visiting Virginia by common carrier is less than the percentage of the total visiting many other states by other than private motor car.

Committee to develop the overall growth of the Princess Anne Virginia Beach YWCA activities. Mrs. Brennan's group met with four women from a First Presbyterian Church Sunday School class who were interested in teen-age recreation at the beach.

A nominating committee was elected and on July 20, 1961 Mrs. John W. Musick was elected chairman of the 29-member Center Committee. The committee's construction and function is similar to the Board of the Norfolk Y.

This active group now has many plans in the making. They hope soon to have a staff person and have established a building fund for an eventual branch. A membership tea, swimming classes and enlarged YW wives and Y-Teen programs are also among the future plans.

Fifth Office at 9415 Virginia Beach Boulevard

Mutual Federal Opening Plaza Office

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA — Mutual Federal Savings & Loan Association of Norfolk will open its fifth office for business at 9415 Virginia Beach Boulevard Friday morning. The new branch will provide travelers on the beach road with a new landmark in both sight and sound.

Prime characteristic of the building is an 18-foot Carillon Tower from which will be heard the sounds of the 61-bell Mutual Federal Carillon. The tower is constructed of aluminum and is paneled in imported glass. It will be illuminated from within to provide a decorative effect in the night hour.

With the exception of the tower, the new office follows the architectural characteristics of Mutual Federal's other three offices in Portsmouth, Virginia Beach and on Little Creek Road.

All are related architecturally to the main office at Boush and Bute Streets.

The Virginia Beach Boulevard site completes a chain of offices stretching from Virginia Beach to the Western side of Portsmouth. Mr. Nugent estimates that no populous area along the chain is now more than fifteen minutes driving time from a Mutual Federal office.

Robert P. Johnson has been designated as manager of the new office. Mrs. Florence Eason and Mrs. Jeannette Donour will complete the staff.

A special Carillon recital will be given Thursday night by Aline Sebrill Langston. Mrs. Langston, Mutual Federal's staff carillonist, is a graduate of Princeton University of Campanology.

The entire physical plant of the savings and loan firm is new since 1948, when the main office was erected. The Portsmouth & Virginia Beach offices were built in 1955 and the Little Creek branch in 1959. Mutual Federal reported assets of $87,061,958.60 as of April 30, 1962.

4-H Activities and Events

By KEISTER EVANS, JR.
Assistant County Agent

Last Minute Reminder Of Achievement Program

As most of the Princess Anne 4-Hers well know, the Princess Anne County 4-H Achievement Program will be held at 7:30 P.M., in the Kempsville Elementary School, on May 16. 4-H Club members are asked to be aware of the importance of this Achievement Program, and their attendance and participation is very much desired.

We would like to have all the 4-H Club members in the County to come and take part in the recognition which is due them for outstanding work.

It is at this program that awards will be given in the forms of prizes, scholarships, trophies, medals, plaques, and ribbons for outstanding 4-H Club work in many activities, events, and project work.

CLUB EXHIBITS AT ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

Each 4-H Club in the County is urged to prepare an exhibit showing some phase of its activities during the year or any relating 4-H Club field or subject in which the group might be interested in.

Several things should be considered in planning an exhibit for Achievement night: Exhibits are limited in size to two tables. Clubs are requested to prepare their own backboards, if they are necessary. The school has requested that no tacks or taping be done to the wall. No live animals will be accepted in exhibits. Exhibits will be placed in the Cafeteria of the school at 3:00 P.M., May 16. Exhibits will be judged at 6:00 P.M., and those receiving a blue award will receive $5.00 each. Each club should try to have a scrapbook showing their year's activities displayed with their exhibit. The scrapbook should consist of special letters, news articles, pictures, and so forth, about the individual club. The best scrapbook will also receive a $5.00 award and a blue ribbon.

H. W. OZLIN AWARDS

Each year, in memory of Mr. H. W. Ozlin, long-time County Agent in Princess Anne County, four boys and girls receive an award for being the most outstanding Junior boys and girl and Senior boy and girl in 4-H Club work. Any club member who has not received this award previously is eligible. Every club should nominate, an eligible member for the Ozlin award. Clubs that have both Junior and Senior members may submit a Junior girl and a Senior girl and a Junior boy and a Senior boy. These awards are presented to these outstanding 4-H Club members in the form of trophies.

HONOR CLUB RECOGNITION TO HIGHLIGHT ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

Answering the requests of many of our County 4-H Club members, the Princess Anne County All-Stars have worked with the County Extension agents to form a 4-H Club Honor Club in Princess Anne County. This Honor Club will be the highest goal a 4-H Club member can strive for within the County.

With the All-Stars serving as the "mother" organization, the Honor Club will consist of a select group of Senior 4-H Club members who have done outstanding work in many 4-H Club areas. The selection of the finest Honor Club members has been a joint effort of the All-Stars and the County Extension workers, but once the Honor Club is formed, its members will draw up its own constitution and have its own policies as to rules, regulations, standards, selection of members, and so forth.

Honor Club members will be announced at the County Achievement Program, and these members will pave the way for an organization in which outstanding Club members can work in unison.

Rural-Urban Get Together

Monday night, May 7, was the night at which all of the 4-H Club members carrying Junior Steer or Heifer projects in Norfolk and Princess Anne counties, along with their parents and sponsors, and select guests assembled for a supper and fellowship. The event took place at the Harry Hunt Junior High School, in Portsmouth, Virginia. At the Rural Urban Get Together all the 4-H members having a Junior steer or heifer project, along with their sponsors were recognized and entertained with a very enjoyable program, including a guest speaker and other entertaining events.

LAND APPRECIATION TEAM PLACES SECOND IN DISTRICT CONTEST

Princess Anne County Land Appreciation Team traveled to Farmville, on Saturday, April 28, to compete in the Southeastern District Land Appreciation Contest. We are quite proud of Johnny Osmundson, Tommy Chism, Tommy Conboy, and Joe Pease, for an outstanding job in a highly competitive contest. These boys scored just a few points less than the first place winner, and as a result of their outstanding work will very likely be eligible to compete in State competition, at the 4-H Club Short Course, which is held at Blacksburg, Va., the week of June 25-30.

LEADERS TO BE RECOGNIZED WITH BANQUET

Mr. J. M. Tyree, State 4-H Club Agent, will be guest speaker at the Annual Leader Recognition Banquet, at Pine Tree Inn, on Virginia Beach Boulevard, Thursday night, May 24.

The Leader Recognition Banquet, which is sponsored annually by the Agricultural Committee of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, is designed to show appreciation to the 4-H Club volunteer leaders in Norfolk and Princess Anne counties for their outstanding work in the youth programs. Other persons selected to participate in the program are Mr. Ed Ames and Dr. Sam Thornton, both representatives of the Agricultural Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. D. T. Rogers, Jr., and Mrs. Ann W. Frame, Southeastern District Extension agents. We strongly urge all of the leaders from Norfolk and Princess Anne Counties to be present at this event, as it is one of the few times in which the adult 4-H Club volunteer leaders are shown ample gratification for outstanding youth work accomplished.

nearer the shore since the Ash Wednesday storm of March 7 when we were visited by the "Woman Without A Name". Your guide will tell you of how Coast Guard stations are ever a haven to people on the beach who need befriending. You find an overly zealous visitor sometimes, who enthusiastically takes his car down on the beach and invariably runs into trouble; either gets stuck in soft sand or has a flat tire. The Coast Guardsmen come to his rescue and, through the years, many of us have found refuge and hospitality at the Coast Guard stations strewn along the ocean's shores.

False Cape
On you speed to False Cape and Wash Woods. Hundreds of cypress stumps are visible at the water's edge and depict the era, hundreds of years ago, when forests were thriving here, and naturally, the ocean was several yards further off shore. Your guide's explanation of how these communities derived their names is certainly very interesting. Lots of "squatters" have created week-end camps in this area and it is easily understandable that one can find great pleasure in casting away the cares and appointments of the busy weekday, to bid the city and its tempo goodbye for a sojourn in such an atmosphere of complete abandon. There are Coast Guard stations at each of these places, however they are not used as such.

As has already been stated, millions of shells line the beach and enticing sand dunes will lure you to explore. There will be ample time to do all of this before your return.

The trip back is equally exciting. As you spot the Coast Guard stations and the shipwrecks you will feel as though you have met up with an old friend. Maybe you will decide to spread your lunch under the shade of an uninhabited squatter's shack or a fisherman's trailer. Maybe the fishermen will be hauling their seine and to watch that, would be a treat, indeed.

Exciting Trip
More shells will be in evidence on low tide and more cypress stumps will be exposed. More can be seen of the old "Marble Ship" at low tide and every minute will be an unexpected adventure. You'll stop at Sandbridge again for rest and refreshment. And you will appreciate it even more than when you first stopped, for the atmosphere is warm and inviting. Then you'll find yourself eagerly watching for Tabernacle Creek and the lotus gardens, for Mr. Stone's mysterious house and all the other points of interest. Be sure to ask Mr. Barco how Seatack got its name. If your sojourn to Virginia Beach includes only two days for fun and sun, be sure to make one of them include the jeep trip. It's an intriguing experience that you will relate and enjoy and look forward to, from season to season.

U. S. Savings Bonds are a four-lane highway to a brighter future. They help the nation, the community, the thrifty saver, and his family reach that destination.

The MIXING BOWL... IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Mother's Day is the time for mother to take a holiday from the kitchen and let the little ones take over. Mother will surely think it a treat to have breakfast in bed on "her day". And, she will feel especially proud when served a piping hot tray of Whiz-Do-Nuts.

A simple and easy way to make these whiz-do-nuts is to start with a package of refrigerator biscuits. The biscuits can be cut and twisted into different shapes such as knots, braids, twists, flowers, or figure eights. The forms will keep their shape when they are fried. On second thought, better get a couple of packages of biscuits as the youngsters will surely get carried away with the fun of shaping the do-nuts.

A high-quality, creamy white shortening for the frying of the do-nuts is suggested. A saucepan with a deep-fat frying thermometer or a thermostat controlled skillet may be used. Each youngster can have his own part in the whiz-do-nut assembly line. The smaller ones can "design" the various shapes while big sister takes charge of frying. While the do-nuts are still hot they can be dipped—4X sugar—a mixture of granulated sugar and cinnamon. Proportions are ½ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Here is a suggested menu.
Chilled Fruit Juice
Crisp Bacon—Scrambled Eggs
Whiz-Do-Nuts — Coffee
Mother will surely enjoy this breakfast prepared and served by her loved ones.
For 4—
5 eggs slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
½ cup milk or cream
In skillet melt ½ stick butter or margarine — add eggs and cook over low heat until soft and creamy. Stir constantly and scrape from bottom and sides of pan. Do not overcook.

It would be nice to prepare breakfast for mother on other days—not just on Mother's Day. She will appreciate every little bit of help you can give her—and she well deserves it. Don't you think?

Here's a suggestion for Mother to fix for her hungry brood:
Sausage 'N' Apple Pancakes
Yield: 4 servings

1 pound skinniest pure pork sausage links
1 cup thin pancake batter
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 small apple, pared and chopped fine
1 cup maple syrup
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Cook pork sausage links according to the directions on package. While sausage is cooking combine pancake batter, cinnamon, and apple. Drop batter onto a hot griddle which has been lightly greased, so that each pancake will be about 4 inches in diameter. Cook on one side until bubbles appear and under side is golden brown. Turn and cook on other side. Place 2 pork sausage links in the center of each pancake. Fold sides of pancake together and place folded edges down, forming a roll. Heat syrup in a saucepan with butter. Serve over sausage pancakes.

The Well-Dressed Queen

Queen Anne, wife of James I of England, had well filled closets. Upon her husband's accession to the throne, the six thousand dresses of her predecessor, Queen Elizabeth I, became her own. Nor did her love of clothes and jewels pass unnoticed by her subjects. A contemporary writer notes with disapproval her "vanity, night waking, and bawling." Despite these strictly nocturnal diversions she even managed to join the king in hunting, but on one such excursion she accidentally shot James' "most principal and special hound," Jewel. This larger than life-size portrait by Paulus van Somer which hangs in the Anglo-Flemish Gallery at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, Richmond, depicts Anne in fashionable finery of white silk enriched by flowered embroidery, lace, red ribbons and pearls.

By FRANK HUGHES, JR.
Princess Anne Plaza Baptist Church

From the Horse and Buggy Age we move into the Atomic Age; now we are in the middle of the Space Age. The scientists are now aiming their ammunition at a new target—The Moon. At last the target is round, but the bull's eye is yet to be hit. All this talk may be just a lot of moonshine, and not first class in quality. Some woman has already said that she wanted to be the first to visit the Moon. No doubt, she will wear a "sad sack" on the visit.

This space business is cropping up all over the world. A motorist driving along a street in Detroit, Michigan, was the first to notify police that he was worried; "I was driving my wife home from shopping and I saw this guy carrying a huge rocket out of his garage. It must have been 12 feet long."

Next an excited woman called to exclaim: "I just saw a man setting up a big rocket in his driveway. I don't think he ought to shoot that thing up with all those homes. It must be 20 feet long."

Police found "this guy" was a local minister, using the green and white, rocket-like device (made from furnace pipes), to advertise a Vacation Bible School.

If you are interested in Space travel, allow me to suggest that you put some space between you and the Devil. Satan's rocket ships travel in the low lands. However, Elijah boarded a chariot of fire and traveled all the way to glory.

Secure in LOVE

Kathy is secure in her mother's love. Trust and peace gleam in her eyes. Happiness and hope shine in her face.

But Kathy has her heartaches. She falls and skins her knee. Or she loses her favorite dolly. And then her eyes are flooded with tears.

Mommy is always there to help. The knee is bandaged and kissed. The dolly is found. As Mommy's arm slips around Kathy, the tears are dried.

Kathy is secure in her mother's love.

When Kathy grows older her mother will not be able to love away the adult heartaches. But Kathy can turn to God. Her mother's love is but an echo of the Heavenly Father's love for His children.

In faith and prayer, Kathy can find His all-sufficient help and feel beneath her His Everlasting Arms.

The Church guides you to God. You can discover your destiny as His child. You can be secure in divine love.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own soul. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

TOO CLOSE

"How close did it come to you?" asked the farmer, driving up to the tree where his hired man had taken shelter from an electrical storm. "Well," stammered the hired man, still excited, "I don't know, but my pipe wasn't lit before."

EARLY CALVES KEY TO PROFIT

Early calves are the key to adequate gross returns in the beef cow business. Most Princess Anne beef calves are marketed between September 20 and October 20, and they must be big enough by this time to return a profit.

It costs a lot to keep a beef cow one year. This includes the cost of pasture, winter feed, labor, and the many other costs that go into maintaining a beef cow. Therefore, every calf must return a good profit.

Checking records over the past five years, the average beef calf born on December 15 will weigh 544 pounds on October 1 (average weight of heifer and steer calves combined). These calves sold through Virginia feeder calf sales have averaged $135 a head.

Calves born on January 15 have averaged 493 pounds by October 1 and returned $126. February 15 calves averaged 441 and brought $115, and March 15 calves averaged weighing 395 pounds and brought $103. It is easy to see that anyone selling calves in October that were born after March 15, has barely met all his expenses.

A January calf will cost more to raise than an April calf, but the difference in cost is not near the difference in gross returns. An April 1 calf is a losing proposition, but a calf born on January 1 will make a tidy profit, even though his mother will probably eat $10 more feed during the winter.

Early calves do mean extra trouble! A cattleman can't sit by the fireplace during the winter and let the cattle shift for themselves. It is becoming more necessary that the manager be out thinking for his cattle.

The big problem is weather hazards. If the temperature suddenly plunges to zero, those cows near calving must be watched closely. The closer the cattleman can come to a hundred percent calf crop, the nearer he will come to showing a profit at year's end.

A cow herd should be gone through once a week and all the cows ready to calve should be moved in close to the barn so there is little problem to looking after them.

Labor spent on the cow herd at calving time will return handsome dividends. No other time can labor be spent so profitably with beef cows than during this period.

Mud is another problem that plagues the cattleman in winter. There is no health problem with beef calves as long as they are kept out on clean pasture ground. Once they are born, have nursed, and are dried off—cold weather will never hurt them, but mud will immediately bring on scours and secondary diseases.

Keep beef calves away from barn lots when possible and, if necessary, feed hay out on pasture where the ground is not subject to becoming a sea of mud. Where one is feeding silage, it is quite often impossible to get rid of mud entirely. In these cases, the cattleman should fill in with rock or broken concrete and improve drainage to try and eliminate the worst of the problem.

If you have had these problems this winter, you will now have all summer long to try to correct it for next year. Keep in mind that you must have early calves in order to turn profits in the beef cow business, if you are on a fall selling program. At the same time, you must spend labor on them at calving time so as to save every calf and also keep them away from mud so there are no health problems after they get here safely.

Supplemental Pasture Beats The Summer Drought

Although man can't do much about the weather, farmers can plan for the worst and hope for the best.

During the past five years, how many summers have your pastures dried up, your milk production dropped, or your beef cattle stopped gaining?

Think back last year . . . 1960 . . . 1959. Nearly every summer at one time or another there have been extended dry periods.

To avoid this "summer setback," start making plans now to plant a small acreage of supplemental summer pasture. Plan on 1/2 acre for each animal to be fed.

The first question which must be answered is, what makes the best supplemental pasture? For our conditions the annual forage grasses, sudangrass, and pearl millets have been shown to be the best. At present there are six varieties recommended for supplemental pasture: Sudax 11; Greenleaf and Piper, classed as Sudans; and Gah 1, Starr, & common pearl millets.

Experiments testing the yielding ability of these varieties have shown that the sudans are most productive in this area.

Yielding ability is not the only point which should be considered. These pastures can be used for grazing, green chop, hay or silage. You may want to cut them as many as 4 times. Therefore, their ability to recover from cutting may be as important as total yielding ability.

Let's look at each of the recommended varieties and see their strong and weak points:

Sudax 11, a hybrid, is the highest yielding variety tested during the past three years. It is more stemmy, with larger leaves and better disease resistance than the regular sudangrasses. Its best use would be as green chop. It recovers rapidly after cutting.

Greenleaf contains a relatively high proportion of sweet plants which may increase animal intake. Its yield has not been as high as Sudax 11 but has been satisfactory. Because of the finer leaves and stems, it can be used for making hay or grazing.

Piper has good seedling vigor and is earlier maturing than other sudans; therefore, it would probably be the best choice for late plantings after small grains. Hay or green chop would be its best use.

All of these sudan grasses have the potential to give prussic acid poisoning. New growth should not be used for grazing, hay, green chop, or silage until it has reached a height of 18 inches regardless of whether growth was stopped by harvest, drought or frost.

Now let's look at the pearl millets.

Gah 1, a hybrid pearl millet, has been the highest yielding of all the pearl millets across the state. It is characterized by good seedling vigor, leafiness, late maturity, and good recovery. Because of its size, its best use is for green chop. It can be used for grazing if intensive rotational grazing is practical.

Starr is the leafiest, highest quality of the summer forage grasses. Although its yield is less than other millets, many persons find the better quality worth the reduction in yield.

Common pearl millet is not a variety, but merely seed of pearl millet which has lost its varietal identity. Generally speaking, fields planted with these seed have done well, although there is considerable variation between fields planted with seed from different lots.

Two major advantages of pearl millets are that they are non-toxic at all stages of growth, and they have better resistance to disease than the sudan grasses.

It's true that you can't change the weather, but you can reduce the losses that dry weather causes by taking advantage of what is known about the weather.

Tempting Fate Is AAA Theme

WINNER, AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

The pedestrian who walks in the road with his back to traffic is tempting fate, according to the Tidewater Automobile Assn.

"Twenty per cent of pedestrians killed in rural traffic accidents were struck down while walking in the roadway," said the AAA Club. "In the country where the absence of sidewalks sometimes makes it necessary to walk at the edge of the road, the only safe procedure is to walk on the left facing traffic. It is possible to see traffic coming this way, and thus avoid danger."

A safety poster illustrating the theme, "Walk on the Left Facing Traffic" is being distributed to schools in Virginia.

Beach as part of the regular monthly safety education program of the Tidewater Automobile Assn.

The new poster, designed by Thomas Crickelair, 10, and Kevin Butler, 11, both fifth grade students at St. Catherine School, Glen Rock, New Jersey, was a first prize winner in the American Automobile Association's National Traffic Safety Poster Contest. The prize was awarded by a panel of nationally-known judges, and the poster will be reproduced and distributed by AAA Motor Clubs throughout the country.

GETTING AROUND

NEXT WEEK, Memorial Hospital in Hollywood, Florida, will celebrate Mother's Day by presenting to the mother of the first child born on Sunday, May 13, a paid-in-full hospital bill for room and board. In another salute to this season, Memorial will hold its annual Baby Derby Day, when it invites all the children who've been born there since the hospital was built, nine years ago, and their parents, too, for a big party on the front lawn. Each year hundreds of people join the hospital staff in the fun at the reunion.

Little Lisa Steingart, seven, of Whitefish Bay, Wisconsin, has been losing her baby teeth for some time now. Each time one came out, just until a short while ago, Lisa has been putting it under her pillow, where the "Tooth Fairy" has exchanged it for 25¢. The last time it happened, however, Lisa refused to follow the usual pillow procedure. When her mother asked why, she calmly explained, "I think I can get at least 50¢ from Grandpa."

A government official was addressing the Fairfield, Connecticut, League of Women Voters one day on the subject of population distribution in their area. He told them that all they'd have to do to be elected to public office was get together because there were 6,117 more females than there were males in the electorate. "As you can see," he beamed, "you outweigh us." At that point, a slim lexicologist in the audience objected: "Please! Outnumber, not outweigh."

We hear that inmates at the prison at Stillwater, Minnesota, who are allowed to wear their own clothes during weekend-recreation periods, have been cautioned against wearing blue Bermudas shorts. Any other color is perfectly fine, said warden Ralph Tahash, but blue Bermudas are reserved for the guards.

Oh Texas, dear Texas! The operator of a drive-in movie near Mesquite, Texas, put up this notice: "Please answer your car telephones promptly. Don't disturb other patrons."

The children of the 2,400-family parish of St. Thomas the Apostle, in Old Bridge, New Jersey, got together about two years ago and began saving trading stamps. In 16 months they had collected 5,000,000 stamps, enough to buy a 66-passenger bus, valued at $8,000, which they proudly presented to their church.

Here is some common-sense safety advice for campers and hikers, now that the woods are calling: Always let someone know where you're going and how long you expect to be gone, says Arthur Israelson, of the Parkrose, Oregon, Fire District No. 2, and a member of the Oregon Mountain Rescue and Safety Council. If you suddenly decide to leave your car and go for a hike, put a note on your windshield stating your proposed destination. Even experienced hikers sometimes lose their bearings and need help, so never take a trip into the woods without the following four items in your pocket: waterproof matches, the stub of a candle to start fires, a good sharp knife, and a loud whistle. Three of anything—three whistles, three markers—is a distress signal in the out-of-doors.

A Weston, Connecticut, commuter has a four-year-old daughter who insisted on having her favorite story, "Little Red Riding Hood," read to her each night. After a few nights of this, her father got a tape of the story and taught Laurie how to turn the recorder on and off, and settled back for a little rest. All went well for three days, but on the fourth evening she walked up to him and held out the book. "Now, now, Laurie," he said, "you know how to work the tape recorder." "Yes," she said, "but I can't sit on its lap."

Faced as we are with the acute shortage of help in our hospitals, it is good to hear about the Self-Service Unit established at the Manchester Memorial Hospital in Manchester, Connecticut. Patients in the unit are well along in convalescence or hospitalized merely for diagnostic tests or observation. Being fit for self-service, they take much of the load off the staff by walking to meals in the cafeteria, straightening their own rooms, and drawing their own baths. They are charged considerably less for this kind of do-it-yourself hospitalization, and everyone benefits.

Alas, says Ruth Stocks, of Decatur, Georgia, antidiestablishmentarianism, one of her favorite words and formerly the longest word in the English language, has to relinquish the title. She wants us all to hear about the new champion, a 45-letter blockbuster: pneumonoultramicroscopicsilicovocanoconiosis, a miner's lung ailment.

About seven years ago, reports Leroy D. Lind, of Mount Clemens, Michigan, his sister Bonnie was working in the garden and dropped a valuable ring. The whole family searched for days, but the ring never turned up. Well, says Mr. Lind, just recently Mother Nature gave it back. Bonnie was weeding in the garden that had been dug up and replanted so many times since she had lost her ring in it, and there, glistening on a beanstalk, was the jewel. The plant had grown through the ring and had pushed it up above the ground.

Dorothy Janke of Colby, Kansas, says, "Tally-hoe, gardeners!"

Tips for Happy Travel

BY TEMPLE FIELDING

author of "Fielding's Travel Guide to Europe"

TODAY'S EUROPE offers three major classes of travel—First Class, Economy Class, and a clandestine classification called Lazybones Class. The last is the best, but its practitioners are deplorably sparse.

After more than a million miles of foreign footwork, tummywork, and roadwork, my wife Nancy and I at last can qualify as journeymen professionals on the Lazybones circuit. Thus, for fellow connoisseurs of indolence, here are our pet shortcuts for touring—some general, some family secrets, and all learned the hard way:

1. Give yourself time, time, and more time for every stop on your itinerary. Eager-beaver neophytes who try to gulp down 12 countries in 20 days are sure to drag themselves home with a flaming case of gastronomic and cultural indigestion. (Worse, their cameras and their eyeballs click so fast that often they can't identify their classiest snapshots!) Pick three to five lands—no more!

2. Avoid overambitious calendaring as you would a basket of cobras, because hour-to-hour advance commitments will strangle you as mercilessly as a 12½ collar on a 17½ neck. Without fail, set aside a minimum of one morning or afternoon (20 to 40 age group) or one complete day (over-40 age group) per week, as a no-schedule interlude—strictly for dozing, reading, letter writing, and recharging your batteries in the peace and privacy of your hotel room. Conservation of your vitality level for the grind still to come is the key to the success of your whole junket. As a corollary, be careful to side-step early-morning or late-night flights if an alternate is available.

3. If you're traveling day-in and day-out on a tight budget, unfurl that undermourned bankroll at regular intervals—and shoot the works. There's nothing so soothing to tense nerves and to penny-squeezed morale as an occasional all-out plunge into the de luxe pamper treatment—and you can tolerate bread and cheese as penance.

4. Discuss the immediate execution and unhalloved interment of any member of your family who takes more luggage than he or she can pick up and tote for 100 yards. Here's an infallible rule-of-thumb: (a) Assemble all of your bare minimum essentials—the things that you are certain you must have—on one side of a large room, (b) pare them down, with walls of agony, by 20%, (c) transfer 50% of what's left to the other side of the same room, and (d) pack the rest. Each bag over two—including hatboxes—is a ball-and-chain that will constantly threaten to sink you.

5. Garb for lazy wanderers? The most practical dodge, of course, is interchangeability—the art of making four outfits look like two dozen. Because none of us is beating his way up the Ubangi River or taking a five-year lease on the superplush penthouse of Paris' Hôtel Bristol, always give the nod to the normal, sensible, easy-fitting garment—the kind, say (since Continental dress habits are more conservative than ours), that we'd wear when an Important Account comes to our house for a meal. No taffetas, tulle, heavy tweed raincoat, or the like; no Hawaiian shirts (they make foreigners shudder!); a pair of comfortable old shoes for Him; two pairs for walking and one for glamour for Her. A favorite strength-booster of Nancy's is her high-fashion wig, which she pops over her coiffure whenever she's too busy, too tired, or too late in arriving at a strange city to visit a hairdresser.

6. Whenever you're cheated on a trivial amount (and you will be), pay it and forget it. What's the difference, for a lowly dime or quarter? Your blood-pressure index and your insurance company will be grateful. So will your companions, who will appreciate your equanimity. However, if the shearing runs into substantial money, quietly verify the entries and the arithmetic on all bills, and with equal quiet arrange for their correction if "errors" appear. (Please remember, however, that the European system often tags bills with unfamiliar but legitimate extras.) Finally, when the sommelier tosses you a patronizing sneer as he brandishes his wine list, don't let it start you on the road toward a coronary. (He does it to everybody.) Just sneer back, twice as hard—but calmly, of course! 6

7. Examine fellow tourists top, bottom, and sideways before offering or accepting overtures of friendship. On second sight, they might not be what you'd hoped—and we know of no greater strain than polite nonstop yakking with bores or clingers all the way from Tenafly to Tenerife.

8. Always take breakfast in your room—preferably in bed (yes, in bed!). If you charge downstairs so early, freshly attired and full of beans, you're unnecessarily burning up millions of ergs which should be guarded for that long day ahead. Sissy? Not at all. It's a universal European-hotel custom, delightful once you've succumbed.

9. The siesta, in these two correspondents' opinions, ranks as the traveler's best friend—especially when the weather is hot. Dance your legs off the night before; sight-se your head off all morning; then, after a perfectly poured portion of your favorite bottled dalliance (to nudge Morpheus) and a delicious lunch, indulge yourself by stretching out in blissful languor for this daily 40 winks. You'll be the tiger of the evening's festivities—while less enlightened souls in the party will wilt like last month's lettuce.

10. Wine seems to be great any time for European digestions, but most American stomachs simply aren't built to cope with its acidity on an every-meal basis. Reserve its delights for the main repast only and curb your consumption to a top limit of three glasses. (Consolation: the ice water in every major European city is safe to drink—and, what's more, it's free.) Motorists and train trippers are often happy as hummingbirds if they invest in a small, local thermos and snacks of their choice for en route usage. The excitement of travel classically generates raging appetites. Gentle off-hour nibbling prevents overstuffed midriffs at the destination and subsequent dreams about in-laws in eight-hour marathons. To nail that dreaded whammy known as the Tourists' Complaint, a standard remedy called Entero-Vioform is available in almost any pharmacy on the Continental map. Salt tablets and dextrose are excellent picker-uppers on those steaming summer excursions, especially around the Mediterranean. And last (but kilometers from least), our candidate for the best tonic in the world for overeating, flatulence, hangovers, gas pains, lifting yourself off the floor when you've mixed oysters and bananas is Fernet Branca, the Italian bitters. The taste is horrible, but the effect is atomic.

11. Tips on energy saving.

■ Mark all of your bags (even the overnights) with your own private symbol in adhesive or miracle tape. The airport or hotel porter can then spot them at once—and you're off and running, while the rest of the mob continues to wigwag its arms and make like bird dogs.

■ Before leaving the U.S.A., buy $10 worth of the currency of each nation you plan to visit. Sometimes there are long lines at the frontier change booths, and these delays can seem the last straw when you're weary.

■ A currency converter—instant translation of unfamiliar foreign money into dollars—is an indispensable shortcut and convenience to any voyager.

■ Carry your passport on your person—never in your luggage, which might be lost. Guard it more carefully than your wallet or your mate. Without them, you can move—but without that priceless document, you're liable to be up to your collarbone in foreign-police molasses.

12. Arrange in advance for your sloth. Allot your major indolence spawdwork to your travel agent. On the larger issues, he'll keep you wrapped in cotton. Set forth with the advance awareness that European innkeepers, shopkeepers, waiters, maids, and other staffers expect to give you better, more comprehensive, and more personal service than do their colleagues in the States. Hand your passport to the striped-pants reception clerk at the front desk of your hotel and get him to fill in your registration forms. Ask the concierge (hall porter who wears the crossed keys) to send someone out to buy your aspirin or to arrange the repair of your broken-zipped suitcase or to perform any trivial errand that would needlessly expend your time or your energy. Turn over your packages or bulky brief case to a chasseur, picciolo, or botones—page boy, in English—and let him lug everything to your room. Get the floor valet or the maid to do the lion's share of your packing and unpacking, whenever you're overtired or overruled or over-anything. Furnish the name of the restaurant or store you wish to call to the switchboard girl and let her bump her head against the mysticism of that exotic phone directory. Order your taxis from upstairs and let them tell you when they're ready at the door. Reserve your railway seats (when permissible) through the conciierge at least 48 hours in advance and let the station porter fight your path through the milling, pushing throng to that beachhead of calm which your foresight has secured.

BIRD CREATED 100 MPH WINDS with two 2300 horsepower engines, and pumped a 1200-gallon-a-minute stream of water into the blow. Result: conditions as furious as Dona, Carla, etc., which have proved Bird Wind Seals hurricane-proof year after year.

THESE HURRICANE-FORCE WINDS AND "BAM" were directed onto a roof shingled half with ordinary shingles and half with Bird Wind Seal Shingles. A U.S. Weather Bureau instrument clocked the blow at an official 100 mph, which is fierce hurricane velocity.

BIRD WIND SEALS NEVER BUDGED (right) despite the fury of the wind, but ordinary shingles (left) ripped loose. That's why Bird Wind Seal Shingles meet the Underwriters' Laboratory tests for wind resistance and bear the U.L. Wind Resistant label.

HERE'S WHY: the sun's heat sets these dots of powerful adhesive into sticking action, sealing every shingle down in a grip that won't let go. Bird Wind Seal Shingles are highly fire-resistant too, and surfaced double-thick where the wear comes for longer life on your roof.

Will You Be Living All Over the

A light but strong dome covers an entire suburban lot in this artist's cutaway sketch of Buckminster Fuller's concept of the home of the future. Control of temperature, moisture, and sound would eliminate the need for conventional rooms and outdoor areas—and allow for much freer space usage.

Buckminster Fuller

It's no dream—with 1,000 domes already in commercial use, architect Buckminster Fuller is now planning for family life in this "Garden of Eden" dome

BY CATHERINE TAYLOR

THE "GARDEN OF EDEN" Dome sketched on this page is an exotic version of a structure fundamentally practical. Simplicity of design and construction makes it possible to build or dismantle it in a day, and domes already in use have proved themselves strong, efficient, and cheap.

"We overbuild," declares the designer, Richard Buckminster Fuller, discussing conventional housing. "The function of the house as a fortress is gone."

As early as 1927, he pioneered the application of shipbuilding and airplane technology to architecture. Departing from the age-old brick-on-brick, beam-on-post use of materials in compression, he employed new light alloys and plastics in compound systems of compression and tension. From these more efficient systems and from his contributions to spherical geometry came his dome, built out of triangular units.

The structure already has lent itself to a variety of uses—for a restaurant at Woods Hole, Mass., for instance; for a pavilion at Winthrop Rockefeller's Winrock estate in Hot Springs, Ark.; and for the largest clear-span enclosure anywhere—the all-Steel Union Tank Car Company's plant in Baton Rouge, La., 384 feet in diameter and 116 feet high.

In the years ahead, Fuller forecasts other big domes, enclosing entire lots, with the families sheltered beneath.

"You are living in the garden," he explains. "It's never going to rain. It's never going to blow. The ground is dry, not too dry; drainage, as a part of the landscaping, can regulate this, and also prevent freezing, even in very cold climates.

"The dome can be designed in various ways—with wood struts, for example, replacing aluminum. Instead of a clear plastic cover, you would probably want a combination of opaque, translucent, and transparent sections.

"You have several times as much living space as in a conventional house, and the drudgery of physical existence is reduced.

"Once you have a large, controlled environment, living quarters can become secondary pavilions inside the garden. There might be rosebushes by the bed.

Back of the lemon trees might be the bathroom. Besides landscaping, opaque panels such as silk screens, can provide visual privacy. Solid walls are not needed for aural privacy because there is so much space that noise is swallowed up—much as voices at the other end of a garden party are inaudible.

"Each pavilion should be temperature-controlled locally—with radiant heat or air conditioning. The stability of a large enclosure reduces the amount of heating and cooling required, however (think of a barn: warmer in winter, cooler in summer, than outside)."

THE COST of arcadian dwelling will come comparatively high, Mr. Fuller concedes, in the custom-crafted stage. The dome shell will run between $5 and $10 per square foot.

"Beyond that, it depends on what you want—how many swimming pools, your own putting green, a peach orchard." As has already been proved with other models, however, mass production could bring the price well below that of conventional construction. Mass-produced like an automobile, for example, the dome should sell for less than "its weight in auto." One 114-foot dome, recently built in aluminum and plastic, weighs four tons, the weight of two cars.

Buckminster Fuller's goal is "more and more of everything, for everybody, from less and less resources." This has been the inspiration of his long and steady stream of dwelling machines, autonomous living packages, vehicles, maps, domes, and systems of mathematics, which have been viewed at times with skepticism, if not disapproval, by architects, industrialists, unionists, mortgage bankers, and framers of building codes. About the time that he and his wife decided to become America's first dome-homeowners (in Carbondale, Ill., where he is now Research Professor at Southern Illinois University), Mr. Fuller composed the following verses during one of his seminars (to the tune of "Home on the Range"):

Let architects sing of aesthetics that bring

Rich clients in hordes to their knees;

Just give me a home in a great-circle dome

Where stresses and strains are at case.

Chorus:

Roam home to a dome
No banker would back with a dime;

No mortgage to show, no payments to go

Where you dream, dwell, and spend only time.

YOUR EDUCATION DOLLARS

Rising school costs needn't box you in. A survey of suburbs from coast to coast uncovers new ways to hold costs down and still give our children a good education

THE BIG SQUEEZE has caught virtually every suburban school district from coast to coast: More and more pupils must be taken in. Demands are being made for faster and better education. On the other hand, taxpayers are faced with rising costs of everything, from pieces of chalk to teachers' salaries.

Are there any ways out? What can be done to stretch education dollars—without impairing education itself?

SUBURBIA TODAY put these questions to local newspaper editors—and, through them, to school-board members and administrators. We asked how their towns were coping with the squeeze.

Before we report on their answers—unexpectedly encouraging they were, too—bear in mind that the flight from the cities goes on and on, and by 1965 suburban public schools will have to find room for an estimated 700,000 to 750,000 additional pupils every year.

It's not just a problem of continuing to find enough money to build more schoolhouses. It's even more a problem of getting the utmost in efficient service out of every cubic yard of space in every school building, old and new, and out of every capable teacher, the number of which is still not increasing in proportion to the need.

Now let's look at some of the answers our respondents have found, or are seeking.

First, finding money for new school buildings.

Edited by
GEORGE
FIELDING ELIOT

We'll have to face it, the taxpayers are not always willing to meet the needs as set forth by the educators. In many parts of the country, bond elections are being turned down by school-district voters; thus Redwood City, Cal., reports that school boards are trying to get more effective use out of existing buildings because of denial of new ones.

In Fayetteville, N.Y., a proposed $360,000 auditorium in a new high school was submitted to the voters as a separate item. They authorized the school but turned down the auditorium on the ground that two others already exist in the district.

Fayetteville is, however, one of a number of communities—North, South, Midwest, and West—to adopt a plan that seems well fitted to the exploding suburb: the buying of school sites in advance of need, before land values go up with expanding residential development. Raytown, Mo., estimates savings of $150,000 to $200,000 on such long-range land purchases. Bellevue, Wash., says this is "the one practice which has resulted in the greatest economy . . . in (our) school-building program"—in many instances school sites have been bought three or four years ahead of the time they were needed, at savings of 50%.

Another interesting economy plan has been evolved in Mesquite, Tex., where the school district "has participated with the city of Mesquite in joint planning, acquiring, and developing of school-park sites," reducing total acreage needed for schools and parks if these were acquired separately. "The joint location permits park facilities to be used by pupils and school facilities (e.g., parking areas, rest rooms with outside doors) to be used by both adults and children using park facilities and recreation fields."

Educational facilities laboratories, established by the Ford Foundation, reports that joint planning is becoming more common. They cite Plainview, in Nassau County, N.Y., where a new junior high school is to be built in the middle of town. By 1965, this location will also include a senior high school and probably a public library; there will be an auditorium-theater to be used for a civic theatrical and concert series (as well as school purposes), a home economics room for Girl Scouts and the 4-H Club, an industrial arts area for Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts, an art room for adult art classes, pool and gymnasium for year-round teen-age and adult-recreation.

Ten times faster than raking

A Parker Sweeper picks up everything... grass clippings, clumps, leaves, twigs, other debris... to give you a cleaner, healthier, more beautiful lawn. And Parker sweeping is ten times faster than raking. Parker is a quality sweeper, too. It's built to last for years and years. It's the kind used by greenskeepers, and they're the men who know. tion programs, and a cafeteria for community functions that require dining facilities—all jointly used and supported. The school library will be a supplementary operation to the public library.

At Wayland, Mass., the town and school board spent $4,000 to cross index the high-school and public libraries, resulting in more effective use of both and considerable economies. While the practice of using school buildings for occasional civic purposes is virtually universal, the financial relief to school budgets is small compared with that made available by joint planning and building for multipurpose uses.

Including schools as planned sections of apartment houses or office structures is under study in several areas. Cooperation between two adjoining school systems to create jointly used facilities is a widespread practice. Marietta, Ga., reports two school districts are building a joint vocational trade school.

SOME OTHER dollar-saving ideas: Highland Park, Ill., used substandard land to put up an administration building, releasing office space in school buildings for classroom use. Sylvania, Ohio, with six schools and 30 buses, staggers school hours and bus-starting times, cutting the number of buses to half of what would be needed if all started at the same time. Arlington, Tex., uses all-metal auxiliary buildings to fill in gaps when enrollments are rising fast "and tax money is yet to come."

Nationwide, PTA's are raising funds for many school-connected purposes, most notably for scholarships. Hopkins, Minn., runs a series of PTA carnivals yielding $1,600 to $2,000 per evening, which "convert a school building into a glorified fun and games house"—parents and teachers man booths, sell tickets, serve refreshments.

"Cutting out the frills" in school construction is a favorite conversation topic in suburbia, but whether it is a dependable money saver is widely disputed. Here and there, we find reports of low-quality materials being used to save capital costs at the expense of future maintenance charges, but these are the exception. Insistence on quality is the rule.

Auditoriums and cafeterias are being increasingly located in the same space—for which the word "cafetorium" has been coined. Attempts are being made to have two or more schools use such facilities jointly.

One "frill" that raises taxpayer hackles more than most is air conditioning; but it appears that while putting air conditioning into an existing building is certainly expensive, a new school designed for air conditioning can actually cost less than one not so provided. In Pinellas County, Fla., bids were recently let for two junior high schools—one the typical Florida school designed for maximum breeze cooling; the other, with the same educational space, designed for air conditioning. They were bid in, respectively, at $680,000 and $664,000. South Park High School, outside of Beaumont, Tex.—an unusually compact design, fully air conditioned—will cost, it's estimated, about 15% less than typical schools in the area. In part, these savings result from use of interior (windowless) spaces. Whether such spaces are wholly acceptable to teachers and pupils is disputed. Thus teacher reactions at Hillsdale High School, San Mateo, Cal., have been generally favorable, but some visitors there still get a suggestion of claustrophobia. The increasing tendency toward all-year use of schools cannot be developed in warmer areas of the country, however, unless internal temperatures are such as to provide reasonable comfort.

The need to make the most efficient use of every qualified teacher becomes clearer when you learn that the annual input of new teachers is currently filling only about one-third of the demand. There are two common methods of spreading the existing teacher staff over a wider spectrum of usefulness. One is team teaching. The other is the increasing use of audio-visual aids, especially television. The majority of our respondents report that one or both of these ideas is in use in their high schools, and to some extent in elementary schools. Tv is very widely used, indeed; team teaching is somewhat less generally popular but is gaining.

BUT HERE AGAIN we find the need for long-range planning, since both team teaching and tv give best results in buildings specially designed to make use of their effectiveness. The basic idea of team teaching is to get away from "the dominance of the unchangeable classroom" where one teacher teaches a succession of classes at the level of the class average. When teachers work together in teams, students can be arranged in large or small groups, as the subject, the needs of the individual student, and the qualities of each teacher may suggest. Time and talent of teachers can be used more professionally and productively. Spare time becomes available for lesson preparation, team planning, and individual counselling. These benefits are enhanced by using nonprofessional people or mechanical aids to handle clerical tasks that take up time of many teachers. To get maximum results, the building must be flexible—this calls for movable space dividers, spaces for teachers' offices, and for individual study large areas that can be used as a whole or subdivided.

It's clear that wide use of educational tv will also require both large and small spaces. Smaller schools may have to depend on such outside educational-tv programs as are available. These are increasing in number. Oak Park, Mich., and Sylvania, Ohio, are among the communities where the airborne transmission of Purdue University's educational programs is being used. In larger schools, there will be a trend toward setting up originating tv facilities for the school's own closed-circuit tv system—a new challenge to the versatility and ingenuity of the teaching staff. Such a system is included in the plans for Warwick, R.I.'s, new high school; Bellevue, Wash., reports that installation of an ultrahigh-frequency tv channel is underway.

One criticism of team teaching from parents and the community is that "our children will be exposed to unskilled handling by teacher's aides or other not-fully-qualified personnel." To this, proponents of team teaching reply that there's no system by which any large school can avoid having a teaching staff that varies in experience and ability. In the team system, experienced teachers can guide and help those of less experience. Teachers with special aptitudes can be so assigned as to make the best use of their talents (with pupils grouped under teachers whose qualities are best adapted to their needs). A system of using newly graduated teachers as "interns" to assist more senior teachers as at Ridgewood High School, Norridge, Ill., is—local educators say—about as good a way to develop young instructors as can be thought of. (It works with doctors!) Also the team system—as our report from Lake Oswego, Ore., points out—enables the best teachers to be raised to higher salary levels (as team leaders) without making administrators out of them. Incidentally, one serious teacher problem in some areas of suburbia—reported from Highland Park and several communities in Westchester County, N.Y.—is lack of attractive housing for teachers at costs in keeping with their salaries.

PARENTS' ANXIETY is evident about "too much automation"—is the machine replacing the teacher? This fear is being dispelled when parents visit and see such electronic marvels as the language laboratories in actual use. Majority opinion seems to be favorable—"the machines strengthen the teacher, not replace him." Electronic data-processing reduces clerical work—notably in making out monthly reports and improving class scheduling. Intercoms tie groups together when required. "Ultimately," predicts Educational Facilities Laboratories, "the school will become as automated as the American home where the housewife has been freed of so many laborious and boring tasks." But again, the need is for planning ahead, adapting building plans to the needs of the equipment to be housed.

Will schools built to these new design-requirements (they'll be termed "fancy" or "gadgets" by some skeptics) be fantastically expensive? Not necessarily. What could be fancier to the eye of an old-timer than design-in-the-round—say the steel geodesic dome that now covers the circular field house of West Bethesda, Md.'s, new high school? Though it offers 4,200 more square feet of interior space than the rectangular box design considered as an alternative, seats 1,200 more occupants, and is free of all internal supports that obstruct movement, this field house was bid in at $6,000 less than the rectangle.

There will be many other such ingenious expedients as the new-style construction needs are met by advancing architectural skills. The replies received to our questionnaire add up to one conclusion: Our suburban communities are going to go on exploring these new, hopefully better ways of designing, constructing, equipping, and using school space. In general, structures themselves will cost relatively less; equipment will cost quite a lot more; more money must be found for more versatile teachers to meet the new challenges.

The money will be found. The challenges will be met. The children of suburbia will be equipped to face the demands of a future that is growing incredibly complex to many of their elders. When Lamphere, Mich., ordered an observatory and planetarium for its new high school, its taxpayers were planning ahead for children who must keep pace with the broad advances of the space age. And Lamphere is not planning alone.

a Visit... BY PEARL BUCK author of "The Good Earth," "Imperial Women," "A Bridge for Passing," etc.

THE INVITATION lies here on my desk this morning. Shall I accept or refuse? It is like contemplating a journey to another country. Why should I leave the comfort of my own house, even for a few days? I may see rooms more beautiful than my own, new pictures, new scenes from strange windows, but will these compensate for the obligations of being a welcome guest? No—and yes! Before any journey, I have this doubt and indecision, and I usually end by saying—yes! The compensation of being a guest is double. First, I am diverted, cheered, inspired by change and by communication with others, and second, when I come home again I return enriched. I bring back with me the inestimable gifts of memory, new sights to remember, new voices ringing in my ears, new thoughts, arguments for and against my own opinions, glimpses into lives other than my own—all riches. I decide to accept the invitation. I get out my traveling bags.

I have much more to take than I put into those well-worn bags. I have myself. Not my whole self! Indeed, I shall try to leave here in my own home as much as possible of myself. When I go for a visit to a new place, be it a new country or a friend's house, I do not take my problems with me. The new problems I perceive will give me fresh insight into my own, and my experience may be of some use. My hosts will want something fresh from me, too. They are not, I hope, inviting me merely as a kindness. I want them to enjoy me, else I shall not be able to enjoy them. Therefore, I must be enjoyable.

TO BE ENJOYABLE, I must arrive when I am expected, prepared to enjoy. Fortunately, I enjoy by nature. I like to wake up in a room different from my own, I like to see how other people arrange their furniture and plant their gardens. I enjoy being informed, whether eventually I agree or disagree with the information. Certainly I shall not disagree until I have come home again and have had time to reflect. This is not to say I shall approve everything I see and hear, but in my life enjoyment has little or nothing to do with approval. I can enjoy food, temporarily, and diversions, also temporarily, that I know are deadly for me, and luckily I have the constitution for such temporary enjoyments. For example, I like to go to bed early, as a rule, but I love to stay up all night if I am having a good time. I am easily amused by almost anything, temporarily, and can be absorbed, temporarily, in the silliest game.

If there are children in the house, all the better, for I have no responsibility for them. If they have tantrums and generally misbehave, it will only be diverting.

I go, in short, as a guest, ready to enjoy whatever my hosts provide. I hope they will be themselves, for that is what I enjoy most. The accustomed host and hostess are aware of this naturally and will be themselves. For example, they will not ask me what time I like my breakfast. They will simply remark casually that breakfast is at half past six, so that we can breakfast together before my host has to catch the train to the city, or they will say that everyone breakfasts whenever he likes and on whatever he likes. We may not meet until luncheon, or even dinner. I prefer not to be asked anything, but to be told what the family does. Merely to do as I do in my own home brings me no change or diversion. Why did I come in that case?

For the same reason, I do not want to talk about myself. I like to become part of this other family. I am the guest at ease, and at leisure I have time to listen to anything and to everybody. I enjoy living here, temporarily. I have only one obligation as a welcome guest. It is to respect the privacy of this family and to keep to myself all that they reveal to me of their family life. It is an honor to be a guest, in any country, in any house. I will keep silence when I leave, if there are sights and sounds that have made me sad. I will remember only the kindness, the generosity, the sharing. After all, to be invited as a guest is to be given a gift. It is perhaps the supreme gift, for the guest opens not only the door of the house but also of the heart.

Every visit must end. A generous host may say, come for a month—or a week—or a day. Whatever he says, it is too long. Not too long for me, perhaps, but too long for friendship. The visit should end before the designated day and hour. The decision should not be announced while the visit is being made, for that might seem to show discontent. It should be indicated upon acceptance.

EVERY VISIT is divided, like ancient Gaul, into three parts. The first part is the renewing of acquaintance, the quick exchange; the second part is the deepening of the relationship, the hours of solid talk, relieved by shared amusements; the third is the satisfaction of mutual appreciation and affection. This third part must be cut short. Satisfaction should not be allowed to approach satiation. There is an hour, even a moment, when both host and guest know that the visit is over. Any delay is mere repetition and repetition is destructive. The guest must announce his departure before satiation. He will then have the pleasure of hearing his hosts urge him to stay a little longer. Of course, the guest cannot and must not change his mind. When he says he is going, he must go. It is wise to say farewell when friendship is at its warmest and best. Perhaps this applies even to love. Farewell—farewell, but not forever!

The visit then is a success. The guest has had the change and the diversion which can come only when he becomes part of another human group, eating as they eat, playing as they play, sharing their life as they live it. He leaves his host-family in a state of calm content with themselves, with their way of living, with their home. Life is better than they thought it was. They are really delightful people. Their house is charming, their children adorable.

"She seemed to enjoy everything, don't you think?"

I like to imagine my host and his wife and children exchanging such remarks. I hope they will, for the truth is she will enjoy everything, the guest being me!

PUNCH IN MENUS THREE

SANGRIA

The wines from the vineyards of sunny Spain were the inspiration for this colorful fruit-and-wine beverage. As wonderfully versatile as the foods it can be served with, Sangria is a gay idea . . . to be expressed in your own choice of wine, fruits, and service (such as a pitcher, punch bowl, or saucer-champagne glasses) appropriate for the occasion.

From a pitcher—Pour a bottle of the chilled wine over ice and assorted fresh fruits in a tall glass pitcher.

From a punch bowl—Keep Sangria chilled with a ring of pink ice made by freezing 4 cups boiled water and ½ cup grenadine sirup in a 1½-qt. ring mold.

From saucer-champagne glasses—Serve Sangria as an aperitif before luncheon.

Modernizing a bathroom?

Kohler styling,
Kohler quality make the difference

You get the results you dream about when your bathroom modernizing plans center around Kohler fixtures.

Coordinate your color scheme with these six pastels—Suez tan, peachblow, cerulean blue, argent (silver gray), sunrise yellow, spruce green—or do your planning around Kohler white. Exact color standards mean that each Kohler fixture will match the others. And fixtures and All-Brass fittings can be matched for scale, for design and detailing in any bathroom plan.

Kohler lavatories are made of fine vitreous china or enamel on cast iron. There is a variety of sizes and styles to choose from whether you're planning twin built-ins, wall-hung or free standing lavatories. Water closets and bathtubs also permit the greatest planning flexibility because of the many styles and sizes.

Visit your Kohler dealer. Examine the smooth finish, the details of design and workmanship in every Kohler fixture that reflect more than 75 years of quality manufacturing. And have the dealer show you how perfectly Kohler fixtures fit your bathroom plans.

Enter your plans in the Better Homes and Gardens Home Improvement Contest. Your Kohler dealer has the information and forms.

HILL-CLIMBING POWER. The Pony® Rider can move easily up a 30° or better hill without a moment's hesitation. One reason is the big 4-cycle, 4.5 H.P. engine. It'll do 2.14 M.P.H.

in low gear, 3.65 in high. Another reason is that it's one complete, carefully integrated unit, built for maximum efficiency—not a loose combination of cutting unit and tractor.

GRASS-LEAF BAG. This is a must for labor-free lawn care today. The "Pony" Rider features a 5 bushel bag that gets leaves, clippings, debris, crabgrass seeds. Ends raking forever. A huge 40 bushel leaf cart is available at small cost.

CLEAN, EVEN CUT. No housing design can equal Toro's exclusive patented Wind Tunnel Housing. It sucks grass up, stands it at attention, cuts it evenly. And it is practically clog-proof. Result? The best looking lawn in the neighborhood.

SMOOTH, SAFE RIDE. The "Pony's" floating front end rides over irregular ground without dipping. No bulky engine to straddle. Cutter stops when you get off seat. The "Pony" meets American Standards Association safety requirements.

SIMPLE OPERATION. You can learn to operate the "Pony" Rider in minutes. Control is easy with two speeds forward, one in reverse. And you can change the height of cut in seconds, while moving, 1½ to 3½". One simple lever does it.

TROUBLE-FREE SERVICE. All parts of the "Pony" Rider are heavy and sturdy; all mechanism simple. That's why it lasts far longer than other riding mowers. The "Pony" can go for years without a single annoying breakdown. But should you ever need service, it's comforting to know you can get expert Toro® service in minutes anywhere in the U.S. And, of course, Toro has a full year warranty.

HAND ME DOWN MY

See the world on foot under a soft May sky. A walk

BY COLIN FLETCHER

LATE ONE FRIDAY EVENING I put down my phone after the most frustrating call of a very long day, leaned back in my office chair, and said to myself, "If I don't get away from it all—right away—I shall go mad."

Like most of us, I'd had the idea before. But this time I felt a desperate need to do something about it. I did. At nine o'clock next morning I shut my front door behind me and, wriggling my shoulder blades a little apprehensively beneath the straps of a light knapsack, walked away down the road, alone and glad of it.

Nothing very much happened in the next two days, certainly nothing very dramatic. All I did was walk. I walked at my own leisurely pace, and I stopped whenever I wanted to—which was quite often.

A quarter-mile from my gate I paused beside an old house that, through my windshield, had always looked a mere out-of-place relic. Now, an inscription cut in its gray stonework opened up for me a new page of local history.

On the edge of town I leaned over a small bridge I'd driven across a hundred times and hardly noticed. Beneath the bridge gurgled a creek. As I watched, a cigar-shaped shadow slid downstream and blended with a stone.

Soon I was out in rolling farmland. I found myself listening to the swish-swish of my boots as I angled across a stubble field, then to the scutter of small hooves on damp soil as I came around a thicket and surprised a flock of sheep. In the heat of the thirsty afternoon I stumbled on a little moss-covered spring, its clear water sparkling in the sun.

Most of Sunday I walked in wild hill country. Resting beside a creek, I watched a very large salamander climb laboriously to the top of a shelving rock, come face to face with a very small trout—and, turn back. In a pine grove I found an orange fungus pushing up through dark soil, bearing on its plateau two pebbles and a little pyramid of earth with a crimson flower still growing from the apex. Later, sitting on a lonely hilltop, I traced different plow patterns in a dozen fields, meditated on the smog over nearby cities and the clarity over distant mountain masses.

By the time I turned the key in my front door that evening, I felt at peace with the world. The tensions of 48 hours earlier were a bad memory. The problems that had blocked my horizons had shrunk to the molehills they really were. Next morning, I disposed of them with calm and ease.

Since that weekend, I have always known what to do when I find, as most of us do at times, that I'm beginning to wilt beneath stress and strain: for two or three days I use only man's natural means of locomotion. In my three-mile-an-hour world of simple pleasures I soon "get away from it all."

I do not always leave the house on foot. Sometimes I scan a road map—the kind you can pick up at any gas station—and look for big, road-free spaces. I choose one that intrigues me. Then I drive to the edge of it, park the car, and walk in. The trip need not occupy a weekend. It can take an hour or an afternoon—or a week.

YOU NEED an objective—because that takes care of where you go; reaching it is not essential. I have aimed for prominent hilltops, for villages I don't know, and for the seashore—a two-day ramble from my home. Once, a friend and I climbed the "unknown" side of a mountain we'd often driven up. When we at last gained the paved viewpoint at the summit, we both felt genuinely sorry for the poor people who had used their cars.

I cut my load to the bone. Extra pounds can turn a pleasant stroll into a backbreaking, blister-ridden chore. I take only such dehydrated foods as powdered milk and

A Remarkable New Eating Experience

Five authentic foreign foods in cans had convenience minded Americans raving this week. Never, they said, had anything so incredibly good come ready to heat and serve! The three famed meat dishes and two noble soups labeled Famous Foods of the World were being whisked off grocery shelves across the country and heralded as "a milestone in the developments of canned meats." (St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

"Meat pieces are hefty and plentiful with a lavish portion of sauce", drooled the N.Y. Herald Tribune, "Low in cost, the cans of meat and chicken contain about three servings for less than a dollar," enthused The Miami News.

Drawing this praise were Italian Chicken Cacciatore—Breasts of chicken in tomato, herb and mushroom sauce. Swedish Köttbullar—Savory little meat balls in dill-spiced sour cream sauce. Beef Stroganoff—beef slices in sour cream laced with sherry in the Imperial Russian tradition. Spanish Garbanzo Bean Soup and traditional French Onion Soup.

Were the raves warranted? Best bet: Find out for yourself.

Is Your Power Mower Safe with You?

WHEN YOU ROLL your power mower out on your lawn, do you look upon the machine as friend or foe?

It's a nice feeling to know that you aren't going to strain your back with an old-fashioned, man-powered mower which, even after you put in a couple of sweaty hours, still didn't give you a trim lawn. But it's certainly true that, with all that power in your hands, a power mower that's mishandled can mean trouble. Painful and sometimes tragic accidents do happen, with many a mangled toe and bruised shin as evidence.

They needn't happen to you. At the request of the power-mower manufacturers, the American Standards Association has studied all conceivable sources of mishaps, and devised rules to prevent them. The tips that follow apply to all standard power mowers. Follow them and your mower will be the best friend your lawn ever had:

Getting Ready to Use

1. Before starting work, clear your whole lawn area of any debris that could catch onto or be thrown by the blade.
2. Plan your cutting route so it won't be necessary for you to pull your mower back toward you, particularly on a downgrade.
3. When you mow on rough ground or in high grass or weeds, set the blade at the highest cutting point to keep down the amount of debris thrown by the mower.
4. Mow only during daylight, unless you have very good artificial light.
5. Don't operate a power mower in wet grass, which may clog the mower and may also increase the danger of your slipping and falling and thus possibly coming in contact with the blade.
6. Be sure to put the mower guards into place before starting.
7. Fill a gasoline-driven mower outdoors. Avoid spilling gasoline. Don't fill the tank while the engine is running or while you're smoking.
8. Check an electric power mower to see that the cord is good. Avoid mowing over wet ground.
9. Don't mow when you're barefoot or wearing open sandals. Wear long, heavy denim trousers and brogues. If you have safety shoes, wear them.

YOUR ROSE CLINIC

How to identify and control black spot and powdery mildew

These are the two fungus diseases to which roses are most susceptible. Fortunately, identification is easy, and new specialized chemicals make control simple and inexpensive.

Black Spot looks like its name. Left unchecked, the leaves yellow, drop to the ground—causing reinfestation. For prevention, spray on a weekly schedule with Upjohn's ACTI-DIONE-CAPTAN®. Less than 1c per plant per application.

Powdery Mildew leaves a noticeable white coating on leaves, canes and buds. If it occurs in conjunction with black spot, ACTI-DIONE-CAPTAN is still the prescription. If it occurs alone, spray with Upjohn's new ACTI-DIONE PM®, a fungicide made especially for mildew on roses and other ornamentals.

The Safe Way to Mow

Now that you have your equipment in good order and are dressed properly to use it safely, you're ready to do the job itself. Some of the hints below may sound elementary, but remember, it's the simple things that are most often overlooked:

1. Give complete and undivided attention to the job at hand.
2. Keep everyone—especially small children—out of your cutting path.
3. Don't start the motor and blade until you're ready to start mowing. Stop the motor whenever you leave the mower.
4. Don't overspeed your engine. Excessive cutting speed or tampering with the governor can be dangerous. Run your engine at the slowest speed that will still permit satisfactory cutting.
5. Start your mower carefully. Stand firmly, with your feet away from the blade. Be sure the mower won't tip or roll while starting.
6. Stay clear of the front of a self-propelled mower during and after starting.
7. If your mower handle has a safety latch to hold it in normal operating position, keep it engaged all the time.
8. Keep in step with your mower. If you lag behind or let it pull you, you won't be in full command of the machine. Don't run.
9. Control the direction of the mower by pressure from your hand on the handle, not pressure from your foot on the mower housing.
10. When cutting on rough ground or on slopes, use extra care and make sure you have solid footing at all times.
11. Exercise special care when you're mowing around objects to prevent the blades from striking them. Never deliberately mow over any object.
12. Stop the operation when another person approaches. While the engine is running, don't pass or stand on the side of the mower where the grass is discharged.
13. Don't let anyone ride with you on a riding mower.
14. Take extra care when using a riding mower on a slope or incline. Riding mowers are like small tractors, and they can be tipped either to the back or side if you're not careful.

You can train plants to stand up, lie down, grow narrow—take whatever shape you need to fill an odd space or liven the view

BY JOHN BRIMER

THE FITTING of plants into odd spaces is nearly as old a craft as gardening itself. Plants may be shaped to be tall and narrow or broad and short, to frame windows and doors, to make living arbors, or transform a problem spot. For example, you don't need to sacrifice a sizeable garden plot in order to have a fruit tree or two. Instead, use fruit trees trained lengthwise beside your driveway or walks, or flatten them against the house to border a window with blossoming, fruit-bearing branches. You can even have a small orchard on a small home plot by properly training the trees.

This method is called "espaliering" (es-pal-yēr-ing) and is extensively employed in Europe where space is at even more of a premium than in our gardens. This ancient practice is rapidly becoming popular in America, however, with highly successful crops of edible or decorative fruits embellishing the garden. The term espalier derives from a word meaning framework, which refers to the practice of binding branches to a frame until they are strong enough to stand by themselves and to maintain their decorative form. Espaliers may be planted to be freestanding or placed against a wall or fence.

Because espaliered fruit trees must be kept small, they are grafted to special dwarfing rootstocks. This low-growing form also means that it is convenient to do the yearly pruning back required to keep them in form, and it is easy to spray them to combat pests and diseases. Also, picking the fruit is no trouble at all. Fruits are likely to be superior, too, since most of the tree's energy is channeled into fruit and not into dozens of branches and myriads of leaves.

Espaliered trees may be purchased already trained from nurseries, or gardeners may train their own, provided they are willing to wait a few years for results to show. Starting with a two- or three-year-old whip grafted to a dwarfing root (recommended fruit rootstocks, according to the tree's needs are: Malling II, IV, VII, or IX), two buds near the base are chosen, as nearly opposite as possible, and the top pruned off above them. The branches growing out from these buds are bent outwards and fastened to the frame. Many forms may be achieved: V-shape, U or multiple U-shapes, fans, horizontal cordons, and so on. Really proficient (and ambitious!) gardeners may achieve the goblet or pyramidal shapes encountered in certain European gardens.

APPLES and PEARS are most often used, although peaches, nectarines, apricots, plums, or cherries are also possible. Some popular subjects are: fire thorn (Pyracantha), quince, cotoneaster, forsythia, dogwood, magnolia, camellia, yew, ilex, citrus, and evergreen euonymus. For most plants, care should be used not to set them against a wall where they may bake in summer's heat, although several hours of sunlight a day is desirable. Easterly and southeasterly walls are usually best, with south and west walls less desirable in most places. Wall heat may be an asset in the far north, however, protecting blossoms from untimely frost nips and assisting in ripening the fruit in autumn.

Not much of a garden till you put in a few flowers and a lot of sheared box—then it has everything.

Another way of livening the garden picture is to shear plants. Hedges are commonplace, of course, but one need not limit oneself to box shapes. Indeed many evergreen and deciduous plants may be sheared into architectural and fantastic shapes, an art that is called "topiary." This craft dates back even beyond the Roman Empire, when garden slaves sheared living plants into replicas of ships, fantastic animals, and birds, as well as intricate geometric shapes. Ever since, topiary has appeared in gardens in amazing, amusing forms.

Start for a topiary bird—leader shoot is guided into framework, where it will be sheared to form as it grows out.

and today we find it increasingly in American gardens, used to give variety and interest.

The best plants to use for topiary are yew and boxwood, since they stay within bounds more easily, but other plants may be used for coarser work. Privet and other deciduous hedge plants may be used, too, but require more frequent clipping to keep them in shape. In England, a wire framework is usually employed, and the lead twig is fed into the framework. As growth fills the frame and projects, it is sheared off to maintain the form, using the frame always as the guide. Instead of a framework, however, you can simply use your eye and hand as you shear to achieve the form, particularly if the shape is not too elaborate.

ON THE WEST COAST in modern Japanese-style gardens a form of topiary is often used, in which the gardener merely improvises on the plant's natural form, keeping certain parts bare to expose interesting branch structure. Usually two trimmings will keep evergreens neat and the lines clean all year, with an occasional vigorous shoot being nipped back between times.

Although none of these training programs falls exactly into the category of lazy-man gardening, they are not as time- and labor-consuming as you might imagine, and you will be well repaid for the effort you put in. In embellishing the garden with sheared or espaliered material, you will have a fascinating hobby.

At about 3 to 4 months, a baby "comes of age" as a personality and responds more to the world around him. Now baby recognizes you. Eyes light up at the sight of you; ears rejoice at the sound of your voice. Offer a smile and you'll probably get a smile back. Look and you'll see little fingers dare to play, to touch, to reach. Listen and you'll hear new coos and gurgles in his self-styled vocabulary.

Now's the time to help baby up the ladder of learning by encouraging his efforts, stimulating his imagination. Then watch that wonderful personality blossom!

Hints Collected by a personality in the making

The growth picture. Your baby grows faster the first year than the next few put together. That's why he needs plenty of protein... the most important "growing tool" in his diet. Gerber Strained Meats, made from selected Armour cuts, are high in quality protein, offer significant amounts of B-vitamins and minerals. Additional benefits:

- Gerber Strained Meats are easy to digest because most of the fat is removed.
- All 9 varieties are pure meat with just enough broth for a smooth, moist texture.

Helping hand dept. "Will too much attention spoil a baby?" asks many a mother. Well, experts today say that, in general, babies whose emotional needs are satisfied at an early age make fewer demands later on. After all, when you cuddle your baby for comfort or croon away his loneliness, you're giving him a sense of security and helping him to develop into a happy, well-adjusted personality.

Nutrition notation. Specially prepared baby cereals play an important role in your baby's diet because of the special nutrients they supply. Gerber Cereals are enriched with the iron babies need shortly after birth. (Milk does not provide enough for babies' needs.) In addition they contain important B-vitamins for appetite and growth, calcium for sturdy bones. As for eating enjoyment... flavors are pleasantly bland, the texture ever so nice on the tongue.

Menu magic. Nothing quite like Gerber Strained Fruits to make a small-fry menu sing. For they have a natural talent for true-fruit flavors and eye-appealing colors. Have you treated your baby to Gerber Apricots lately? M-mmm, good.

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—cereals, strained and junior—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say: "Babies are our business"

"Great Songs of Romance"

Hello, Little Girl

ILLUSTRATION BY JOHN ALLEN

BY JOHN FETTERMAN

IT'S A GREAT DAY, for all, when a five-year-old learns to pick up the phone.

The telephone company is big and rich and efficient and powerful. But in neighborhoods where there are five-year-old girls, the company's promise of a better way of life is promptly reduced to a hollow mockery.

In such a neighborhood, the urgent cry of a phone bell at six o'clock on a Saturday morning no longer means Uncle Henry's heart has started flip-flopping again. It simply means the five-year-old across the street has awakened.

But you don't realize this as you stumble barefooted to the phone. You grab the clamoring instrument, clear your throat painfully, and speak with apprehension.

"Hello."

You hear a cheery, squeaky, bubbling:

"Hi!"

Then you remember. You have some thoughts, but not the kind you can express to a five-year-old. So you mutter grimly:

"Good grief, Janie, it's just six o'clock."

"That's nice."

"What do you want, Janie?"

"Can Mindy come out and play?"

"Of course not."

"Why? Is it her birthday?"

"No. It is too early. Where are your mother and father?"

"They're asleep."

"Why aren't you asleep?"

"'Cause I'm up."

"Look, Janie: Go back to bed. It's real, real early. Do you understand?"

"I already been to bed."

This conversation isn't getting you anywhere and you have a growing fear that you are going to spend the weekend standing in the hall in your pajamas trying to reason with a five-year-old. But Janie's mother finally awakens. She takes over.

"Hello, John. Isn't this dreadful? I've told Janie a thousand times not to call up anybody unless she asks me first. But she's so proud and excited since she learned to dial. She has Mindy's number all written out on a piece of paper and stuck to the phone. Isn't that awful?"

Janie's mother has a note of pride in her voice. She doesn't really think it's "awful." She thinks it's clever. Now you begin to have some thoughts about a five-year-old's mother. But you can't express them either.

Five-year-olds not only call you up, they also answer the phone. Wherever there is a five-year-old, no other member of the family is ever permitted to answer the phone. Only a five-year-old can intimidate a teen-aged sister into not winning the race to a ringing telephone.

The phone rings. The husband ignores it; the wife gestures helplessly; the teen-ager breaks like a Kentucky Derby entry and gallops for it. But it's the five-year-old who gets there. At the sound of the bell she utters a shrill, tearful "Me! Me!" This strategy never fails.

Most intriguing of all are the cryptic reports you get from a five-year-old after her telephone conversations:

"I told the man to send us lots of 'cyclopedaes.'"

Or: "Don't worry, I told him you got all hanged over and don't want to talk to nobody."

Or: "What's a finance company?"

Or: "I asked some more people to my party."

Also, you can learn some interesting things from the five-year-olds who answer your calls. You get candid reports on:

Domestic Relations: "I think Mommy is going to fuss at Daddy some more."

Job Progress: "We got gin 'cause Daddy's boss is gonna eat supper wif us."

Tragedy: "I lost my dolly's ring in the potty."

Drama: "Mommy and Phyllis are both crying 'cause Phyllis wants high heels."

Finance: "We are awful poor since Daddy got new golf clubs."

Medicine: "I got a rash on my bottom."

When you ask a five-year-old, "What's new?" she tells you. It's refreshing.

And you have to give a five-year-old credit for one rare telephone virtue — she knows how to end a conversation. There are no awkward, hesitant attempts to get off the line. She brings things to a halt cleanly and briskly:

"Good-bye. I got to throw up now."

soups, meat concentrates, instant potato, and tea bags. For cooking, I carry a tiny gasoline-burning pressure stove.

In bad weather I may put up for the night at a motel, but I much prefer just to roll out my sleeping bag at a convenient spot. Sometimes I open my eyes in the morning to see a rabbit bobbing and nibbling his way through breakfast. Once I woke at dawn to find, 10 feet from my head, a doe browsing among dew-covered ferns.

And the days go on the same way. I lunch beside a frog as he drowns away his noon on a midstream stone. I watch a turtle investigating the secrets of an underwater rock. I drop down into fields, and from a rich-smelling farmyard there erupt toward me a posse of clean brown chickens, hopeful for grain.

AFTER A WEEKEND of walking, I am happy in the knowledge that I have traveled with all five senses alert. I remember catching the scent of wild strawberries as I forded a tinkling creek; I recall their velvet sweetness on my tongue as I leaned against rough, sun-warmed granite. I am tired with the satisfying tiredness that comes after a long tramp—as far removed from the exhaustion after a day's drive as a waltz is from St. Vitus's dance. Finally there are the amplified pleasures. In everyday life, taking off your socks is an unnoticed chore; peeling them off after a day's walk is sheer delight. And no caviar ever tasted better than my pemmican and dehydrated potatoes.

But you do not have to tramp 20 miles to rediscover the lost art of walking. Not long ago I suggested to a stenographer friend that instead of driving six blocks to buy low-calorie food she should walk to the store—and then walk back empty-handed. As a joke, she did. Now she has given up strict dieting, walks short distances whenever she can, and is both slimmer and fitter.

Another friend, a tool-and-die maker who knows his own mind, sold his car after a disagreement with an insurance company. He began walking to the factory, to theaters, to the ball game. Soon afterward he told me, "In the past month I've found out more about this town than I've learned in years: kids in the park, little side streets I'd never noticed before, and all kinds of people I just happen to talk to. I've even found myself dropping into the library as I pass, and that's something I'd never done before."

For short walks, I find hilltops attract me—and evenings, too. Hilltops have an allure all their own, especially on those magically clear days when you feel you could reach out and put your finger on every leaf within miles; but climbing to a high place on almost any day is enough to widen your horizons, lift you above pettiness, and reveal lines of action rarely glimpsed in the ruck of everyday living. Dusk, I find, is a time for grasping the simple, difficult truths.

There is something about a traveler on foot that tends to warm the heart of strangers. They keep telling me of "better" roads to follow. Most people are frankly envious. A surprising number say, "All my life I've wanted to do the kind of thing you're doing—just get away from it all and walk."

TODAY, more and more Americans are discovering the joys of wilderness walking. The Appalachian Trail that runs 2,000 miles from Maine to Georgia can be followed only on foot, and last summer 35% more people used the huts along it than in any previous year. On a recent two-week trip of San Francisco's Sierra Club in the Wyoming Rockies—almost all above 9,000 feet—the ages ranged from seven to 70. By carrying the heavy duffel on pack horses, the club brings the purity of mountain peaks and the glory of glaciers within reach of whole families who could not possibly manage such trips alone.

An increasing number of doctors nowadays advise their patients to do more walking. Only this afternoon I heard a radio plea by the California Heart Association: "We Americans are sitting pretty—too pretty. The heart's a muscle and needs exercise. Try a walk this evening ..."

Today, it is fashionable to blame the automobile for what has been called "the progressive atrophy of our legs." But the decline began long before Henry Ford. Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote: "The civilized man has built a coach, but he has lost the use of his feet."

WE HAVE NOW moved far beyond the coach.

Not long ago, a young man at a cocktail party boasted to me that he had just completed a round-the-world sight-seeing tour in 79 days. In a single jet-strengthened breath he scuttled from St. Peter's, Rome, via the pyramids, to a Cambodian jungle temple. "That's the way to travel," he said. "You see everything important."

When I suggested that the way to see important things was to walk, he nearly dropped his martini.

There is a difference between "getting somewhere" and "going." When I want to "get somewhere," I buy an airline ticket. But if I want the joy of "going," I walk. When the press of day-to-day problems threatens to swamp me, I lock the garage and devote two or three days to using my legs for their rightful purpose of locomotion. And always, when I come home, I find I have rediscovered the secret of happiness.

Commerce Body Urges Action on Bay-Tunnel Road

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce has urged the State Highway Department to complete its study of an access road for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel as soon as possible and at the same time the promotional voice of Virginia Beach has endorsed a north-south routing of the road.

In effect, the Chamber, through its Board of Directors and in resolution form, is urging a coastal route for the road pointing out that traffic engineers feel "its use will be made up primarily of north-south traffic seeking the most direct route."

The resolution, signed by Albin R. Mailhes, Chamber president, also noted that it "seems feasible and practical that the coastal route is the most logical route and will bring more traffic to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, and;

WHEREAS, the State Highway Department has under consideration and study a route along the coast, it being the opinion of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce that this is the most practical route to travel from a scenic and beauty standpoint;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce endorses this study and proposed route and further supports the committee headed by Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr., in their efforts to have this road built, and;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce urges the highway department to complete its study as soon as practical and to proceed with the building of the necessary road in order that it may be completed before the bridge-tunnel is opened."

New Virginia Beach To Join HRSD Soon

PRINCESS ANNE — All seven boroughs of the future Virginia Beach will be included in Hampton Roads Sanitation District, Princess Anne Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wahab ruled Monday.

The present City of Virginia Beach petitioned Princess Anne Circuit Court to be taken into the HRSD system. Princess Anne County also petitioned to have its three rural districts — Seaboard, Pungo and Blackwater — included. The three suburban districts already are included.

Virginia Beach and the present county districts will become boroughs after the merger next January 1.

Royal G. Thayer, HRSD engineer, testified that tentative studies are under way to set up two large sewage treatment plants to serve the future Virginia Beach.

One plant would serve the eastern part of the county and discharge into the Atlantic Ocean. No definite plans for this Atlantic outfall have been completed. Presumably this plant would be located south of Camp Pendleton or in the Ft. Story area. The other plant, serving the northern part of the county, would discharge into Chesapeake Bay.

A. H. Paessler, executive secretary of the State Water Control Board, testified that in his opinion HRSD has done a good job in the Tidewater area.

"The trend today is away from local systems of sewage disposal," Paessler said. "The matter is being taken care of with larger systems which discharge into the largest available body of water."

Presumably the transfer of authority of HRSD will take place as soon as Judge Wahab signs the order. Last January

City Renews Pier Lease

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council Tuesday renewed the franchise for Virginia Beach Pier & Amusement Co.'s storm-damaged fishing pier.

The $3,000 yearly franchise fee is the same as that in effect before the March 6-7 storm swept away most of the fishing pier at 15th Street.

Under terms of the new franchise, the underpinnings of the pier must be of steel. Washed-out wood pilings caused some damage during the March storm, officials said.

Albert L. Bonney, board chairman of Virginia Beach Pier and Amusement Co., said he hopes to start work immediately and finish in about six weeks.

Beach Salutes Military With Parade Sat.

VIRGINIA BEACH—Virginia Beach will give its annual salute to this Nation's military forces Saturday with the observance of Armed Forces Day and the celebration will be highlighted by a gigantic street parade up Atlantic avenue starting at 10 a.m.

Co-sponsored by the City of Virginia Beach and the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, the annual Armed Forces Day celebration is one of the bright spots on a busy year-around calendar for Virginia Beach.

Councilman Frank D. Tarrall, Jr. is serving as general chairman of the event and he has announced that Major Gen. Norman H. Vissering and Virginia's Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr. will serve as military and civilian parade marshals, respectively.

The parade is scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock Saturday morning starting at 10th street. A reviewing stand will be located in the vicinity of 30th Street and Atlantic avenue. E. B. "Bubba" Bayne, Virginia Beach Fire Chief, is in charge of the parade and he will be assisted by Garland Atwater.

The day's festivities will begin with a fly over and afterburner climb by low-level flying Phantom jets from the Oceana Naval Air Station. The aircraft will be from VF-74 commanded by Cdr. J. S. Lake.

Included in the parade will be a float carrying Mr. George D. Brooke, Virginia Beach's First Citizen for 1961.

In addition to the many military units listed for the parade it has been announced that the Princess Anne and Virginia Beach High School bands will be in the marching lineup.

Still another feature of the parade will be the appearance of the Frederick College Cadet Corps and the Shrine band.

Following the parade special guests will assemble at the Sir Walter Hotel for luncheon as guests of the city and the Chamber of Commerce.

Kellam Predicts Area on Brink Of Metro System

NORFOLK — Sidney S. Kellam predicted Tuesday that the people of Tidewater will "take a new look at metro" soon.

"I want to be very careful what I say because there is a political campaign going on in Norfolk and I would be out of place to come here and make suggestions," he said. "Metro has no place in a political campaign," he said.

But after the June 12 City Council election, Kellam said, "I expect the people will set out to see if we can pool forces for more efficient government."

Kellam spoke before the Norfolk Chapter of the National Secretaries Association meeting at the Ranch House Restaurant.

"Metro will only work," he said, "if the people understand what we're trying to do. . . . The responsibility falls on the people."

Kellam told the secretaries, "It falls upon groups like yours to study metro and what is proposed and to express your views."

The people should oppose any move to create a giant government, Kellam said. The communities of Tidewater will fight any effort to blur their identities, he said.

But there are areas, he said, where metro could offer services more efficiently than the individual governments.

Kellam praised the borough system under which the new city of Virginia Beach will operate. "People will understand that when they come to council demanding services they will have to pay for them, and if they don't want some service they don't have to pay for it."

Nobody was to blame for the slowdown in metro discussions before the Princess Anne County-Virginia Beach merger issue was raised, Kellam said.

A consultant who was to be hired to study the area was hurt in an accident and "things just drifted along," he said.

Kellam said persons are mistaken who think "Norfolk city and Princess Anne County are mad at each other."

"It ain't so," he said. "We need them. They need us. We're all the same kind of people," he said.

Cavaliers Win Eighth Straight

PORTSMOUTH — Baseball at Cradock is a hazardous business at best. The woman whose property abuts the diamond refuses to return balls hit onto her lot and a steady procession of children, on bikes and on foot, travel across the outfield. But for Lee Smith, a tall junior pitcher, the game was at its worst Tuesday. His associates made nine errors in the first four innings and Princess Anne gleefully accepted an 8-5 victory.

For Princess Anne this was an exceedingly important triumph. Not only was it number eight in succession for the Cavaliers, it gave them a real chance to win the Eastern District title.

Standing 7-2 in conference work, Princess Anne is second only to Warwick (9-1-1). And on Thursday evening the Cavaliers will face the Peninsula nine at Deer Park. A victory there would give Coach Lew Breedlove's forces the lead with two games left.

Cradock bobbles and boos made six of the first seven runs Princess Anne scored unearned. The Cavaliers made two runs in the first on two errors and Ronnie Hytinen's hit, three more with the help of two errors and Art Halstead's single in the second and two in the fourth on two more errors.

By this time the score was 7-2 (Glen Colley gave up two Cradock runs on a walk and singles by Allen Baker and Tom Gillette in the first), and the rest should have been easy.

But one hit made it a close game. That one, the last delivered by Mr. Colley in the 5th, was whacked for three bases by Larry Chinn. Two runners scored and China came in on an error making it 7-5.

From this point on Bobby Williams, a sophomore righthander, handled the Princess Anne pitching. He struck out six batters and allowed just two hits. For this nifty stint the young man received credit for his first victory in his first varsity appearance.

Smith, a righthander, wound up pitching what amounted to a game and a half. He allowed 11 hits but only five figured in the scoring.

Creeds Airfield.

Freedom '7' Dragway

VIRGINIA BEACH—A drag racing strip located at Creeds is scheduled to open Memorial Day and plans call for drag races each Sunday and on special holidays during the summer, it was announced by E. A. Culverhouse, general manager.

The strip is to be known as Freedom "7" Dragway and will be operated by a Virginia Beach corporation, Virginia Beach Drag Strip, Inc. The dragway will be the old Creeds Airfield which is leased by the Creeds Volunteer Fire Department. VBDS is subleasing the property from the firemen's organization.

According to Culverhouse the drag strip will actually be operated by the Virginia Safe Drivers Assn. which is currently being organized. The dragway is designed to promote safety and safe driving methods will be taught. The minimum age for competitive drivers is 21.

The local group has been assured of the sanction of the National Hot Rod Association which will place the local drag strip in a select circle in the United States. To qualify under the sanction requirements of NHRA a dragway must meet high standards of safety and of construction. Emphasis is placed on the safety of the drivers as well as the spectators.

There are thousands of drag strips in the United States, but only 83 have been sanctioned by NHRA. The Creeds strip will be among that group.

Culverhouse pointed out that the strip is being operated primarily in the interest of safety and that it will afford those persons owning vehicles of the type to get off the highways.

The Freedom "7" Dragway will have more than 3,000 feet of fence for the spectators and drivers, Culverhouse pointed out.

Baseball Is Story Filled with Change

By FLETCHER BRYANT

Baseball, our national pastime, has had many changes since its beginning. Rules have changed, equipment is better, and the styles of play is improved to a point beyond recognition.

Let's turn back the clock to the Civil War days and try to imagine what a major leaguer of that era would think.

If all of a sudden the game as we know it were suddenly put before him. Jim Creighton, a star of that era may recognize the game, but in all probability it would be strange to him. The playing field would own the same shape, even though the carefully nurtured grass of the outfield would seem to have been woven in a rug mill, and the floor smooth dirt of the infield would look like vinyl tile. Our star of the past would watch with a good deal of doubt as the modern players left their positions intended to wander away to what the old timer would consider the outfield. The bats would look like tooth picks limited as they are to 42 inches. The ball would appear to be dead and our friend Jim may even suspect that someone had slipped a "pounder" into the game to cut the hitting down. The twenty foot bounce of the ball would be gone from the game, and only the swiftness of the throws and the lightning fast double plays would bring the ball to life.

The hitters in modern baseball would probably make Mr. Creighton think they were all on the verge of a nervous breakdown. The constant tipping of the cap, picking up of dirt, knocking of the cleats, twitching, scratching, and other mannerisms would tend to irritate our friend who had been used to seeing the batter idling at the plate, smiling at every one, half swinging at some pitches and then holding back to watch 5 or 6 more pitches go floating by before picking out one to hit. Imagine how our hero would react if he were to have to face the likes of Ryan Duren or Herb Score after the pitchers who lofted the ball very much as we do now in slow pitch softball.

The catcher would be considered a lunatic for squatting behind the batter and more likely than not the umpire would be considered a tenth man for in the beginning it was not unusual for the catcher to stand back twenty feet, and have a helper to assist him when runners were on base.

Not only would the style of play be different today, but the personal appearance of the players would present a drastic contrast with those of the Creighton era. The neat white and gray flannel uniformed players would give the appearance of a story book tale as compared to the drab of the mismatched uniforms of the days gone by. The gloves would look like baskets compared to the stinky strips of leather used by our hero, and last but not least the most horrifying and amazing difference would be the conduct of the modern fans.

The animal like roar that goes up for a good play or hit by the home team, and the strange silence before the game while the infield warms up and the outfielders shag flies by the dozens. Today's pros game warm ups would have caused the old timer to wave his hat and shout himself hoarse. Our modern dug outs would be considered unsportsman like and might even be thought to be a hangout for gamblers.

The whole game has progressed with the times and it would be impossible to picture our game any other way, but to our star of yesterday, Jim Creighton, his opinion of our game might go something like this: "The game is a nightmare derivation of my game and these players are demons manufactured by satan to kill one another. Gone is the long rest between innings and the casual stroll through the crowd to chat with the beautiful ladies in their distant carriages. I like your game, but for me I had better stick to a sport that is not quite as reckless — Slow Pitch Ball."

Mrs. Harsken Is First Citizen

Mrs. Roy M. Harsken (left) receives silver trophy as First Citizen from Mrs. George E. Robbins, public affairs chairman. (Boice Photo)

Mrs. Harsken First Citizen Winner

By MRS. VIRGIE HUDSON
CHESAPEAKE BEACH — Members of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach gave Mrs. Roy M. Harsken a standing ovation at the final meeting of the year when she was named "First Citizen."

The award came as a complete surprise to Mrs. Harsken as she commented "Well, after all, I'm the first Yankee to win this award!"

She became a transplanted southerner when she met her husband in Syracuse, N.Y. during the war and returned with him to his native Norfolk. Friends now tell Flora Harsken that she has lost her "Yankee brogue."

The presentation of the First Citizen Award is a tradition in the club and during its 21 years existence, 14 women have been honored for "Outstanding work in the Club and the Community." Selection for the award is simple and democratic. With no pre-selection of candidates, each member casts her vote. The person receiving a plurality of votes becomes the recipient.

Mrs. Harsken is a native of Clayton, N.Y., which is located on the St. Lawrence River. "And nobody probably ever so much as heard of it," she said. "I really am a small town girl. However after finishing school, Flora went to live in Syracuse where she was employed in the Office of the Greyhound Bus Lines who then had their home office there. It was about this time that she met her husband."

The Harskens moved from Norfolk to Thoroughgood about five years ago. They are parents of two children, Robert, a student in Princess Anne High School, and Pamela, aged 8, who attends the Thoroughgood School. So with daughter Pamela, Mrs. Harsken finds herself right back in P-T-A work. She is in constant demand, and works when called upon in the Clinic, library, selling books or wherever needed.

It was Mrs. Harsken who helped the Woman's Club, after the sale of the Chesapeake Beach Community Center, to find places for their Scout activities in order that these youngsters would not have to dissolve their troops. She did so, in her church, although they too were already heavily loaded with like activities. Each week she bravely transports a load of Brownie Scouts to the Church and back to their homes. She also spends a great deal of time baking cookies for these little girls in uniform.

Flora has been a member of the Woman's Club for about 4 years and was an active member from the beginning. She has become known to all the members for her quick thinking, and cooperation in any part of the work which has to be done. In her first Club job as Garden and Conservation Chairman, she conducted a most successful Christmas Doorway contest in Bayside. In the last Festival, she was chairman of the well known Queen Contest. She takes an active part in one of the club's oldest projects, the Bloodmobile at Little Creek. She has been cited for the work she has done in the Club's membership expansion.

The Harskens are active, interested Church members, and serve in many capacities in the Bayside Presbyterian Church. Mr. Harsken is Assistant Supt. of Sunday School, and is chairman of the Board. Mrs. Harsken has been a teacher in the church school, but recently resigned to take a "refresher" course through the Adult Discussion Group, which is designed to inform and instruct teachers. She has served as a Circle Chairman in the Woman's Division of the church, and at the completion of two years at this job, she took on the work of Moderator for the Circle. She has been instrumental in starting a Scholarship Fund through the ladies of the Church. Both she and her husband have worked untiringly on the building program for their Church, whose members hope to soon begin work on their new building to be located on Old Bayside Road.

In addition to the many things Flora Harsken does outside her home, she also keeps books for her husband's business, Roy's Auto Parts. For recreation, the Harskens enjoy bowling together in the Mixed League at Bayside Bowl. They also enjoy a neighborhood Canasta Club which meets once each month in Thoroughgood.

"The standing ovation given her by the Club members goes for her neighbors too," according to Mrs. George E. Robbins who lives across the street from Mrs. Harsken. "She does her church and club work, her own housework, keeps books for her husband, and even mows the grass while Ronny helps his father. But she always has the time to be a good neighbor, and we all love her."

Thus a neighbor and fellow club member has explained why the Woman's Club has once more honored a lady who deserved to be called "First Citizen."

Sanctioned Drag Racing Promotes Safety Among Young Drivers

An announcement this week that a group of Virginia Beach citizens have formed a corporation to operate a drag racing strip at the site of the old Creeds airfield in Princess Anne County is looked upon by many safety people as a helpful step.

Safety people reason that a properly sanctioned and controlled drag strip promotes safety and affords young people a place to vent their desire to race sports cars. A sanctioned strip such as the one proposed to be known as Freedom 7 Dragway at Creeds will also teach the young drivers many safety tips that they might not otherwise be exposed to.

The Freedom 7 Dragway will be a fully sanctioned National Hot Rod Association strip and this means that the strip will be safe for the drivers as well as the spectators and the vehicles must meet certain requirements before they can run on the strip.

The strip is leased by the Creeds Volunteer Fire Department and the Virginia Beach group is, in turn, leasing it from the fire organization.

We believe the dragway operation will be a boon to safety on the highways. It will take these racing sports cars off the regular roads and it will generally promote safe driving among the young drivers.

Virginia Beach Will Again Salute Nation's Armed Forces

Saturday, May 19th, has been proclaimed Armed Forces Day in Virginia Beach by Mayor Frank A. Dusch. The annual observance here has become a fixture in the calendar of events and residents have come to look upon the day's activities with anticipation. Much of this anticipation is undoubtedly brought on by the prospects of the giant parade that seems to grow just a little bigger each year.

This community is proud to salute our friends and neighbors in uniform and the celebration arranged by the city and the chamber of commerce here is just a symbol of the genuine feeling among the citizens here for members of the armed forces. We believe, as many do, that our military forces and their state of preparedness has had a great deal to do with keeping the peace throughout the world.

As for Armed Forces Day Virginia Beach has somewhat led other communities in the Tidewater area in honoring our military friends. Each year this city observes Saturday of Armed Forces Week as "Armed Forces Day" and each year the day is marked with a street parade and a luncheon for special military and civilian guests. Portsmouth has also been in the forefront in paying tribute to our armed forces.

We are proud, too, of the fine relationship this city and its several military installations enjoy. Celebrating Armed Forces Day is another way of expressing our pride. We salute our military forces at home and overseas.

"Project Petunia" Time Again

The Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County are sponsoring for the fourth year the annual beautification project of petunia planting in the county-beach area.

Project Petunia has followed the usual pattern in that it started in a very small way four years ago. Each year has seen a greater response to the project until now its effect is showing up in a more beautiful city.

The idea behind this very worthwhile project is for merchants, business houses and residents to plant red and white petunias throughout the city. Originally the project urged the planting along Atlantic avenue and then it spread to the new Pacific avenue. Now the planting is widespread throughout Virginia Beach and the ladies deserve a great deal of credit.

Planting petunias is an excellent idea, we believe, since it is a flower that produces throughout the summer months and the red and white variety, as proposed by the Council of Garden Clubs, results in a colorful display that must be pleasing to the visitor as well as to the homeowners.

Each year as more places enter into the spirit of this very worthwhile project our city and area becomes more beautiful. We urge all businesses to seriously consider planting petunias this year around their buildings. There are many places yet to plant petunias. Let's all get behind "Project Petunia" this year.

Hospital Addition

A new wing to the recently formed General Hospital of Virginia Beach got under way this week. The extension will provide additional space in the administrative offices on the first floor and room for six extra beds on the second floor. The exterior work, being done by Vanguard Construction Co., is expected to be completed around June 15 and interior work should be finished by July 1. (Boice Photo)

P. A. Jaycees List Improvement Needs

PRINCESS ANNE—For six months the Princess Anne Junior Chamber of Commerce has been conducting a community survey to learn, from thousands of individuals, what the greatest needs in the county are.

After completing the survey, the committee recommended the following improvements as future projects:

● Undertake a project to improve present recreation facilities for adults, teenagers and children and provide additional facilities.

● Undertake a project to help bring a local hospital within the community to serve the people of within the community.

● Undertake a project to improve fire protection within the community.

Others mentioned were additional street lighting, better public transportation, better storm and water drainage and additional roads from Norfolk to Virginia Beach.

The report also states that "it is the general opinion of the people that this is a nice quiet community in which the people are cooperative and take pride in their homes. The geographical location is also good with the nearness of the beaches to the east and the city to the west."

The survey proved that most residents feel that the community has a nice suburban atmosphere but free of many city faults; there are sufficient churches of all denominations; good shopping centers nearby; and the present school facilities are adequate, well-staffed but will need to be increased to keep up with the growing population.

Bikinis, Mink Pom-Poms Featured in Fashion Show

VIRGINIA BEACH—A twist dress of striped flannel with mink pom-poms down the back and pink striped and red checked bikini bathing suits were just a few of the original Inga Borg creations displayed at a special showing last Thursday.

Miss Borg, a professional model and fashion designer now living at Virginia Beach, held afternoon and evening showing, at her Charm School on the mezzanine of Capt. Jim's Import Shop on Norfolk Avenue.

High Style

Catering to Miss Borg's high-style preference, many of the designs featured one-shoulder and spaghetti-strap bodices and draped and bustle-back skirts.

The fabrics ranged from delicate and polished cottons to the more elaborate chiffons and brocades. The styles included everything from brief swimwear to bouffant formals.

Intermingled with Miss Borg's designs were items from the import shop such as a white French embroidered batiste playsuit and a cerise and gold reversible Japanese silk lounging robe.

Chorus to Present Two Vocalists in Opera Production

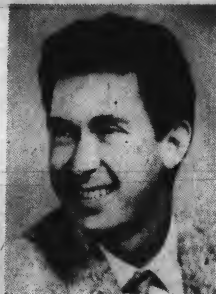

MRS. SALLIE SUTER

VIRGINIA BEACH — The "Trial By Jury" segment of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus' "A Night of Gilbert and Sullivan" will be headlined by two outstanding vocalists, Mrs. Sallie Suter and Earl Davis.

The production will be presented May 25 and 26 at the Virginia Beach High School Auditorium.

Mrs. Suter, a native of North Carolina and long time resident of Norfolk who moved to Virginia Beach about three years ago, has an extensive background in musical work.

She spent two years in Europe as music-recreation director with the Army Special Services where she had her own "Sallie Sings" show that toured field clubs in Germany. She appeared with Vic Damone while he was in the Army, sang at the famous

EARL DAVIS

Pearle Mesta's "Open House" in Luxembourg and made a movie short for Special Services.

After studying at St. Mary's College in Raleigh and the Julliard School of Music in New York, she worked in radio and television before going to Corpus Christi (Tex.) where she was a soloist with Lyric Theatre and star of the annual Lions Musical.

During Mrs. Suter's three years with the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus, she has starred in six concerts and has done solo work at Fort Story, and the First Baptist and First Presbyterian Churches.

Married to Albert E. Suter, who is associated with Federal Aviation Administration, they have three children, Mike, 8, Dixon, 5, & Allison, 2½ months, and reside on 81st Street.

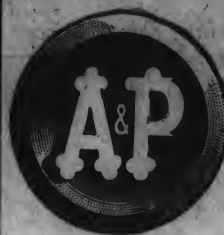

Davis also toured widely in Europe, traveling with an evangelist group that eventually led him to a meeting with Billy Graham in London. He traveled throughout this country and Canada with similar groups including the noted Hyman Appleman. He studied trumpet at Nyack, N.Y. and voice at the Julliard School of Music in New York City and took extra college courses in theology, music and psychology.

Before giving up the trumpet to specialize in vocal work, he played first chair trumpet in four Carnegie Hall concerts.

Had Radio Show While serving as an associate pastor in Akron, Ohio, a few years ago, he organized a highly successful youth group and conducted his own "Sunday Evening Radio Hour" radio show.

Davis retired from evangelism three years ago to settle in his native Norfolk and joined the insurance firm of J. O. Keene and Company where he made the Millionaires Club. He helped organize seven choirs in Norway, directed several musical productions, and became a member of the Norfolk Civic Chorus.

Since moving to Virginia Beach, he has worked with the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus and served as first president of the Princess Anne Council of Civic Organizations.

Bowlers Aid Cancer Victims

'Bowl Down Cancer' Helps Fund Drive

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Princess Anne Unit of the American Red Cross received $409.45 from local proceeds of the nation-wide "Bowl Down Cancer" campaign.

Benefit tournaments were held April 22 through 28 at Bayside Bowl, Rinaldi's Plaza Bowl and Thunderbird Bowling Lanes.

Proceeds for the Cancer Crusade were derived from small entry fees the bowlers paid to participate in the local, state, regional and national tournaments.

Joe Phelps of Thunderbird Lanes and Jay B. "Pappy" Irish of Rinaldi's Plaza Bowl presented the check to L. C. Brennan, special events chairman for the Princess Anne Unit, and Dr. Howard Kahn, Crusade Chairman.

Students from Princess Anne and Virginia Beach High School and Country Day School for Girls assisted the bowling proprietors in registering the entries.

The "Bowl Down Cancer" project was sponsored by the American Cancer Society and the Bowling Proprietors Assn. of America. Owners of the local establishments are members of the Hampton Roads Bowling Proprietors Association.

4 More Stores Are Opening in P. A. Plaza

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA — Headlining the festivities in celebration of the second grand opening of Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center is a live television broadcast, direct from the Plaza's parking area. Opening will be Sanford's ladies wearing apparel, Peoples Drug Store, A.B.C. store and Pica-Pair Shoe Store.

These stores together with the stores already open at the Plaza represent a total of 305,000 square feet of shopping area.

Broadcast from Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center today will be "Get Together" WTAR-TV's regular 1:00 p.m. show, starring Mildred Alexander and Warren Hull. Both of these stars will be on hand to greet the public and salute the new stores.

The show will also feature the three top winners of the merchants' association's recent "I Love Mom" contest. Many children have submitted letters which explain why each child loves his mother. After the judging, each letter will be returned to the respective mother for her own Mother's Day memento. Winners in three separate categories will each receive a $25.00 Freedom Bond.

On camera will be pictures of the winners and runners-up of the Plaza's "Mad Hatters" contest for which a large number of ladies and some children made whimsical hats "out of anything around the house." Carousel rides will be available on Thursday and Friday to add to the festivities.

Already open at Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center are a number of offices, merchandise and service firms, which, with the addition of the four new stores, form a unified merchandise center, now the largest in the new City of Virginia Beach.

These firms include: Greco's Shoe Repair, Colonial Stores, Rose's 5-10-25c store, High's Ice Cream, Plaza Cleaners & Economical Automatic Laundry, Eastern Finance Corp., Plaza Parisian Beauty Salon, Princess Anne Savings and Loan Assn., Plaza Hardware, Freddie's Pizzeria, Rinaldi's Plaza Bowl, two offices for doctors, a restaurant, Mac Lane and Cheung, Inc., Larason Realty and Insurance Corporation, John Aragona Enterprises, Inc., Sidney G. Spero and Company, Kellam and Kellam, Attorneys and Lafayette Building Corp.

A high I.Q. (intelligence quotient) generally goes with a high T.Q. (thrift quotient). Savings regularly through U. S. Savings Bonds is evidence of both.

Big Day at Stables

Local Realtors Join in Annual National Salute

VIRGINIA BEACH — Realtors of Virginia Beach will begin celebration of national Realtor Week Sunday, May 20, and will run through Saturday, May 26.

Under the motto "Homestead and Home — Foundation of the Nation," they will join with some 70,000 other Realtors across the nation, seeking through this means to emphasize their services and to make clearer the distinction between a Realtor and others in the real estate business.

Realtors are members of local constituent boards of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of the largest trade and professional organizations in the country.

"A Realtor," Homer Cunningham, president of the Virginia Beach Real Estate Board said today, "subscribes to a well-established code of professional ethics enforced through the local board. It obligates us to keep the interests of both buyer and seller uppermost in mind during a transaction."

The term Realtor was adopted by NAREB in 1916, and its exclusive right to the ownership of the term for use by its members only has been established by numerous court cases over the years. It is registered as a collective mark (similar to a trademark) in the United States Patent Office.

The parent organization, founded in 1908 in Minneapolis, Minn., has offices in Chicago, Ill., and Washington, D.C. Realtors are kept aware of changes in real estate law, mortgage rates, buying trends, and innumerable other business factors, through publications of the Association's professional staff which maintains close contact with developments throughout the country.

Pembroke Manor Building Opening in Early Summer

PEMBROKE — Construction on Terry Corporation's $30 million Pembroke Manor is now under way and is scheduled to open by early summer.

The 453-acre community is located on Virginia Beach Blvd., flanked on one side by Aragona Village and by Princess Anne High School on the other.

In the center of the proposed development stands the historic Pembroke home, a brick building of Georgian architecture dating back to 1764, which will eventually be restored and possibly be maintained as a museum and art center.

Frank D. Tarrall and Associates has been retained by Terry Corporation to assist in the land planning. Lublin, McGaughy & Associates, an architectural and engineering firm, will serve as consultants and assist in the community planning.

Homes in the new development will range from $11,600 to $15,400 and will follow a blend of colonial and contemporary styles in keeping with the heritage of the Pembroke home.

When completed, the community will offer 1,100 residences, some on waterfront and wooded sites, an elementary school, churches, a community building, playground area, 60-acre shopping center and multiple housing units.

Since 1955, when Terry Corporation came into the Norfolk area, they have built about 1,400 homes in Crestwood, Aragona Village and Malibu. For the past three years they have built and sold between 200 and 250 homes a year and are equipped to build about 300 homes a year in Pembroke Manor.

Three principals in Terry Corporation are residents of Princess Anne County — Fred Napolitano, Horace Cistola and Alfred Cistola. The fourth is Emilio Oliveri of New York City.

Princess Anne Tops In 4-H Show Sale

By E. R. (Dick) COCKRELL, JR., County Agent

PRINCESS ANNE—When the 13th Annual Portsmouth 4-H Junior Steer Show and Sale was over it was Princess Anne all the way.

Miss Theresa Pecsek took top honor of Grand Champion of the Show with her 980 lbs. Prime Hereford Steer. Norman Perlin, of Perlin Packing Company, paid 71c per pound for the Champion.

Previous to being named Grand Champion, Theresa's steer won Champion Hereford over Norfolk County. Theresa was sponsored by the Bank of Virginia Beach. Her steer was bred by Jack Kinzer of Mulberry Hill Farm, near Warrenton, Virginia.

Not to be outdone by the young lady from Blackwater, Jerry Moulton of West Neck won his class in the ten animal Princess Anne Angus class. Then won Champion of the Show. Jerry's steer was a 1,105 Prime Angus purchased by the Black Angus Restaurant for 47c per lb. He may be seen at the front door of the Angus at Virginia Beach. Mr. Christy Hariton and Mike Savides expect to keep him there on display for approximately 30 days. Jerry was sponsored by the National Bank of Commerce, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

David White, from Sigma, who fed his first steer this year, was "up in the air" too. His steer stood second in the Princess Anne Angus Class, and later in competition in the Champion Angus Class, won reserve Champion Angus of the Show. This 925 lb. choice plus Champion was purchased by Lynn Kennett, James Doyle, and John W. Potter for 39c per lb.

In the Fitting and Showing class, where the showman is judged on how well he has fitted his steer and shows him, Princess Anne stole the show by having eight placings in the final ten. Jerry Moulton was first.

Seaside Park Opens May 25

VIRGINIA BEACH — Seaside Park at Virginia Beach will open its 1962 season on Friday, May 25.

Little damaged by the March storm, Seaside Park will present a new appearance to early season visitors in many particulars. A new stage has been built on which to present the free acts which are a major attraction each season for the entire Beach resort.

The Whirl-A-Way ride has been placed on a new concrete foundation, and picket posts, gaily and freshly painted and decorated, have replaced much of the former wire mesh guard rails. The midway boasts many new amusement games, but the old favorites are still there too.

The free circus acts start June 4, when Wild Bill Cody and Company begin a week's engagement. The attractions on the Outdoor Stage will change every week. Fireworks displays also will be presented at frequent intervals, beginning on Memorial Day, Wednesday, May 30.

Dancing in the ballroom is scheduled, and the twist is expected to be the headline attraction there. Several bands will play for the dancers, and jam sessions will be held every Saturday and Sunday.

Bradberry and His Six Little Buttons, a trained dog act, will be presented on the Outdoor Stage as a free attraction for a few weeks beginning Sunday, May 27, at 2:30 p.m.

Beware of 'em

The Russian Story

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH — "The Russians are not to be trusted. They are tricky. They talk big but say nothing and when they are quiet, they are up to something. America should beware of them."

These emphatic statements were made by Inga Borg, a tall, willow blonde who learned about the Russians first hand—in a prison camp.

At the end of the war she, and most of her family, were sent from their native Germany to a camp in Leningrad. A brother is still imprisoned in Siberia, completely isolated from the rest of the world, kept alive "only because he could speak seven languages."

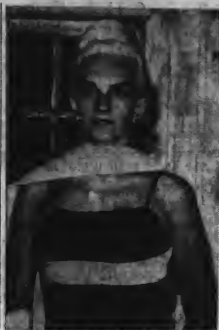

After three horrifying years, the teen-aged Miss Borg escaped from the camp and spent the next nine months making her way back to Prussia. She eventually learned, through the American Red Cross, that other members of her family had escaped to Denmark.

Since that time, Miss Borg has become a professional model, award-winning dress designer and operator of charm schools throughout Germany, Canada and America. She now makes her home on 62nd Street, Va. Beach.

Miss Borg picked up the pieces of her life in Danzig, where she found employment with the American government and completed her schooling in fashion designing. Both her mother and sister were hat designers and Miss Borg's natural talent for fashion opened new and exciting fields for her.

From her government work and modeling assignments, she managed to save enough money to open her own modeling school. In less than two years, she had expanded to three schools and was designing her own fashions which she rented and sold through special showings. At one point she won a competition between England, France and Germany by pinning 14 high-style designs on live models in 15 minutes.

Taxes and living conditions were so expensive in Germany, however, she decided to move to Canada. There she started all over again.

Limited funds did not permit her to open a school immediately so she took four jobs a day to raise the money. She served breakfast in an officer's club from 8 to 10 a.m.; was cashier in a theatre from noon to 5 p.m.; modeled furs in private homes after 5 p.m.; and worked as a cashier in a cocktail lounge from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m.

It was a grueling schedule but she kept it up for six months until she had enough money for her school. She opened it in Toronto and was again on her way.

Miss Borg's Canadian endeavor was known as a charm school because the attitude toward modeling in that country was far different from that in Germany. She also found that Canadian women were not yet ready for the type clothes she offered.

"I've always been a few years ahead in my designs," she said. "I was designing the sack dress years before it became fashionable."

Feeling that New York City would be more receptive to her designs, she moved there and

SAVE TIME AND ENERGY IN HOUSE CLEANING

You can make your house cleaning easier by studying the job so you can learn to do it in an easier, better way in less time.

Setting a standard for the appearance of the inside of your home is the first step in planning the cleaning and care it needs. Such standard should be reasonable and consistent with other values in family living.

The amount of cleaning you need to do depends on several things: Your standards; size and condition of your house; type of furnishings and interior finishes in your home; amount of storage space for clothing, linens, food, equipment, etc.; labor-saving equipment; size of family; your health and energy.

Ways to Reduce Cleaning

Make a flexible plan. Your plan should be flexible as cleaning is usually fitted in with other homemaking tasks. Avoid hurry and confusion by doing first things first. Plan work to avoid retracing steps and motion.

Keep dirt out. Hard surfaced walks or paths leading to the house help cut down on the amount of dirt tracked in.

Keep porches, steps and walks clean.

Use door mats and scrapers near entrances for removing dirt from shoes. Provide storage for outdoor and work clothes near entrances.

Do frequent light cleaning. Try to distribute your special cleaning over a longer period of time and eliminate annual upheavals in house cleaning. This can be done by including a small part of it in the regular weekly cleaning. For example, clean the windows in one or two rooms one week, clean the walls in several rooms the next, and wash the woodwork in the kitchen the third week. Some homemakers prefer to clean one room thoroughly each month along with their daily and weekly care of the house.

Working in a comfortable position will make house cleaning easier and save time. Keep a good posture when working to prevent that tired feeling. Stand erect. Bend at the knees when stooping or lifting rather than at the waist.

Wear comfortable clothing that allows freedom of body while working.

Use long-handled tools to avoid stooping.

Sit to work whenever possible.

Keep everything within easy reach. Plan a convenient place to keep the cleaning equipment, tools, and supplies. Suppliment the less expensive items can be kept near the areas where they are used. In a two-story house keep a broom, a dry mop, a dustpan, a dust cloth, and cleaning supplies on the second floor as well as on the first floor.

All tools and supplies should be hung up or placed on shelves within easy reach. Waxed and oiled cloths should be stored in metal containers for safety.

Practice using both hands to get the job done more quickly. Smooth, continuous motions of both hands are preferable to zig-zag motions. Jerky motions tire you and use more time.

Plan for an easy flow of work for everyday jobs. Use long, smooth, firm strokes when cleaning walls, windows, floors and rugs. Use both hands at once when you dust chairs, tables, chests and other furniture and furnishings.

Use your vacuum cleaner attachments for all dusting possible.

Use one hand to wash woodwork, the other to dry it.

Housecleaning properly done can contribute to the health and safety of the family as well as to the appearance and comfort of the home.

There's no surer way to protect your own future than investing in your country's future—another reason for buying U. S. Savings Bonds.

By DARLA SUE DESKINS

The Student Cooperative Association is an important part of an active school. This reporter is proud to announce that the new S.C.A. officers are the best that V.B.H.S. could possibly have chosen.

Sue Deskins

Up for the strenuous office of president were Kitty Bosher & John Dooley. Running for second in command — the vice-president — were Candy Todd and Harriet Gilliam. Hoping for the job of sharpening pencils — secretary — were Elaine Zegan and Bonnie Berry. Those with cent signs in their eyes — treasurer — were Connie Medas and Steven Stricklar. The candidates were introduced to the student body by their campaign managers — all of which had a few 1,000 well-chosen words to persuade those in the audience that their candidate was definitely the best.

Campaign buttons, posters, speeches, all of these things were factors leading up to the election of Kitty Bosher as president, Candy Todd vice-president, Bonnie Berry as secretary, and Steven Stricklar as treasurer. Congratulations to these hard working souls. May your plans for a chicken in every lunchroom, the new deal on homework, and the new frontier of learning be successful.

Monday evening the doors of V.B.H.S. were flung wide to the parents of those students not capable of keeping the secret of opera house from them. Grades were discussed by the party of the first part and the party of the second who no doubt made a decision about the third to cut out parties.

Before the parents made the tour of the places we call home they were entertained by the chorus. Some of the selections so beautifully executed were "O Brother Man," "Green Fields," "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," and "Ave Verum." J. William Miller's chorus then did a Salute to Broadway which consisted of: The Sound of Music—"Climb Every Mountain"; State Fair—"It's a Grand Night for Singing"; My Fair Lady—"I Could Have Danced All Night"; Carousel—"You'll Never Walk Alone"; Peter Pan—"I Won't Grow Up"; West Side Story—"Tonight"; "I Feel Pretty" and "One Hand, One Heart".

It was thoroughly entertaining especially for the young men in the audience—all of the girls in the chorus were attired in formal. The chorus was under the direction of J. William Miller and the piano accompanist was Linda Williamson.

The band under the direction of Dale Browder was prepared to cheer up the parents as they returned from talks with the teachers. They began with "A Festival Prelude," and from there swung into Gypsy highlights—"Everything's Coming Up Roses," "Small World," "You'll Never Get Away From Me," and "Together: Wherever We Go." After Broadway came the time for toe stamping to John Phillip Sousa's immortal "The Stars and Stripes Forever." Mrs. Sara E. Sexton was the piccolo soloist. The evening closed with a sentimental tune, "The Apartment" with J. William Miller joining the band at the piano.

Darla's Darlin': Spend no effort in an attempt to hold the sands of time, but when they fall let each grain have been wisely spent.

Singing Bee At P. A. High

PRINCESS ANNE — About 1,640 elementary school pupils, representing sixteen Princess Anne County Schools, will participate in the Fourth Annual Singing Bee to be held at Princess Anne High School Auditorium Friday from 10 a.m. to noon.

This yearly event is sponsored by the elementary school vocal music teachers with Mrs. Irene Korte, as chairman. It is designed as the culminating activity of the year's work in the elementary choral program. The Bee is in no way competitive, but consists of a learning experience in the art of choral singing. All pupils have prepared selected choral numbers which will be rehearsed by the guest conductor of the Bee, Clark Graves, director of the Princess Anne High School Choir. Mrs. Barbara Harrell, Miss Carroll Shoemaker, and Miss Anna Norman will accompany. Mrs. Sue Glasco is in charge of the seating arrangements.

Participating schools & music teachers include: Shelton Park — Miss Harriet Berkeley, W. T. Cooke — Mrs. Marilyn Dryman, Kempsville Elementary — Mr. Solomon Duncan, Jr., Plaza — Mrs. Deanne Forbes, Aragona — Mrs. Glasco, Bayside — Mr. Bernard Ham, Creeds & Courthouse — Mrs. Harrell, Woodstock — Mrs. Suzanne Jeter, John B. Dey — Mrs. Korte, Thalia — Mrs. Glenda Lovelace, Thoroughgood — Miss Morman, Luxford — Mr. Luttrell Sawyer, Kings Grant — Miss Shoemaker, Kempsville Meadows — Mrs. Christine Stauffer, and Linkhorn Park — Mrs. Sue Williams.

Music to be rehearsed includes: the canon—"Let's Laugh and Play and Sing"; "When You Wish Upon a Star", from Pinocchio, "Kentucky Babe", "The Battle Hymn of the Republic", and Peter Lutkin's "The Lord Bless and Keep You" in which the elementary Singing Bee group will be joined by the High School Acapella Choir.

The Princess Anne High School Acapella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Graves, will present a short concert in the concluding part of the morning's activities.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Volume Control Phones Aid to Hard of Hearing

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia announced the availability of a new volume control telephone for people with impaired hearing.

L. F. Patrick, local C & P Manager said, "It looks like a regular phone except that it has a tiny wheel control in the center of the handset that lets anyone with impaired hearing adjust the loudness of incoming telephone voices to the best listening level."

The new volume control handset comes in all phone colors and can be used with desk and wall sets and with the Princess and the Call Director telephones.

C&P Manager Patrick also said that a similar handset is available for persons with weak voices. It raises the level of the voice when a person talks into the transmitter.

Local Post Office Praised For Storm Service

A "Superior Accomplishment Award" was recently presented to the employees of the Virginia Beach Post Office for "service above and beyond the postal demands during the March 7 storm." It was awarded by the Postmaster General J. Edward Day and Regional Director Fergus J. McRee. Admiring

Easter Travel Sets Records

RICHMOND — Easter Week business this year at most Virginia travel attractions broke all existing records for the same period other years, according to Robert F. Nelson, Managing Director of the Virginia Travel Council.

A spot check made by the statewide travel organization revealed that despite the first chilly weeks of April, many areas ended the month with record breaking increases due to Easter Week business, while other sections of the state started and ended the month with a bang.

Nelson, who predicts that 1962 will be the largest travel year in the history of Virginia's $670 million dollar travel industry, believes that tourism will gain even more momentum from the $525,000 appropriation made for state travel advertising by the Virginia General Assembly this year. He paid tribute also to Governor Albertis Harrison's recent statement — "Money spent to encourage tourism and travel provides the biggest return for every dollar spent."

Norfolk saw a 37 percent increase in hotel and motel reservations during Easter Week, with 18,000 persons turning out for the coronation of Miss Peggy Goldwater, this year's Azalea Queen, as compared to 10,000 a year ago, reported Sid Oman, director of public relations, Norfolk Chamber of Commerce. Oman added that Norfolk accommodations reported a large hike in New England visitors, and credited the Virginia Travel Council's participation in the Hartford Travel Show earlier in April for the increase in New England business. He added that 100 additional newspapers covered this year's International Azalea Festival as well as Life, Time and Glamour magazines.

Virginia Beach enjoyed a general increase in this April's business of 20 percent. Mrs. Laura Lambe, director of advertising for the resort city, stated that many motels enjoyed capacity during both 1961 and 1962 Easter Weeks, but that others showed a 10 to 30 percent increase in this year's Easter reservations. Hotels open for Easter this season reported a 50 percent increase in business as compared to 1961's early and wintry Easter Week, she said. Mrs. Lambe cited perfect weather, the spring holiday for northern children and Garden Week as factors which offset the first three weeks of slow business during April at the Beach. She added that less than 2 percent of the inquiries received by the Virginia Beach Chamber this April asked about storm damage. "All indications are that Virginia Beach, which saw a 17 percent increase in business last year, will have another record breaking season during 1962," she said.

Sunday Special Omelet

Here's just the dish for Sunday's leisurely brunches or late supper snacks. It's a French omelet that we've topped with a crisp and crunchy sprinkling of sauteed cracker crumbs, then filled with a nippy pasteurized process cheese spread. The "crunch" atop this omelet makes it unusual enough to suit Sunday best tastes, while the cheese spread adds that important flavor to satisfy and delight all your guests. You might want to serve this rich and nutritious omelet on meatless days too, for it's filling enough to keep the heartiest of eaters happy.

If brunch is the meal made extra special with this Omelet Crunch, partner it with frosty glasses of juice, tender, flakey puffs of French pastry and steaming cups of coffee. But when it appears at the supper table, serve it with a crisp green salad, stewed tomatoes and hot rolls—and as a finale, dishes of fresh-chilled citrus fruits topped with a colorful scoop of sherbet.

Omelet Crunch

4 eggs, beaten
Salt and pepper
Margarine
Round, buttery crackers, coarsely crumbled
Cheese Whiz

Saute cracker crumbs in margarine. Pour in beaten eggs and cook slowly. When almost set, top with Cheese Whiz, fold and serve immediately.

Mushroom Egg Scramble
6 eggs beaten
1 No. 2 can condensed mushroom soup
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup chopped canned mushrooms

Mix beaten eggs, soup and mushrooms, season with salt and pepper. Melt butter in a skillet and when hot pour in egg mixture. Scramble until eggs are cooked. Serve in patty shells or on buttered toast. Very good served with ham or bacon.

SPANISH OMELET

4 egg yolks beaten
4 egg whites, beaten until stiff
1 cup fresh tomato, peeled, seeds removed and cut coarsely
2 tablespoons green pepper, chopped

2 teaspoons onion, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon cream of tartar

Cut tomatoes in half, remove seed and cut in pieces. Sauté the onion and green pepper in the butter until tender. Add tomato and heat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Whip egg yolks well. Beat egg whites until quite stiff but not dry with the cream of tartar. Pour the yolks into the whites and fold together. Pour into a hot buttered pan. As the edges cook, lift with a spatula to the center, continuing to do this until the eggs stop running. Put part of the cooked vegetables on one side. When the eggs begin to set, fold over. Place in the oven to finish and under the broiler. Turn out on a hot platter and pour the remaining sauce over the omelet.

CREAMED EGGS AND CHEESE TOAST

6 hard cooked eggs
Peel and quarter eggs
Mix just enough cream sauce with eggs to hold them together. Serve them over Melba Toast. Cover with cheese sauce.

CHEESE SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk, heated
1 cup grated American Cheese

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Dash pepper
¼ teaspoon dry mustard

Melt the butter, add flour and stir until smooth—slowly add milk and stir until smooth and thickened. Add the cheese and seasonings. Stir until well blended.

"The egg is the cement that holds the castles of cookery together"—Unknown.

New Detergent Is Announced

Are you one of the many homemakers who is never quite satisfied with home laundry results? Following five years of laboratory research and tests in thousands of homes, Procter & Gamble has developed a new type of detergent that seems to be an answer to the problem of getting uniformly clean, bright clothes.

This new product is being offered in this area for the first time. It is a round, white, two-ounce tablet called Salvo. It contains just the right combination of ingredients to produce a cleaner, brighter wash. Just drop two tablets in a top-loading or wringer machine or one tablet in a front-loader before you put in the laundry.

The new washing tablet is firm enough to withstand normal handling, yet it dissolves rapidly in the water to provide the washing action needed during the full washing cycle to produce a clean sparkling wash. It is an all-purpose low-sudsing detergent and cost about the same to use as other products of the same type. The tablet form eliminates measuring, spilling or leaking—and sneezing, if that's one of your problems.

The Salvo tablet is about two inches across, and an inch thick. The tablets are sold in cartons of 12, 24 and 72 each. They are enclosed in plastic pouches, each containing four tablets, for easy handling and storage.

The new tablets can be used on any type fabric with your usual machine settings, water temperature and washing time.

NAHB Project

Four Research Houses

(The NAHB has built four Research Houses and is planning to build a fifth. This series tells about the first one built in 1957 and the results to the industry. This is the first time this story has been told.)

(Second in a Series)
By JULIAN RASHKIND
President Tidewater Assn.
of Home Builders

Members of the Tidewater Association of Home Builders believe that home ownership can and should be within the reach of every American family. Home builders are working constantly to bring this about by providing better homes in all price brackets at the best value possible. A large part of their pioneering for a better house at a lower cost is done through the Research Institute of the National Association of Home Builders, with which the Tidewater Association of Home Builders is affiliated.

The Institute has built four Research Houses and is starting another. How these experimental houses affect the new homes we live in can be seen by a look at the frontiers crossed in the building of the first NAHB Research House. It was constructed in 1955 in Kensington, Md., near Washington, D. C.

Ralph J. Johnson, Director of NAHB's Research Institute says that the Kensington House successfully demonstrated the benefits achieved when home builders and the manufacturers of products used in the building of a home work together in the development of new materials.

A new concept in exterior walls, tested in the Kensington House, is a case in point.

Over the years, the outside walls of a typical house have been composed of some 13 layers. Starting from the outside, you would have, probably, two coats of paint, some kind of siding, some kind of sheathing, building paper, studs, insulation, gypsum board, three coats of joint cement, and two coats of inside paint.

Installation of so many layers is a time-consuming and high labor-cost process. It means that one, two, or more men have to move to the same place, take the same position, and go through somewhat similar motions some 13 times.

In the building of the Kensington house, the layers were reduced from 13 to five—and three of the five layers were paint!

This dramatic reduction was made possible by the cooperation of a manufacturer, one of a number of firms which worked with the NAHB in the creation of brand new materials and products for the test house.

In the case of the walls, the Masonite Corp., Chicago, produced a siding in which one layer performed all the functions previously done by four layers. The multi-functional siding proved entirely successful and is now on the market, as are other materials of the same nature.

The Kensington House has an exterior of tempered hardboard—that is, wood fibres compressed by factory methods into a very hard board. The hardboard used in the test house was textured and thus also served a decorative function.

The reduction of layers by use of materials that perform more than one duty, is a way of whittling down construction costs. The new materials are strong, tight, and long-living. They serve the historic purpose of exterior walls—to keep out weather, and animals, to keep in people and protect their goods.

The success the NAHB chalked up with the Kensington House has stimulated others to build research houses. A number of builders and manufacturing firms have put up research houses of their own and similar experimental houses have been built in Canada.

The knowledge gained by all of the Tidewater Association of Home Builders through publications which they regularly see such as the NAHB JOURNAL of Homebuilding, reports and technical papers. Norfolk area builders who are members of Tidewater Association of Home Builders are free to adapt the findings to their own work, and they do so.

Benjamin Franklin said: "A penny saved is a penny got"—though we usually misquote it "... a penny earned." Either way, the regular buyer of United States Savings Bonds is heeding the advice of that wise American.

A unique simulated whalebone screen sets off the lounge and dance area of the newly opened Bay Harbour Club. The bar is to the right and features three lighted decorator panels of marine treasures imbedded in frosted glass. The circular gold rug and parquet floor follow the club's in-the-round design. The dining room and informal outdoor terrace overlook Linkhorn Bay. The club adjoins the Olympia Health Club and White Heron Motel on Laskin Road. (Photos by Boice.)

Floyd Kellam, Jr. and Miss Barbara Dix carry on an animated conversation at the formal opening of The Bay Harbour Club on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simpson pause in the foyer of the new Bay Harbour Club before joining the other guests on the occasion of the club's formal opening on May 12th.

Beach Scientist Named to Fisheries Staff

GLOUCESTER POINT — Director William J. Hagis, Jr., of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science announced today the appointment of Dr. Wyman Harrison of Virginia Beach to the Institute's scientific staff. Dr. Harrison recently resigned his position as associate professor of geology at the Norfolk College of William and Mary in order to go into full time research. The appointment of Dr. Harrison is the second step in the Institute's program of expanding into the field of hydrographic and geologic research. This program will provide valuable data now lacking by Virginia marine scientists in their efforts to thoroughly understand the role of environmental factors in the migration, spawning, population and mortality of commercially important fisheries and sportfishes. The first step in the program was consummated several months ago in the establishment of physical oceanography at the Institute by Mr. Maynard Nichols.

Dr. Harrison attended Stanford University and the University of Chicago, receiving his BS, MS, and Ph.D. degrees from the latter. He performed research work on the Indiana Geological Survey from 1956 until 1959. Before coming to Norfolk College of William and Mary, he taught geology at Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire. He has remained close to research throughout his teaching career, however, and has authored 28 scientific publications.

A tour of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Project has been arranged and will be conducted

B&PW CLUB TO ENTER PARADE

PRINCESS ANNE—The Business and Professional Women's Club of Princess Anne County met Monday at 7 p.m. at Pine Tree Inn with Mrs. Mary Atkins, president, presiding.

Mrs. Doris McKinney, program chairman, presented a special program on "Highlights of Things to Come."

Two new members were introduced. They are Mrs. Mary S. Gray, assistant manager of Rice's children's department; and Mrs. Hallie P. Moore, secretary to the administrative officer at Oceana Naval Air Station.

It was announced that Mrs. Atkins, Mrs. Agnes Mabry and Mrs. Marguerite DeFrehn will represent the club in the Armed Forces Day Parade Saturday.

by Dr. Harrison for members of the Virginia Academy of Science meeting in Norfolk May 10-12. The group will depart at 7:15 a.m. and return at 2:45 p.m. on Saturday, May 12.

Dr. Harrison resides at Virginia Beach with his wife and two sons, David (4) and Steven (3).

Be-Lo Offering New Gift Book

VIRGINIA BEACH—A colorful new S&H catalog is now available to shoppers in Be-Lo Super Markets, Levinson's Market and other area stores which give S&H Green Stamps, according to James M. Scully, sales representative, The Sperry and Hutchinson Co.

The Ideabook features Dinah Shore on its cover. Miss Shore has designed a silk chiffon cocktail dress that is offered for 25 books. Cosmetics and accessories to complement the dress are also offered.

The 132-page catalog shows a sailboat (Sailfish class) and a 14-foot outboard motorboat in addition to the usual array of gift items for the house. The biggest item in the book certainly isn't meant for milady or the house. It's a big, red fire engine and it's shown as an example of what groups can get when they pool their stamps in community projects.

Mr. Scully also reported that this will be the most widely circulated catalog of all time. No fewer than 35 million copies will be distributed.

Close to 8,000 tons of paper went into the production of the catalog, and the catalog alone has a circulation greater than that of the Saturday Evening Post, Life, Look and the Reader's Digest combined. Stacked one on top of the other, a pile of all the S&H Green Stamp catalogs would stand 132 miles high.

According to Scully record printing orders are nothing new for S&H which prints many more stamps than the U. S. Post Office does.

A spirited horse fight in a stable is portrayed on this amphora, or Greek wine jar, from the 6th century B.C. An outstanding example of Greek painting is recently acquired by the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts for permanent display at the headquarters building in Richmond.

By The Rev. J. Elmer Medley
PRINCE OF PEACE
LUTHERAN CHURCH
(Missouri Synod)

How do you feel about a nuclear war? Have you built your fallout shelter yet? Does the thought of war "get to you"? If these thoughts have come to you in the past, let me assure you that you are not alone.

Recently I had a call from a woman who was distressed at news reports concerning "the bomb". She was convinced that this was the means God has chosen to "call history home".

"The Bible," she said, "speaks of wars and weapons, but these are insignificant when compared with our definition of weapons today." She also made references to the Scripture accounts of the end: war, destruction, fire, etc.

Conversations, thoughts, such as these, are not uncommon. Does God have anything at all to say to "the-soaring 60's"? Read Psalm 103. I'm sure you'll agree that He does. In this Psalm of David God makes His role in world history, and especially in your life, quite clear. God is your protector. It matters little to the Christian whether the end comes in the next year, or in the next minute, for at life's end, there awaits the assurance of being with God.

God has made provisions for you in His great plan of Salvation. He has sent Christ to be your Saviour. By Christ's death on the cross, you have assurance that your sins are forgiven, and that these promises, which God makes to the faithful, are made to you.

Only one thing does God require of man, faith. And wonder of wonders, this faith He gives through the Holy Ghost. May God bless you as you live this life of faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a stupor of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Clearance, weather information, assigned altitudes and airways, landing instructions... we take these for granted. We simply fly from point to point, our progress and safety undergirded by an intricate web of scientific communication.

Perhaps that's why, today, so many assume that some celestial system ought to assure everyone comfort, success and happiness.

But the control tower can operate only because every pilot respects its purpose and has faith in its instructions.

Our moral progress and our spiritual security are the constant concern of the Church. Its worship and guidance undergird the lives of all who respect its Purpose, and have faith in the truths of God which it teaches.

June Event

Music Festival Judges Named

VIRGINIA BEACH—Three top-ranking directors in the band music field—O. V. Kraushaar, Dr. Paul Yoder and Roy Wood—have been named judges for the first annual Virginia Beach Music Festival to be held here June 14-16.

More than 2,000 high school students will compete for marching and concert honors when 15 bands from eight southeastern states gather for the three-day musical exhibition.

Kraushaar, who last December won a nationally televised award for his efforts in maintaining the "high ideals, standards and leadership" in the Music Education Field of America, is a person of considerable prominence in both high school and college band circles.

Presently a member of the music faculty of the University of Miami (Fla.), Kraushaar has served as bassoonist with such noteworthy groups as the Canadian Klites Band, Chicago Concert Band, Michigan Symphony Orchestra and the Sousa Band. He has directed high school bands throughout Indiana and Florida and worked with summer music camps at Florida State University and the University of Miami.

Kraushaar has been band and orchestra adjudicator in district and state contests in Texas, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and National Contests and has held long-term offices in state and national music organizations.

Wood, now completing his twentieth year as director of bands at Winter Haven (Fla.) High School, has seven "Bowl Game" performances to his credit and has appeared with the band on national television on the Garry Moore Show, the Peter Lind Hayes Show, the Dave Garroway Show and others.

Under Wood's direction, the Winter Haven band has also appeared in Havana, Cuba as guests of the National Tourist Commission of Cuba, at the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C., and the Mardi Gras in New Orleans, La. and Mobile, Ala.

An adjudicator in Florida and adjacent states for the past 15 years, Wood has held offices in the Florida Bandmasters Assn., Florida Vocal Assn. and is now serving a two-year term as president of the Florida Music Educators Assn.

Original compositions and arrangements for school band music have gained Dr. Yoder national recognition, with more than 1,000 of his works

SBA Disaster Service Ends

VIRGINIA BEACH—Although victims of the March storm, not already assisted, will have until Sept. 30 to apply for rehabilitation aid, the major assistance under the SBA Disaster Loan Program has been accomplished and local operations closed May 18th.

Applications can now be filed in the Richmond Regional Office for the Virginia area and in the Charlotte Branch Office for North Carolina areas.

C. Raymond Shaw, Manager of the Virginia Beach Office which operated through three field offices at Hampton and Virginia Beach, Virginia, and Manteo in North Carolina, reports a total activity of more than 200 loans for over $2,400,000 for the Virginia-North Carolina sector; 100 of this amount for $1,030,000 were in Virginia Beach-Norfolk-Hampton Area and 101 loans for $1,342,000 were along the North Carolina Outer Banks.

They ranged all the way from the small amounts to home owners and fishermen up to the more substantial loans to the larger motels and hotels.

A parallel activity in the Maryland-Virginia Eastern Shore Area accounted for 110

PRINCESS ANNE—The proposed Virginia Wesleyan College will be located in Princess Anne County, the Board of Trustees announced last week.

An option to buy the W. E. Smith Farm, consisting of 195.36 acres, anytime prior to Dec. 31, 1963, has been recorded at Princess Anne County House.

The Board of Trustees have paid, according to the records, $20,000 to William S. Smith and his wife, Mildred, of Waverly, Va., for exclusive rights to purchase the land before the 1963 date.

Total sum of the purchase price will be $400,000. At the time of the settlement, another VIRGINIA BEACH—Plans are moving ahead for a gala racing program to open the Freedom "7" Dragway at Creeds next Wednesday, Memorial Day, according to E. A. Culverhouse, general manager.

Following the Memorial Day program the Dragway plans drag racing each Sunday and on special holidays during the summer months. A special program is being planned for opening day.

Cash prizes totaling $200 will be offered the drag race drivers and appropriate trophies in each class will be awarded, Culverhouse pointed out.

Parade Precedes Season Opening

The annual Armed Forces Day Parade Saturday set the pace for the opening of Virginia Beach's summer season Memorial Day weekend. Bright, sunny skies brought out an estimated 10,000 persons along Atlantic Avenue to view military weapons, men and equipment, Marching bands and colorful floats.

Volunteer Fireman Proud of DUKW

VIRGINIA BEACH—Members of the Virginia Beach Volunteer Fire Department worked overtime to finish the newly converted fire boat for the Armed Forces Day Parade Saturday. But they made it — with just hours to spare.

The boat, a converted DUKW, was bought as surplus Army equipment through Civil Defense for $475, Fire Chief E. B. "Bubba" Bayne said. Firemen installed a pump that can draft 500 gallons of water a minute through the bottom of the boat so that it can offer fire protection for waterfront homes while floating in the bay.

Two 600-gallon deck guns triple the water throwing power provided by hand nozzles and make the boat far more effective on waterfront buildings.

Though most of the new equipment's efforts will be protection for oceanfront hotels and private homes around the bay, it can also be used for drownings, draggings and rescue work, Chief Bayne said.

For land use it can be connected to hydrants and used as fire trucks are.

Operated by two men, the boat carries 300 feet of 2½-inch hose and 200 feet of 1½-inch hose.

The fire boat, to be stored at the fire house, brings the city's fire fighting equipment to a total of 10 pieces, plus the Ladies' Auxiliary coffee wagon and two automobiles.

Publicity From Roanoke

Va. Beach Wins Battle To Be Ready for '62 Season

(Editor's Note: The following newspaper article appeared in the Roanoke World-News last week and was written by a member of the news staff on that newspaper. The Sun-News is reprinting the story in the public interest and with appreciation to the Roanoke World-News.)

By ROCKY VAUGHT

World-News Staff Writer VIRGINIA BEACH — Grass is being planted here as the finishing touch of a massive restoration as much of this resort area reaches its final stage.

Restoration is being made of homes, businesses, sea walls and land areas wrecked or washed away by the March 7 storm that inflicted millions of dollars worth of damage here.

May 30 will signal the opening of the season. But last March 8 few believed Virginia Beach could be opened for its regular season.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett said today that nature has helped rebuild a nice strand of beach extending from First Street on the south of the city to the northern city limits at 49th Street and on to 89th St. at Fort Story. He said that some of the unfinished work consists of repouring the boardwalks, rebuilding the bulkhead (sea wall) and reconstructing homes and businesses.

North from 41st Street where the storm inflicted the most severe damage workers are jack-ing up homes for new foundations. Adjacent homes still fit at 20 to 40 degree angles where the sea left them setting after taking them off the foundations.

One of the most surprising accomplishments, according to John Mengel Jr., an automobile salesman, has been restoration of the 100 per cent demolished Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club. A visit there today found workmen waxing new floors and cleaning away construction material for a re-opening tomorrow night.

Mengel lives in a 200-apartment building. He told of seeing five-story high sheets of water breaking between two shored hotels, the Thunderbird and Gay Vacationer. He also told of seeing concrete slabs floating on top of the water because of the tremendous force boiling up from the breaking waves.

Mengel said that all the earth between the motel and the sea wall, a distance of about 40 feet, was washed away with a 10-foot slab of earth clinging in various places. These areas have been refilled, and replanted but some of the swimming pools that once were on the seashore of the motel are not being replaced.

Mengel also said there was concern for possible damage to shrubbery covered by the sea water but that surprisingly, it appears greener this year than last.

The day after the destructive storm, Mengel said, the attitude of the people here generally seems to be that they have fought back and actually, he said, the Beach is probably better off in some respects. He cited, for example, property that was badly in

At Post Office

Would-be Safe Cracker Picked Up Next Day

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS
VIRGINIA BEACH—Armed with a shirt, crowbar, package of cigarettes and a cigarette butt, the Virginia Beach Police Department broke the case on an attempted safe-cracking at Seapines Post Office Station just 14 hours after it took place.

Jack D. Taylor, 40, of Amarillo, Tex., was apprehended in Norfolk Saturday about 4 p.m. and arrested on suspicion of breaking and entering the 33rd Street postal building shortly after 2 a.m.

Mental Tests Ordered

Taylor was sent to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Washington, D.C. Monday afternoon by Federal Court Judge Walter Hoffman. He will be under examination there for 60 days. The suspect entered Seapines Station through a rear side window and, by using tools belonging to the post office, cut off the dial of the walk-in safe and cut through the front door plate, Police Chief Reeves Johnson said.

When a postal employee surprised the suspect, he ran, leaving behind his shirt with two business cards and cigarettes in one pocket.

The postal employee summoned the Virginia Beach Police. The call was answered by Capt. R. K. Halstead, Sgt. Henry Capps and Patrolmen James Barton, Jerry McGraw and Norman Morse. They were soon joined by Chief Johnson and Detective Joe Perez.

The postal employee gave an extremely accurate description of the man, Chief Johnson said, which contributed greatly to an early arrest.

Detective Perez was assigned to the case to work with Harold G. Wulfsberg, postal inspector from Norfolk. By 8 a.m. Saturday, Police were able to establish the identity of the suspect and learned that he might be driving a car with Oklahoma license plates, Johnson said.

Police checked an Ocean View motel where the suspect was believed to be staying while he looked for construction work in the Virginia Beach area, but he had checked out before they arrived.

North-End Gets Improved Mail Deliveries

VIRGINIA BEACH—Residents of North Virginia Beach will no longer have need for their rural-type mail boxes.

Tuesday, according to Postmaster Joseph T. Crosswhite, Jr., the north Virginia Beach area was placed on a foot delivery of mail. Now mail will be delivered in this area to the door of the residences.

With the changeover it means that mail is now foot delivered throughout the City of Virginia Beach and northward to the Ft. Story gate at 89th Street.

Crosswhite Confirmed As Postmaster

VIRGINIA BEACH — Joseph T. Crosswhite, Jr., acting postmaster here since March 17, has been confirmed as postmaster for the City of Virginia Beach, it was learned Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Crosswhite was informed of the confirmation by the United States Senate through a telegram received from Crosswhite Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia's senior U. S. Senator.

Crosswhite became acting postmaster in March succeeding John H. Bell, who had served in a similar capacity. President Kennedy had previously approved his appointment to the permanent position prior to the Senate's action this week.

Seahawks Show Well in State Golf Tourney

FALLS CHURCH—Virginia Beach High School's Seahawks made a surprisingly strong showing in the State high school golf tournament played here over the tough Chantilly club course.

The Seahawk golfers finished a strong fourth in the overall team standings. The winning team was the J. E. B. Stuart linkmen followed by Granby of Norfolk.

Individual scoring honors went to Mike Wynn of Churchland, who defeated Phil Hargis in a special playoff after both had tied following the 36 hole competition. Wynn fired a 69 then

UNION KEMPSVILLE PHYSICAL FITNESS

The Second Annual Physical Fitness Meet held on Union Kempsville High School Athletic field, May 17, 1962, resulted in Seateck Elementary School winning the meet with a total of 121 1/3 points. Second place went to the combined elementary schools of Bettie F. Williams and Union Kempsville with a total of 104 1/3 points. In third place, with 98 1/3 points, was Seaboard Elementary School.

The meet was held under very favorable weather conditions, and the contestants took the cue and set a number of outstanding records. Twenty new records were established in several of the events.

VPI Loses Chuck Noe Gains Bill Matthews

By J. FLETCHER BRYANT, JR.

The sporting scene in Virginia has in the last two weeks received a tremendous jolt by the loss of one of its most successful coaches in Chuck Noe of V. P.

Last week, Chuck Noe, the ex Virginia basketball great, and present basketball coach at V.P.I. announced that he was going to take a similar position at the University of South Carolina. I am sure that Chuck will help to lead the University of South Carolina back into basketball prominence, but from all that I have seen and heard it is going to be a job for something close to a Superman. A decision like the one Noe made must be a big one in view of the fact that V.P.I. has just completed a 2 1/2 million dollar field house that will hold up to 10 million fans and plan to go big time in so far as the round ball sport is covered. To leave V.P.I. after six years of building a program that will begin to pay dividends in the near future is hard to imagine, but Chuck has done it. Mr. Noe probably one of the best coaches this state has seen in a long while will be sorely missed a V.P.I., but the man that has been chosen to replace him is some what of a coach himself.

Bill Matthews, a native of Rocky Mount, entered V.P.I. in 1952 as a student, and has remained on the campus since. I know Bill personally because I had the privilege of managing the 1954 V.P.I. squad and I can honestly say that Bill will be just as good if not better than Chuck Noe. It will take a couple of years, but lets never forget that even Noe gave Bill Matthews the credit for recruiting the squads that Noe has done so well with.

In 1952 when Bill came out for basketball it was hard to imagine that Coach Noe would ever be replaced. Bill Matthews is a typical rags to riches sports story, not in the monetary sense of the word but in the ability sense. Here is a man that has been chosen to carry on a program that is to be one of the most attractive in this section of the country and yet 12 years ago I had my doubts as to whether or not he was going to be kept on the squad. In four short years, Bill had played such outstanding ball that he was picked to the All State 1st team his senior year. It is hard to believe that a boy can improve so much in such a short period of time, but it was done and only through hard work. Bill entered V.P.I. on a 4-H club scholarship and as a result never received an athletic scholarship. He was not forced to play the game, but he did and did it well. Upon graduation he remained on as Freshman Basketball Coach and head recruiter, and after six years under Noe a great deal must have rubbed off. A person that has the ability to talk with anyone and a boy that is liked by all I am sure he will keep the fortune of V.P.I. as high as they are at present.

Lewis Trummer (Under The Star) And Philippine Friends Unpack Medicine Sent By The Princess Anne Jr. Woman's Club.

Former Resident Is Conducting Freedom Drive In Philippines

By JOY HAKIM

VIRGINIA BEACH—Most of us have our vegetable seeds in the ground and there are just a few weeds standing between now and harvest-time.

It isn't that easy everywhere. In the Philippine Islands, for instance, seeds are hard to come by.

A former beach resident, Lewis Trummer, is living there and has appealed for help in a project she initiated called, "Seeds For Freedom."

Mrs. Trummer, a former president of the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County, has founded a Junior Club in the Philippines and has been active in welfare work there.

Recently she wrote to the Princess Anne club: "We have distributed 9,664 packages (of seeds) and it is just a thimble full. We have school yards planted, sides of mountains, and lowlands all over the cities of Olongapo, San Marcelino and Iba. Each of these cities have agricultural centers that have aided us and also it makes for independence. We are going to cover the Island of Luzon before the Monsoon Season if we can."

"We have mustard greens, watermelons, beefsteak tomatoes, eggplant, and pole beans growing here for the first time. All kinds of seeds will grow except turnip greens and kale as there is no frost here."

"We keep records and test and work out every package before distribution. Our project is just mammoth. Our club has 126 families economically free as a result of the seeds. Now isn't that a marvelous record? We could use 50,000 packages."

The Princess Anne Junior Woman's Club will collect seeds and send them to the Philippines. Mrs. S. Peter Scoppa, at London Bridge, will be in charge of the project.

Mrs. Trummer has called on the local club before. Through them, Philippine Islanders have been sent two barrels of medicine and a wheel chair.

The Trummers (both are Tidewater natives) have lived in the Philippines for six years. They will visit in Virginia Beach this summer.

Frederick Trummer is with the Naval Exchange in Subic Bay.

Those who knew Lewis Trummer when she lived here recall that she was tireless in her work for welfare and civic groups.

She seems to be doing the same thing in the Philippines.

"BE-BACK"

No matter what kind of business you are in you're acquainted with the "Be-Backs." They come in all ages and are known for their studious stance and careful buying habits. Most be-backs cover the entire sales route studying each item and figuring the odds on all price tags . . . then they say "I'll be back." If the salesman is of the hard-sell variety he tries to stall the prospective customer by switching to another item. This is called the "Squeeze" but the real be-back will have none of it and he doesn't come back.

We have a fine record among the be-backs. We frown on high-pressure tactics and no one is looking to take your loot out of your boot. When people are nice enough to come into our place to look over our wares, we aim to be courteous and assist them, or let them browse alone. We supply prices and facts, keep our place warm in winter and cool in summer. Then we invite them to come back again.

Our records indicate that most be-backs come back to Alexander-Beegle. They like the character of our merchandise, they like the little extra services that we have to offer, but most of all, they come back because in the past they have had the opportunity of enjoying owning and wearing one, or more items of our quality gentlemen's apparel. How can we miss?

Once you've owned one of our select NATURAL SHOULDER items of apparel you'll be back, and be-back, again and again.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

We Favor a North-South Routing Of Bridge-Tunnel Access Road

There has been much publicity of late concerning the access road for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel and its probable routing. Many have endorsed a north-south routing for the road while some have plugged for an east-west link.

At the outset the Sun-News has favored a north-south routing. Last week the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce lent its voice to the need for completion of a study of the access road question and urged the State Highway Department to get on with the job of building a road. The Chamber also went on record as favoring a north-south route for this access road.

Some criticism, although minute, has been leveled at Mr. Sidney S. Kellam of Virginia Beach for his position on the matter of an access road. Mr. Kellam has stated that the first order of business should be to arrive at ways and means of building the road and to then decide the routing. Mr. Kellam has taken the position that a north-south routing is the most direct route and that such a coastal route would be the most scenic and, in effect, would best serve the purpose for which the gigantic bridge-tunnel is being built.

It has been indicated that Mr. Kellam might be looking to the interests of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne area, which is his home territory. We are certain that this is not Mr. Kellam's sole interest in the road question, that he is looking, at the matter objectively and with a great deal of sincerity, but we could not fault him for looking out for the interests and welfare of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. However, his position here seems to be a sound one for many reasons with the home area thought a minor consideration. It is just logical and sensible that the access road should take a north-south route providing the most direct coastal routing to the public.

We recall some years ago before the bridge-tunnel project had become a reality that a controversy developed over the routing of the bridge-tunnel. There were those who wanted an east-west crossing and those who favored a north-south routing. A tremendous public hearing was held in Richmond before the State Highway Commission. Finally, after all factors had been carefully weighed the State decided on the north-south crossing. With this in mind it seems rather foolish to divert this north-south traffic to an east-west road after crossing the bay.

We believe the case is clear. The access road should be built as soon as possible so that it will be ready when the bridge-tunnel opens and the road should definitely run north and south opening up a scenic coastal route.

Small Business Administration Gives Fresh Meaning to Federal Agencies

The temporary office of the Small Business Administration hurriedly set up here following the Ash Wednesday storm in March closed its doors last Friday and thereby closed a brief chapter in the work of this federal agency that we feel should not be passed over without comment.

The SBA office, since the storm, processed more than 200 loans with a total value of $2,400,000. These loans were concentrated in the Virginia-North Carolina sector. Exactly one hundred of these loans were in the Virginia Beach-Norfolk-Hampton area with a value of $1,030,000.

On the surface it might appear that the SBA had done a job that it was supposed to do. This, in itself, is very true, but we wonder if many persons realize the efficiency and dispatch with which the SBA personnel did their job. Those close to the work of this office were impressed with the high degree of efficiency and the unusual personal approach the individuals displayed in dealing with loan applicants.

At the same time the SBA has pointed out that a special local Disaster Advisory Committee contributed greatly to the dispatch and effectiveness of the operation. A group of citizens rendered invaluable public service in counseling the SBA staff in interviews and evaluating applications.

The local office has been closed but SBA has reminded citizens that they still have until September 30, 1962, to apply for rehabilitation aid.

We were greatly impressed with the work of the SBA office here. It gives a fresh, new image to, at least, one of our federal agencies.

Shortly before 10 a.m. a composite of the suspect was made from an I-Dent Kit, based on the postal employee's description. This was later identified as the same man the earlier clues had established, Johnson said.

"All information and identity pointed to Taylor," he said, "so by 11:15 a.m. we sent out a general alarm for his arrest."

By 2 p.m. Wulfrust secured a federal warrant and filed with the U. S. Marshal in Norfolk in case Taylor had fled the state.

Had Long Record

Taylor was apprehended at 4 p.m. at Newport and Little Creek Roads in Norfolk and returned to Virginia Beach where he was admitted, Johnson said, of serving time in federal reformatories and in prisons in Arkansas, Kansas and Oregon.

"I would like to express our appreciation to the Norfolk police and all the personnel of all the agencies who helped with this matter," Johnson said, "and to all the witnesses whose identification cleared the case."

need of cleaning or painting which probably would not have received it if the storm had not forced owners to do it.

Hatchett agreed there had been some good effects from the storm. He said the spirit of the people is probably more united than before.

He is still singing praises for the work of the Virginia National Guard and regular military forces that provided police and rescue work "and everything else" in the way of assistance during the emergency after the storm.

The city manager said reconstruction of a wooden fishing pier inside the city limits has just been authorized. It will be open in approximately six weeks. Williams Steel Pier was damaged and also is being repaired.

The only visible signs besides the destroyed homes left from the storm are disrupted portions of the sea wall and debris piled in various places along the ocean shore.

Hatchett said people here are, of course, talking about "the toughest storm of the longest duration we've ever had."

But to an outside observer it appears that all the energy here is being used in a gigantic clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign that isn't requiring a single bit of effort from any chamber of commerce.

loans with a value of approximately $2,104,000. They were mainly centered around Ocean City, Md., and Chincoteague, Virginia.

In releasing this information, Shaw pointed out the importance of the local Disaster Advisory Committee who contributed greatly to the dispatch and effectiveness of the operations. Representative businessmen, bankers, and civic leaders rendered a public service of the highest order in serving on these committees and their counsel was of invaluable help in speeding up and finalizing the many loan actions.

Although a minor part of the overall rehabilitation activity, these SBA loans helped to fill the gap not provided through the normal credit channels.

In "pulling up stakes" to return to home base, Shaw emphasized the fact that SBA has a number of regular lending, procurement, management and technical programs that can be of continuing benefit to small businessmen in these local areas.

In meeting with these Disaster Advisory Committees recently, SBA Regional Director Moore of the Richmond Regional Office noted the phenomenal recovery being made toward a restored economy in all its aspects. He expressed hope and confidence that this coming summer season would reach new record heights of activity along the entire Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina coastal front.

Beach Visitor Finds New York In Festive Mood

By JOY HAKIM

VIRGINIA BEACH—"New York is a summer festival"—so the subway posters say. And although New Yorkers leave the city's heat and soot in droves—for the out-of-towner, especially the beach resident, New York can provide a different summer vacation.

And it's not a bad place to take the children.

Just back from a week there we found our young ones were fascinated with the tall buildings, traffic, construction and a real highlight was a ride on the subway.

The new children's zoo in Central Park is a delight. There are domestic animals to play with and nursery story homes to walk in (like the old woman's shoe).

For real zoo connoisseurs there is nothing like the Bronx zoo. Animals romp in their natural habitats with no visible cages or fences—just large moats between you and those lions. The Bronx zoo and adjacent botanical gardens are as enthralling for the parents as the children—it's worth getting lost in the Bronx to find them, but take your walking shoes.

There are an abundance of children's plays this season. Most have matinees on Saturday and Sunday, and they include musicals and fairy stories. The range is wide enough to take care of almost every age group. The current critic's favorite is a piece called, "Emil and the Detectives." (They're all listed in the New Yorker Magazine, or in the New York Times.)

The Museum of Natural History at Central Park West and 79th Street has always been a family favorite. Indians, stuffed animals and whale bones compete for your attention—all well displayed. Next door, the Hayden Planetarium has keyed its celestial show to the space age.

The new Guggenheim Museum on Fifth Avenue at 90th St. is something you won't want to miss even if you don't like abstract art. Designed by Frank Lloyd Wright it has been compared to the inside of a washing machine. A spiral ramp leads from top to bottom. (Be sure the children leave their roller skates at home.)

For those who like modern architecture a walk up Park Avenue from Grand Central Station is a revelation.

There is no end to what you can see and do and some of it is inexpensive. Just window shopping on Fifth and Madison Avenues is fun—or try renting bikes on Sunday and bicycling through the empty canyons of Wall Street.

Baby sitters are available through reputable agencies listed in the yellow pages of the phone book, or from the personnel office at Columbia University.

After the children are in bed? Restaurants and the theatre are the mecca for most visitors.

The New York Times publishes a small booklet entitled, "Dining Out in New York," it lists many of the better restaurants with prices and specialties.

It's usually not too difficult to get theatre tickets if you write to the box office in advance and list several alternate dates. Naturally the expensive seats are most easily available and dramas are easier to get tickets for than musicals.

The Off-Broadway Theatre is worth investigating, and the art galleries, and the United Nations, and the shopping and, and, and — but why don't you find out for yourself?

She has taught piano for many years and assists her own two sons and husband in choir work for Star of the Sea Church. Ferrigno has an extensive background of operatic and folkloric experience and, after organizing the Italian Folklore Society, took such roles as "La Boheme," "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Triavita."

Through the Society he specialized in the Neapolitan songs and was a soloist for benefits and concerts in Carnegie Hall, Brooklyn Academy of Music and the Metropolitan Opera House.

Malbon Back From Gas Meet

The man who first brought the conveniences of city gas to the country 50 years ago admitted that the business he founded has grown exactly ten thousand times beyond the point he once expected it to reach.

Dr. Walter O. Snelling of Allentown, Pa., who made the first LP-gas installation in May of 1912 admitted his miscalculation at a recent convention attended by Frank Malbon of Tidewater Gas Co.

Mr. Malbon who recently returned from Chicago where he took part in the 50th anniversary convention of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Association heard Dr. Snelling describe the first years of the LP-gas business when he was the sole dealer in a business that now serves nearly 13 million homes, farms and business firms in the United States alone.

Among the other speakers who addressed the sessions were Senator John G. Tower of Texas, TV personality Jinx Falkenberg and the LP-gas association president, E. Otto N. Williams of Richmond, Va.

Nearly four thousand other LP-gas people came from virtually every country of the free world to attend the celebration, Mr. Malbon said. They took part in sessions at which he and other dealers outlined a number of new developments which will make LP-gas an even more useful, efficient fuel. A display of approximately 150 new appliances and pieces of equipment the gas dealers sell and use was another interesting part of the four-day industry gathering according to Mr. Malbon.

The LP-gas association of which Mr. Malbon is a member has over 3000 members, all of whom are engaged in some phase of home, farm, business and motor fuel service.

Card Dialing Is Introduced

A time-saving step in telephone dialing has been taken by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia with the introduction today of its two newest products, the Card Dialer and the Rapidial.

This new equipment permits the busy telephone user to be connected to the numbers he calls most frequently, both local and long distance, by the simple procedure of depressing a single button. Dialing is then automatically completed. This new development was designed for use by business people but also has value to many club women and others who have occasion to call the same numbers frequently from their home telephones according to the C&P.

In addition to cutting down on dial twisting, it eliminates errors which sometimes occur in the process of dialing.

Although similar in concept, the two new automatic dialers serve slightly different needs. The Card Dialer, for example, is a complete unit and has the dialing mechanism built right into the telephone. It has an unlimited capacity and permits single pushbutton dialing where large numbers of clients and others are called frequently. All that is necessary to prepare a permanent list of numbers is to punch out the specified telephone number on coded plastic cards approximately the size of most credit cards. Storage space arranged in alphabetical order is provided on the instrument to hold a supply of 40 cards. Additional cards, where needed, can be obtained if a customer's calling requirements are greater. Rapidial is a separate unit used as a companion to a regular phone. It has a capacity of 200 names and numbers which can be easily recorded, changed or deleted on a magnetic tape. Telephone numbers are automatically dialed by turning the directory selector knob to the desired name, lifting the receiver and pressing the start bar.

The separate items of equipment, the Card Dialer and Rapidial, provide a choice to meet individual requirements and are available in attractive beige, green, gray or white.

Communist movement and how it has grown to the present alarming proportions. Communism as we know it today is different in many respects from the Communism which was taught by Marx and Lenin; in fact, what is now practiced by the Red is "State Capitalism" rather than Communism. The communists have found that they must reward their intellectual leaders in order to make progress.

First Vice-president, C. B. Osterlander reported that the club's total sales for the annual Bayside Sale was about $3,500—netting about $1,400 for the club's activities fund. The Bayside Lions Club wishes to thank their many friends who made this possible by their liberal response.

Tips on Meats

GET THE MOST FROM YOUR MEAT

With several kinds and many cuts of meat on the retail market, meat offers more in variety and price range than almost any other food. Knowledge of the countless opportunities in meat is a distinct advantage, for it assures varied and interesting menus. The selection of meat in the retail market presents a challenge to the shopper because there are not only scores of cuts of beef, veal, pork and lamb, but also the variety meats and many different kinds of sausages and ready-to-serve meats with which you should become acquainted.

Care For It Properly

The care of meat in the home is important. Fresh meat should be unwrapped as soon as it comes from the market. Store fresh meat uncovered or loosely covered in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Cured meat should also be stored in the refrigerator. Canned hams should be kept under refrigerator. Frozen meat should be stored at a temperature of 0° F. or lower. It may be placed in the refrigerator under ordinary refrigeration if it is to be used immediately after defrosting. Never refreeze meat.

Cook It Correctly

The basic rule of meat cooking is: Always cook meat at low or moderate temperature. This rule applies whether meat is cooked by dry heat, moist heat or with fat. Dry meat cooking methods are: roasting, broiling and panbroiling. In roasting meat is cooked by hot air; in broiling by direct heat; in panbroiling by transmitted heat from the frying pan. In moist heat cooking meat is cooked by braising or in liquid. In braising, meat is cooked in a covered utensil with or without the addition of a small amount of liquid. In cooking in liquid, steams and large cuts are covered with liquid. In panfrying, meat is cooked in a small amount of fat. In deep-fat frying, sufficient fat is used to cover the meat being cooked.

Storing Frozen Meat

All frozen meat should be stored at 0° F., or lower. It should not be refrozen after defrosting. Frozen meat should not be allowed to defrost unless it is to be cooked promptly. Recommended maximum storage periods for meats held at 0° F. are: sausage and ground meat, from 1 to 3 months; fresh pork, from 3 to 6 months; lamb and veal, from 6 to 9 months; and beef, from 6 to 12 months.

Defrosting Frozen Meat

Frozen meat may be defrosted before or during cooking. The methods most frequently used for defrosting are: in the refrigerator; at room temperature; during cooking. The method of defrosting does not noticeably affect the flavor, tenderness or juiciness of cooked meat cuts. The basis for choosing a specific method depends principally upon the convenience of the method—that is, the time and facilities (space in refrigerator, etc.) available.

Wrapped frozen meats require more time for defrosting than those not wrapped; and the greater the insulation quality of the wrapping the more time required.

Cooking Frozen Meats

All meats, fresh or frozen, should be cooked at moderately low temperatures, 350° F., or lower. Defrosted meats are cooked by the same methods as fresh meats.

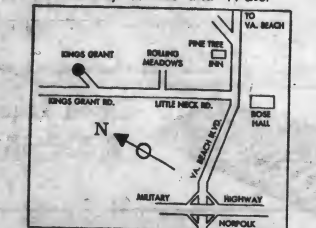

Frozen roasts require approximately 1½ to 2½ times as long for cooking as roasts which have been defrosted. The time required for cooking frozen steaks and chops varies according to the surface area and thickness of the meat, as well as the broiling temperature. Steaks and chops to be coated with eggs and crumbs or with batter should be defrosted before cooking since coatings will not readily adhere to frozen meat.

Thick frozen steaks and chops must be broiled more slowly than defrosted ones in order that the meat will be cooked to the desired degree of doneness without becoming too brown on the outside.

SURFSIDE '62

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

There's no doubt about it. Fact is often far stranger than fiction and what happened to a Virginia Beach man in a New York City hotel reads more slapstick comedy than a true happening. But, according to his wife, it happened.

"Since our subject may take a dim view of being called by name, I'll call him Mr. X (isn't that original?).

About midnight, after a grueling convention day in the big city, Mr. X was undressing, eager to fall in bed, when there came a sudden knock on his door. He slipped into his trousers and opened the door. There was no one there. By the time he had stripped to his shorts, the knock came again. Not wanting to redress a second time he cautiously opened the door. Still no one. He stepped into the empty hallway to see if someone was pulling a joke on him.

The self-locking door closed behind him. He was stranded. The only thing that stood between him and indecency were the shorts. He was frantic.

He ran to the elevator at the far end of the hall (it seemed a mile long) and rang, knowing he would probably be arrested if caught. After what seemed like an hour, the elevator opened and, fortunately, contained only the male operator.

Mr. X got a key and wrapped himself in the morning paper for the long trek back to his room. Luckily he didn't meet a soul during his ordeal. If he had... well, what policeman would have believed his story?

The Home Show, sponsored by the Tidewater Association of Home Builders, held a successful three-day run in the Norfolk Arena displaying 52 exhibits to large and interested crowds. One of the highlights was the unusual 28-piece mosaic tile are exhibit compiled by the Los Angeles Immaculate Heart College. The pieces depicted many Christian scenes in magnificently beautiful tiles of varying colors.

The other exhibits were just as impressive and offered something for everyone, whether they were interested in home improvement or interior decorating.

ONE SURPRISED TEACHER

Any parent will agree that youngsters have a way of doing the wrong thing at the wrong time. But occasionally they do the right thing at the right time and the rarity makes it a moment to remember.

Such was the case with the birthday party Mrs. Carolyn Hawhurst's fifth grade class at Linkhorn Park gave her recently. Completely unknown to the teacher, the students collected money, made the party preparations and bought the gift.

They asked one mother to make a cake; the rest the students handled themselves. They asked the principal, Gordon Baskin, to call Mrs. Hawhurst out of the room for a brief time while they set up the festive preparations.

When she returned to the room she was greeted with "Happy Birthday" and 40 beaming faces. It was quite a day for the teacher and one long to be remembered by her appreciative students.

Another group of youngsters showed their appreciation in a different way. After a second grade class from W. T. Cooke School visited the Virginia Beach Volunteer Fire Department, they swamped Fireman Marvin Carroll with gaily decorated, immaculately written letters of appreciation.

Each letter shows great imagination in design and the texts are filled with words of praise for the firemen.

Little Carol Strickland's letter is typical: "Dear Mr. Carroll, I can't thank you enough for all you did! Thank you very much for showing us around the Fire Department. And thank you very much for the ride on the fire engine!" Carol's letter is enclosed in a yellow construction paper folder imprinted with "Can't thank you enough!" in pink crayon.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

PLAY OPENS FRIDAY

VIRGINIA BEACH—Sidney S. Kellam will throw out the first ball for the American Little League's opening game Friday at 5:15 p.m. at the Virginia Beach High School stadium.

Also participating in the opening ceremonies will be the Rev. Henry Morgan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who will give the invocation, League President Newton Thomas and Irving Rosenberg, Little League District Representative.

The first game of the season will get under way at 5:30 p.m. between the Tigers, last year's champions managed by Dr. Fitzhugh Mayo, and the Cubs, managed by Bill Renn.

The second game will start at 7:30 p.m. between the Sports, managed by Cmdr. Raymond McGrath, and the Rotarians, managed by John Glover.

There is no admission charge for Little League games.

Cox High Tid-Bits

"For once, I'm lost for words. This will be a birthday I will cherish and remember."

These few words were uttered with gratitude by Mr. Walter Carroll, principal of Cox High.

The book, "The Epic of Man," was presented to him for the library by the S.C.A.

At this same meeting, the S.C.A. committee chairmen gave their reports.

The Program Committee, with Sarah Brittingham at its head, announced that two hundred and fifty dollars will be all that is required from the student body to purchase a set of Britannica Encyclopedias for the library.

An anonymous benefactor, who shows much interest in the school affairs and the education of the students, will donate the remaining amount.

The Building and Grounds Committee reported that Cox will soon have a park. Filled with benches, shrubs, etc., this park will serve as a place of leisure for the students during their lunch period.

The first meeting of the 9th grade class, held Tuesday, May 15 in the school auditorium, was called to order to introduce the candidates for the sophomore class officers. The following day, the ninth grade students voted for the candidate of their choice.

Out of three candidates for each office, the following were elected to handle the official affairs of the sophomore class next year: Jim DeFoe, president, Leon Tew, vice-president, Emily Sakakini, secretary, Jim Lawson, treasurer, Linda Atkinson, historian, and Carolyn Barnett, reporter.

The eighth grade class officers are really on the ball! They gave a real neat Beatnik Party, May 19. Everyone brought their pillows, poetry, books, etc. There were prizes awarded to the best dressed beatniks and to the most outstanding dancers. Everything turned out like real cool!

As May draws to its close, proms are occurring all over Tidewater. Cox students welcome all those interested in their prom to come on out—June 1, 8 p.m. - 11 p.m. in the school gym, $2.00 per couple, semi-formal dress. The theme is entitled "Neptune's Parlor," featuring Jay Ward and his Debonaires.

Cox Tops Meet

The students of Cox High are proud to announce their victory in the track meet at Princess Anne High School, May 18. The scoring read 36 to 27, Cox's favor over Kempville Jr. High in the boys' meet. These points were gathered by awarding five points for a first place winner, three points for a second place winner, and one point for a third place advancement.

The ninth grade boys and girls succeeded first over Kempville Jr. High. The 8th grade girls broke first, and the boys came in third place, competing with Kempville Meadows.

There were two big stars among the ninth grade Cox contestants — Johnny Bolger advanced first in the 100-yard dash and the 220 yard dash; George Henry placed first in the 440-yard run, then ten minutes later, brought Cox another five points winning the 880-yard run, which is one-half mile.

First, second and third places in the running broad jump were won by Cox boys. Doug White (1st) Dennis Rich (2nd) and Bill Chapman (3rd).

Other winners were, in the high jump—Bill Herndon; 2nd place; Mike Lamar, third place in the 440 yard run; Tom Oberman, second in the mile; Mike Dye, third place in the 100-yard dash.

The girl winners in the ninth grade are as follows: High jump—Pam Moore, first; Donna Mahurium, second. Running broad jump—Donna Mahurium, first; Barbara Troutman, 2nd. Fifty-yard Dash—Sherry Sauge, 2nd; Frankie Byrd, 3rd. The 220 yard

Galilee Youth Leaders Chosen

VIRGINIA BEACH — Harriet Gilliam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilliam of Goodspeed Road, Virginia Beach is the new President of the Senior Fellowship at Galilee Episcopal Church at Virginia Beach. She is a Senior at Virginia Beach High School and active in church and school affairs.

Also elected — at a recent meeting — were: Vernon Stevenson, Vice President; Jean Taylor, Corres. Secretary; Bonnie Walthall, recording secretary; run—Evelyn Grant, 2nd; Dorothy Bisset, 3rd.

Speaking of winners, the Drivers Educational Safety Poster Awards were given to Jim Martin (1st place), Emily Sakakini (2nd), and Jim DeFoe (3rd). These students displayed the most outstanding posters among the eight and ninth grade pupils at Cox.

Catholic Church Here Now Free Of All Debts

VIRGINIA BEACH — The $240,000 Star of the Sea Parish and its $168,584 recreational center are free of debt, Father N. Habets, pastor of Star of the Sea Catholic Church, informed his parishioners this week.

The 1962 education report also pointed out that the church

Peggy Preston, treasurer; and "Chuck" Robinson, chaplain.

The new officers were installed in a Chapel Service by the Rev. Edmund Berkeley, Rector of the Church.

On May 27th, at 8 o'clock, a beach party will be held jointly with the Junior Fellowship. This will be the last meeting of the group until the fall and all young people of Galilee Episcopal Church are invited to attend.

spends $29,141.45 annually for educational expenditures. Star of the Sea Parish has 417 students in its eight grades, an average of 50 per class. Because of lack of space, the school turned away 35 applicants last September.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine gives religious instructions to about 82 students each Saturday morning, with two parishioners, four sisters and one priest conducting the classes.

The parish school benefits from the School Milk Program and health services from Princess Anne County, the report states.

Since local taxes furnish 60 per cent of the $308-per-student-per-year average cost in public schools, Star of the Sea "represents a savings of $77,051 in local taxes and $51,385 in state taxes," the report said.

Mrs. William P. Dickson has returned to her home on 34th St., after spending a week visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Taibott in Staunton, Va.

New Community

Southern Points

GREAT NECK — Ribbon-cutting ceremonies Wednesday at the entrance to Trantwood's Southern Points, opened a new custom-built community in Princess Anne County.

The site of the new area is a section of the Trant Farm, consisting of some 214 acres purchased by the principles of Dream Custom Builders from John H. Trant.

Lynnhaven Supervisor James Darden introduced Sidney S. Kellam, who cut the ribbon to officially open the community. About 50 invited guests, composed of city and county officials and financial leaders, attended the opening.

Immediately following the ceremony, the group attended a luncheon at the Black Angus Restaurant.

Situated one mile north of Virginia Beach Blvd., on Great Neck Road in London Bridge, Southern Point has been planned to maintain the idea of true suburban living by subdividing the building site no smaller than one-half acre. The restrictions, that have been placed on the property by the developers, are high in order to assure purchasers of top quality construction. Southern Points offers, in addition to normal building sites, wooded and waterfront plots both on an 80-acre lake and on a branch of the Lynnhaven River.

Centrally located in Princess Anne County, this new community is easily accessible from both Virginia Beach and Norfolk. Ten minutes driving time brings a resident of Southern Points to Chesapeake Beach, Virginia Beach, Oceana Naval Air Station, the Dam Neck installation, Little Creek Amphibious Base and Ft. Story. An additional fifteen minutes would bring one to downtown Norfolk or to one of the Norfolk Naval installations. Shopping is no problem, with no less than six shopping areas within easy driving distance of this community.

Edward P. Brogan, Charles S. Caruana, Mario Montagnino and Charles Caruana, principle members of Dream Custom Builders, have stated that this new community has installed some unique and attractive features in the design for living. Special attention has been given the street design, which have incorporated a new paved width of thirty (30) feet plus the newly designed Princess Anne County curb and gutter. All streets have been mapped out so that they terminate in a turn-about circle, thereby eliminating thru-traffic.

Having successfully completed their development in Wolf-sbane Plantation and Great Neck Estates, Dream Custom Builders have initiated construction at Southern Points and have thirty homes in the $20,000 to $30,000 range, which at this time are in various stages of completion. Frank D. Terrall Jr. and Associates are the engineers and South Realty Agency will handle all sales.

Veteran Retires;
Seeks New Career

By JOY HAKIM

VIRGINIA BEACH—John E. Wright looks back on a career of 47 years with the Railway Express Company and finds many satisfactions.

"I like working with people and accommodating them," he said, "and that was my job."

Retired for less than a month, Wright is already itching to do something. "I'd like to work in a motel where I can deal with people."

His attractive wife, Gaddy, has a few other ideas—"I'd like to see him take it easy and do some fishing," she said. Then, like every other wife, she added, "and there are a few things around the house that need doing, some painting and gardening."

Wright said, "that's why I want to go to work."

It would be impossible to dislike Wright. Sincere, interesting, with a twinkle in his eye and a good sense of humor—he seems a thoroughly nice person.

South Carolina Native

A native of Shelton, S.C., and from there to Franklin, Va. He lived in Franklin for 29 years. He was married there and each of his three children was born there.

The Wrights moved to Virginia Beach in 1950 when he was made the Railway Express Agent here.

May has always been a momentous month for Wright. He started work in May 1915. Each of his transfers came in May and he retired in May.

A proud family man, Wright enjoys talking about his family. Son John, 21, works behind the desk at the Golden Triangle. Betty, 19, is at Longwood College and has been elected president of the student body, and Caroline, 15, is a student at Virginia Beach High School.

JOHN E. WRIGHT

What are his hobbies and other interests? According to Mrs. Wright he loves to talk, eat, cook, play bridge and he loves his church work. He is treasurer of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church.

In the evening they play bridge with their children. "What would you do with a bridge player who bids three and makes seven?" Wright laughed, "that's what I did the other night."

Wright is a Lion's Club member and past president of the Franklin Lion's Club. He is also a member of the Methodist Men's Club and has been a Mason since he was 21.

What did he like most about working for the Railway Express?

"The variety. When a truck pulled up we never knew what would be on it—there was everything from birds to jet motors."

"One day a trunk came in with blood coming out of the sides. I was sure there was a body in it, and when I picked it up I could feel the body rolling from side to side. I called the police and we opened it. What a relief it was to find a hind quarter of beef."

Highway Planning and Zoning

1962 Anti-Billboard Bill passed in the Legislature had the backing of the Highway Dept., the Governor and most of the Legislators. The uncontested passage of this Bill seems to prove that the sponsoring organizations such as the Associated Clubs and the Garden Club of Virginia working separately and together as a unit, have great influence when properly organized and using all their influence. The passage of this Bill is the culmination of years of work since 1920 when the Garden Club of Virginia was formed, and is the result of years of preparation and hard spade work by dedicated women. The outstanding names in the Billboard battles of The Garden Club of Virginia are these of Mrs. Daniel Sands, Mrs. Warner Snider, Mrs. Harvey Lindsay, Mrs. George Sloane & Mrs. Raymond Power.

Historic Garden Week The Association of Travel Organizations listed Historic Garden Week (Baltimore Sun, April 1st) as one of the "Top Twenty Travel Events" in the Nation for April. 25 clubs increased their number of visitors and consequently their proceeds this year.

Attendance in general was approximately the same as 1961. Gross returns for 1962 are $51,730.73; Net $45,730.75.

Mrs. Everett M. Avery, Jr., of The James River Garden Club of Richmond will again be chairman of Garden Week 1962-63. Vice-Chairman, Mrs. Franklin E. Langon of The Three Chop Garden Club, Richmond.

Restoration Report

The Restoration Committee of The Garden Club of Virginia reported that the architect's plans for the rebuilding of the Jeffersonian Gardens on the East Lawn of the University of Virginia had been approved by the Virginia Art Commission. Mr. Donald H. Parker, landscape architect for Colonial Williamsburg is the landscape architect for the restoration of these gardens. Mr. Ralph E. Griswold, landscape architect of Pittsburgh, Pa. is consultant for the work.

A progress report of the work now going on is that the new approach of the gardens and service road into the East Lawn area is being constructed. Old walls found to be on wrong foundations have been torn down and new serpentine walls are being built in the correct location. The planting plans for the two gardens that are behind Pavilions II and IV will be completed this summer in time for the fall planting of the gardens.

The West Lawn Gardens at the University of Virginia were restored by The Garden Club of Virginia according to the Jeffersonian plans as shown in the engraving of Peter Maverick, and presented to the University in 1952.

A Hobby That Pays

Voight Displays 1929 Ford, a Sporty Antique

From Bits of Scrap
To Fancy Flivvers

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Hugh Voight's hobby is a continuation of his work—he spends his days in the body and paint shop of Brooks-Shorter Motor Co. and his nights rebuilding antique cars.

For over three years, he has been working on a 1914 Model "T" Ford. When completed it will be in as good a condition, if not better, than it was 48 years ago when it rolled off the assembly line.

Joining Voight in the antique car hobby are about 10 other local men. This group hopes to organize a club of collectors who can work together on the cars, so that it will not take so long to complete them.

"Members in the club do not necessarily have to own an antique car," Voight said, "but they must be interested in them."

In order to rebuild one of the old cars, it must be completely dismantled, the worn parts replaced and every nut and bolt painted to preserve it for years to come.

Child's Disease

Cystic Fibrosis
Research Group
Forms Chapter

NORFOLK—A Tidewater Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation has recently been organized to serve Princess Anne, Norfolk, Nansemond, Isle of Wight and Warwick counties.

The purpose of the chapter is to educate the public on cystic fibrosis, the number one killer of children in chronic diseases, Mrs. Naomi C. Cooper, president of the new group, said.

This educational campaign includes the showing of a film, "Mask of the Pied Piper," to organizations and individuals.

Working with the Tidewater Chapter is a medical advisory board consisting of Capt. Frederick Becker, Chief of Pediatrics at the Naval Hospital, Dr. James Morgan, Dr. John Rydeen, Dr. E. I. Smith and Dr. Walter Price. This board will be increased as the need arises.

Great Financial Drain

"Parents of a cystic fibrosis child will spend about $1,500 a year on medicine alone," Mrs. Cooper, who recently lost her own son from the disease, said. "This does not include doctor's fees, treatment and the necessary equipment such as humidifiers, air conditioners or the physical therapy."

"We hope to acquire a stock of equipment through the chapter that can be rented to parents at a nominal fee. We also hope we can help with the wholesale purchase of drugs."

Cystic fibrosis is a hereditary and congenital disease and there are families in the area who have several cystic fibrosis children. In a CF family, there is about one chance in four that a child will have this condition. Some families have as high as three or four affected children out of five, while others have as few as one in 10.

Persons wishing to view the film or learn more about the disease, may contact Mrs. Cooper at 6305 Colgate Avenue, Norfolk or call her at UL 5-2556.

Noted Artist Paints
Pembroke Manor Home

PEMBROKE—Kenneth Harris, best known locally for his water colors of old homes and other scenes of Tidewater, Virginia, recently finished painting one of the area's landmarks.

Terry Corporation, one of Tidewater's largest residential builders and developers, commissioned Harris to paint a watercolor of the old Pembroke Manor home built in Princess Anne County in 1764.

Terry Corporation is developing a 453-acre tract, called "Pembroke Manor", which contains the historic Georgian structure. The painting will be on display when the development, a 1,100 home community, opens to the public in early Summer.

Two Qualifications "To be an artist you must have two things, sensitivity and fortitude," Kenneth Harris once said. His own career testifies to his having both of these assets. Born in Wellsboro, Pa., Harris began his art training at Georgia School of Technology and Davidson College. Later he moved to Cincinnati Art Academy where he showed promise of accomplishment in the medium of oils.

When he left the academy, the country was in the midst of a depression making painting for a living an impossibility. Harris, therefore, entered what is now one of the largest advertising agencies in the South. He subsequently spent 16 years there as production manager, art director and finally partner.

Since his return to painting, he has worked almost exclusively in watercolor and, recently, etching. He has exhibited paintings in more than fifty museums and is represented in the permanent collection of several.

His work has gained him admittance to the American Watercolor Society and appointment as Official Painter of Colonial Williamsburg, a continuous commission for which he has painted more than 250 paintings. For several years, Harris taught the technique of watercolor at the Norfolk Museum.

"How To Make a Living as a Painter", a book he wrote in 1954, is now in its second edition. A few weeks ago, Harris

Princess Anna
Happenings
By Leslie Russell
With only two more weeks of school, the Seniors of Princess Anne are counting the days until graduation, June 9.

The juniors of P.A. were sure busy last weekend; they were taking those "little quizzes" known as college boards!
Three of Princess Anne's Tri-Hi-Y's were ranked as outstanding in the Norfolk district. They are Trinity Tri-Hi-Y which placed third, Theta Tri-Hi-Y, and Coronet Tri-Hi-Y. Congratulations.

Also to be congratulated are Susie Harpold and Ray Almond. Susie and Ray were named the most outstanding Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y members in the Norfolk District.
Recently Princess Anne High School played host to students of the elementary schools in Princess Anne County. The schools were holding their annual "Field Day" in which students compete in physical fitness tests.

Last weekend, the Inter-Club Council held a "Carnival" in which the various clubs sponsored booths, games, & spook rooms. The girls of Trinity Tri-Hi-Y challenged the boys of the Key Club to a stunt baseball game. Following the carnival, the ICC sponsored a "Bernuda Bounce" in the P.A. gym. Music was by WNOR.
After one of the closest elections ever held at Princess Anne High School, the new officers of the SCA are Bob Henderson, president; Buster O'Brian, vice-president; Cecilia Gerloff, secretary; Don Smith, treasurer.
Brenda Koon, Lynn Oliver, Jane Harrison will represent Trinity Tri-Hi-Y at the Blue Ridge Conference this summer in August.

The Princess Anne Baseball team has one of the best records in the history of P.A. To date, P.A. is number one in the district after winning eight straight games in a row. The P.A. record is 8-2. With the help of Ronnie Hytenin, Charles Carr, and Bobby DeMille, Princess Anne will be number one in Virginia!
The new officers of Sigma Phi Hi-Y are Greg Benoit, president; Jerry Wood, vice-president; Jerry Valianos, secretary; David Miller, treasurer; Barry Almond, chaplain; Roland Audet, reporter.
The new members of the Keyette Club of Princess Anne are Jennifer Camper, Jennifer Dobbs, Kathy Smith, Cheryl Marshall, Carolyn Singer, Kathy Herman, Susan Benbow, Susan Lyon, Pam Kerber, Pam Tompkins, Linda Charnock, Sharon Litchfield, and Martha Donnell.
The Future Teachers of America have elected their new officers for the coming year. They are Kathy Sheely, president; Colleen Callahan, vice-president; Linda Gregory, treasurer; Cheryl Marshall, secretary.
Richard Harper, Harold Rubel, and Susan Benbow, have been accepted at the University of Richmond to take a three-day course in debate.
Four of P.A.'s outstanding senior boys have received U. S. Military Academy appointments. Richard (Mac) MacDonald, Bill Castle, and Dick Holland have received appointments to Annapolis, the Naval Academy. Allen Blythe received his ap-

Chuck Sherman, Princess Anne junior, has been accepted to Florida State University for a summer session of debate and speech.

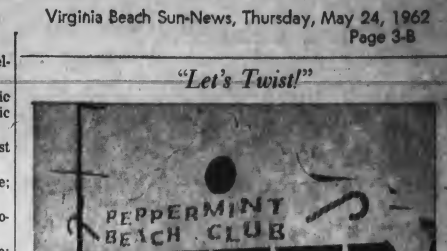

The boys who have been selected to go to Boys' State this year from Princess Anne are Bob Henderson, Greg Benoit, Jimmie Locke, Willard White, Paul DeRocher, and Richard James.
Tomorrow night, one of the most important events of the year is to take place—the senior prom! Music is to be furnished by the "Colonels".

Local Student By College Club
TEMPE, Arizona — Robert Creamer, Jr., Birdneck Point, Virginia Beach, has been selected to the '62 Club at Arizona State University.
The '62 Club consists of a group of campus leaders chosen by a committee of faculty and peers on the basis of scholarship, leadership and character.
All seniors graduating June 5 were invited to a breakfast, Saturday, May 12, given by the ASU Alumni Association. Members of the '62 Club were the guests of honor.
Speakers were Dr. G. Homer Durham, ASU president, Alumni President Wayne Legg and James Creamer, Alumni Secretary. Seniors elected officers to lead them in the year ahead.
Creamer is enrolled in the ASU College of Liberal Arts.

Summer Tutoring At Country Day
VIRGINIA BEACH — This summer the Country Day School, 3603 Atlantic Avenue, Virginia Beach, will again open its informal summer tutoring school.
The co-educational school is planned according to a system of supply and demand, accommodating teachers who want to teach, and students who want to study or do constructive summer work. The school usually offers math, French, French conversation, typing and English. There are still some vacancies for well-qualified teachers.
Registration will be June 15 at 9:00 A.M. and applicants must be present on that day. The school will be in session from June 18-August 10. For further information telephone GA 8-2714.
Boys are welcome at Country Day School Summer School and summer visitors are invited to take advantage of these classes. Another unique feature of the

"Let's Twist!"

Gone is the old Casino where rock-and-roll was king. Taking its place is the newly decorated Peppermint Beach Club, the "twister's delight." The white and red building has opened for the season but construction is still underway on the adjoining baseball batting game. Both were damaged in the March 7 storm. (Phillips Photo)

Beach Club Launched

Cavalier Beach Club Opens on Schedule

VIRGINIA BEACH—Cavalier Beach Club Opening on schedule was no small triumph. Shattered by the Ash Wednesday storm, rebuilding was immediately put into work with a race against time for a scheduled opening of May 19th.

So concentrated was the reconstruction that for two weeks architects worked on plans at night and had breakfast with the work crew at 6:00 a.m. to give them the structural plans for the day.

Fortunately, 7,400 feet of 1 1/4 inch locust wood had been purchased prior to the Ash Wednesday storm to replace the dance deck. Locust is recognized as the hardest and most durable of timber. In laying the new floor, three blades were worn out on the saw cutting the edge of the dance deck.

Eight by twelve structural timber, the largest milled in this country, was used in the foundation, 240,000 pounds of 25-foot sheet steel was used in the bulkhead.

The construction of the bulkhead and the new oceanfront face of the Beach Club involved 18,200 man-hours.

According to Burks L. Hamner, Jr., the schedule would never have been made without a work crew from Kyanite Mining Corporation. Gene Dixon, president of Kyanite is owner and president of The Cavalier.

A small launching ceremony was held at 2:30 Saturday on the new deck of The Cavalier Beach Club. Burks L. Hamner, Jr., General Manager of The Cavalier; Mrs. Hamner; Gene Dixon, President; Mayor Dusch and Mrs. Dusch participated in the ceremony. Mrs. Dusch christened the new bandstand and launched the club for the 1962 season with the traditional champagne breaking. Mr. Hamner told how the scheduled opening had been met and called on Mayor Dusch and Mr. Dixon for a brief word.

After the ceremony, guests were invited to toast the new look Club and the resort's season with champagne from a champagne fountain.

Mrs. Frank Dusch launched the "new look" Beach Club Saturday at the opening ceremony.

monies. "From Shambles to Champagne in 73 Days," was the theme of the occasion. The Cavalier opened on schedule with its dance deck, bandstand and bulkhead completely rebuilt.

J. Long of Cincinnati, Vice-Chairman of the Board, and the following all of Atlanta: Carl J. Reith, President, L. B. Allen, Vice President, J. B. Follard, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, William M. Robinson, Vice President, Operations, J. W. Tracy, Vice President Personnel and Employee Relations, and E. W. Holland, Controller.

Novice Shriners Walking Hot Sands

A class of some 100 novices from Norfolk and the 17 surrounding counties will cross "The Hot Sands of The Desert" on their way to becoming Nobles of the Mystic Shrine and participants in the work of assisting in the maintenance of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

The weekend festivities begin Friday at the Mosque, Freemason and Duke Streets, when the "Pre-ceremonial" feast will be served at 6 o'clock. Illustrious Potentate, Brock J. Scott, will lead a parade of Khedive Temple's uniform units through downtown Norfolk starting from the Mosque at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. The parade will move east to Granby Street, then to City Hall Avenue to Boush Street, to Freemason Street—returning to the Mosque.

The first section of the ceremonial will precede the parade with the second section scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

Many Potentates or representatives from nearby temples will be in attendance. Jack O'Neill and his orchestra will furnish music for dancing, which begins at 9 p.m.

More than anything else, most Americans want security: U. S. Savings Bonds provide that financial security.

Perfect Cup Of Coffee Revives A Tired, Triumphant Shopper

This is any woman's shining hour. Her shopping spree has ended successfully with a smart new bonnet for her wardrobe, and believe it or not, it's still just a little past two o'clock. That means there's time to sip a leisurely cup of coffee before the afternoon session of school lets out.

For the tired, happy wanderer, the coffee ought to be nothing short of a perfect pick-me-up. It ought to be, that is, if it's been brewed properly. Coffee that tastes exactly right is easy to come by, but it does require following a few simple rules. If you stick to them, you'll always get the best results from your coffee-pot.

Rules for a Perfect Pot of Coffee: To begin with, your coffee-maker should be spotless. A swish under the hot water tap just won't do. The pot should be washed in soapy water and rinsed thoroughly after each use to get rid of the oily film left after brewing. Then, when you're ready to brew a fresh pot, make sure your coffee and water are both fresh. Vacuum-packed coffee will stay fresh for about a week after the can is opened. Coffee in the bean, unground, stays fresh for about ten to fourteen days.

Very often, a cup of coffee will start us yearning for one of the desserts we grew up with. This wonderful Lemon Rice Pudding is filled with memories. Delicious warm or cold, it's the best rice pudding we've ever eaten—especially when there's a pot of hot coffee with it.

LEMON RICE PUDDING
¾ cup uncooked rice
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon mace
¾ cup golden seedless raisins
½ cup whipping cream

Soak rice in milk ½ hour in top of double boiler. Add salt. Cook over hot water until rice is very tender and milk almost absorbed, stirring often. Beat egg yolks slightly. Add a little hot rice mixture to yolks. Return to double boiler. Cook and stir 2 minutes. Cream butter and sugar. Blend in lemon peel, lemon juice and mace. Stir in raisins. Add to rice mixture; blend well. Whip cream and fold in. Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Fold in. Turn into buttered 1-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 325°, about 30 minutes or until pudding is set. Serve warm or cold, with additional whipped cream if desired. Makes 6 servings.

COFFEE BREAK FOR THE ASTRONAUTS

Camp Springs, Md.: There is scarcely a soul who doesn't feel the need for a coffee break now and then. At Andrews Air Force Base, however, there are seven men who deserve their coffee more than anybody—our astronauts, of course.

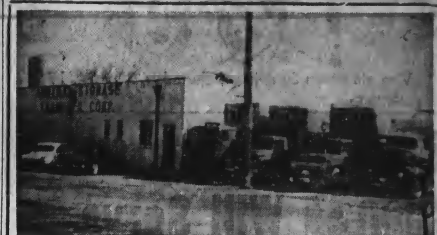

Fortunately, the coffee is always handy to the astronauts' office. In an adjoining room, a coffee urn steams constantly, and each of the seven space-men's desks sports a good-sized coffee mug. Most of the mugs are almost identical, with the men's names and seals of their branches of service adding the personal touch. The exceptions are those of Captain Leroy Cooper Jr. and Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr.

Captain Cooper's coffee mug has about twice the capacity of the others. On the mug is the picture of a droopy-eyed dog called "Coffee Hound".

All the astronauts' coffee mugs serve their purpose nobly, but Colonel Glenn's is far and away the most appropriate for the job. Cartooned on its surface is a man staring anxiously from the mouth of a cannon. The caption: "I work well under pressure."

Emanuel Lutheran Church Will Serve P. A. Plaza Area

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA — Emmanuel Lutheran Church is the name selected for the new Lutheran Mission being developed to serve the areas around the Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center.

The Rev. Kenneth A. Price, pastor of the new congregation, announces that worship services will begin from the temporary worship center located at 10100 Virginia Beach Boulevard on June 10 at 10:30 a.m.

The name Emmanuel, which means God is with us, was selected by the Steering Committee of the new church and received the approval of the Home Missions Committee of which Dr. L. W. Strickler of First Lutheran Church in Norfolk is chairman.

The temporary worship center is a warehouse located just to the rear of the C.M.E. office building. Under the direction of Mr. William Lemley and Mr. Walter Stephenson the warehouse is being painted and made ready for the first service. Mr. Gerald Sloan and Mr. Richard Laurick are making the altar and lectern. Mr. Dennis Falk is contributing the cross and candle holders. Choir robes are being made by a committee headed by Mrs. Clyde Tyre. Mrs. August Gomer is the church director and Mrs. W. J. Duke is the organist. The Sunday School and educational program of the new church will be in charge of Mr. Franklin Retzke. Plans are underway for Sunday School to begin on June 10 and a Vacation Bible School to be held in the middle of August.

The new church is being supported by the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church in American and the Virginia Synod. The Rev. Mr. Kenneth A. Price, who is the mission developer and pastor in charge, makes his home at 10102 Sunnybrook Lane, Lynnhaven.

DAD'S GRADUATION

It wasn't Dad who burned the midnight oil . . . or crammed for exams . . . or struggled with term papers . . . or won a letter in baseball . . . or a prize in home economics.

Dad just wrote the checks . . . and the encouraging letters . . . and boasted to the office force about his "kids" in school.

But this is really Dad's graduation. For he planned this day many years ago. And all these years he has struggled to give his boy and girl the kind of an education he never had.

Something else he has given them—something he did have; a sound Christian faith, manifested in loyal devotion to his Church's worship and work.

Better than a diploma is Dad's reward today; the reverent, joyous certainty that, not only in their education, but equally in their spiritual development, he has recognized the needs of his children . . . and has seen them through.

Are you planning your children's future—every Sunday?

I heard somewhere that a new hotel is being built in Nevada for about 100 divorces. It's named the Jiltin-Hilton.

SLIME MOLD MAY APPEAR IN LAWNS

Spring and early summer showers may herald the appearance of an unattractive — but not particularly troublesome — malady called "slime mold" lawns.

The first symptoms of slime mold are white patches, sometimes only 4 to 8 inches in diameter, scattered on part of the lawn, and looking as if someone has splattered white paint. Later the patches may turn dark brown. When slime mold is disturbed, dark smutty-looking spores shoot out in the air.

The fungus causing slime mold grows on decaying vegetable matter in the soil. During periods of high humidity, this fungus will grow up through the soil and along the grass stems, and may at times completely cover the stems and leaves in parts of lawns and other wet locations. The fungus is not parasitic and does no damage other than sometimes smothering the leaves. If there is an exceptionally heavy covering of slime mold on the grass, the leaves may have an unsightly brown appearance. Control measures for slime mold are not recommended. The disease will cause no trouble in normal weather.

HORIZONTAL SILOS HAVE PLACE ON MANY FARMS

Farmers who plan to expand their silage feeding program should investigate the use of horizontal silos. Such silos are classified into three types — stack, trench, and bunker. The type used will depend on the situation on each farm. Of the three types, the stack type is least expensive.

The only expense is the cost of a black plastic sheet to cover the silage stack to prevent surface spoilage. The plastic costs about 20 to 25 cents per ton of silage covered, and is an annual cost. The stack type silo has generally been used for emergency purposes, or when finances are limited. Some farmers have had such favorable results with this type silo they continue to use it.

The stack is made by piling silage on the ground at a convenient and well-drained site. The height of the stack is usually 4 to 7 feet. For the average farm, the width may be 15 to 24 feet. The plastic sheet must be anchored securely around the edges and over the top to prevent the entrance of air. The trench silo is made on the side of a hill. It may have an earth bottom and sides for temporary use. Concrete sides and bottom are recommended for permanent use. Suitable locations for this type of silo are limited. Tilt-up concrete panels for the side walls make a convenient and economical method of construction. The cost for concrete and reinforcing steel will be from $4.50 to $5.50 per ton of capacity, depending on size. For self-feeding and removing silage with a tractor scoop, the depth is usually 6 to 8 feet.

The bunker silo is built above ground and can be more conveniently located than a trench silo. It may be built with untreated or treated poles and plank, or with concrete tilt-up panels and buttresses. A 4-inch thick concrete floor is recommended for all permanent horizontal silos.

Use only locust or cedar poles of untreated wood. Oak boards covered with 55 pounds roofing paper will give an inexpensive first cost. The useful life is limited, however. Treated poles and 2-inch tongue and groove plank sides will be useful for 20 to 30 years with a minimum of maintenance.

The tilt-up concrete silo is the most durable. The cost of materials for a concrete tilt-up or treated wood bunker silo will be about equal, varying from $4.50 to $5 per ton or capacity.

Caution Is Watchword When Using Power Mowers

Power lawn mowers take a toll of fingers and toes each year, and are often responsible for fatal injuries.

The cutting edge of a rotary mower travels at speeds up to 200 miles per hour. Not only can it injure by direct contact of the blade, but it can impart tremendous power to stones, sticks, or wire picked up and thrown.

Read the operator's manual and become familiar with the machine. In this way you can learn to get the most efficient and safe use from the mower.

Before mowing, go over the area and remove all stones, sticks, boards, wire, or other foreign objects. Never try to repair or adjust a mower with the motor running. Disconnect the sparkplug wire of gasoline engines or the service cord of electric motors before making adjustments. It's a good idea to do this also when leaving the mower, to prevent children from starting it accidentally.

When starting an engine, take a firm stand with hands and feet away from the cutting blade and moving parts. Keep the mower clean and blades sharp. A sharp blade needs less speed and power & does a better job of cutting. It is advisable to have a minimum blade height of 2 1/4 inches to prevent scalping and damage to the turf.

Store gasoline in a safe container away from furnaces, fires, or sparks. Do not store gasoline in glass. Be careful of gasoline leaks and do not refill the tank when the engine is hot or running.

Maintain complete control of the mower at all times. Don't permit it to pull you along behind it. Make sure the mower is equipped with needed safety shields. Check these shields, the blade, and other parts often for wear, cracks, and loose bolts and nuts. Keep children and pets away from the mowing area.

PLANNING WILL PAY OFF IN PROFITS FROM CATTLE

Profits made on the feeder calf crop this fall will depend largely on the planning cattlemen do now. Some will have enough grass in August and September to keep calves growing rapidly, but others will be short.

Plan now where the grass is coming from and how to keep the calves growing rapidly the last two months before market time.

The feeding period from the last of July to the first of Oct. is important, and often neglected. At this time cattle are on pasture and many cattlemen assume they are getting enough to eat when they really aren't.

This is one of the most critical periods of the year because it is the time that our final products, the feeder calf, is being conditioned for market. Perhaps more dollars are lost by letting grass give out during this period than any other phase of the entire production program.

Cattlemen can determine now whether or not they have too many cattle for the latter part of the season. If so, they can plan on selling some in June and early July, lightening the load on pastures.

Farmers who see they are going to make enough winter feed can plan to release some hay cropland for grazing during August and September and thereby increase the weight of calves considerably.

The farmer who knows he will be short of pasture, and does not want to sell any of his stock, should consider creep feeding his calves. Creep feeding will give extra nutrients

Electric Firm Purchases Aid State's Economy

During 1961 the Western Electric Company, the manufacturing and purchasing arm of the Bell System, made a large contribution to the economic progress in Virginia.

According to L. F. Patrick, local Manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia, Western Electric made payments to Virginia suppliers and carriers for goods and services in the amount of some $8.3 million last year.

Patrick said that the principal amount — $8 million, was spent with suppliers and a little over $325,000 with carriers.

There were 224 suppliers located in 45 Virginia communities. Purchases ranged from lead pencils to creosoted poles and other products required in the operation of the telephone business.

The C&P Manager pointed out that 91 per cent of the purchases were made from small business firms in the state.

Western Electric also paid more than $7.3 million to its own employees who worked in the Commonwealth during the year installing new telephone equipment in the C&P's central offices.

That the calf needs and which he won't be able to get from pasture or his mother. Creep feeding should not only increase weight, but grade.

There are two schools of thought on creep feeding beef calves. Some folks think it should be done all the time, and some think it should never be done. The truth is that there is no one method that works under all conditions. A farmer with excellent pastures and good cows will not need creep feeding in his feeder calf production. But many farmers do not have these ideal conditions, and in many cases the creep feeder should be used.

Purebred cattle breeders should always use creep feeders for bull calves, because it will make them heavier, give them more bloom, and make them more marketable at an earlier age.

Its reliability is probably its greatest single asset

When you build a quality truck, the inclination is to run around asking users what they think of it. We do quite a bit of this.

It's a funny thing. You'd think people would talk mostly about the mechanical features of the vehicle—the good ride, its power, the double-wall construction, cab comfort, or tough tailgate.

These things get comment, of course, but they're consistently outnumbered by expressions of satisfaction with the dependability of a Chevrolet truck. Its greatest single asset seems to be the fact that it does its job well day after day without a lot of fuss or attention—and that's what impresses people the most.

Quality is the key to reliability. The next time you have to buy a truck, call your Chevrolet dealer and make your money go farther.

Music Festival Interest Grows As Event Nears

VIRGINIA BEACH—June 14 through June 16 loom as music-filled days for Virginia Beach as the first annual Virginia Beach Music Festival of high school bands from several southeastern states will be presented here. The festival is being sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce in association with Forbes Candies.

The complete schedule for the three-day event was released this week by Charles R. Forbes, general chairman. The musical bonanza will bring together a total of 10 high school bands from six states.

Saturday Parade

Highlight of the program will come on Saturday when all bands entered in the music festival are scheduled to take part in a grand parade along Atlantic avenue. The parade will climax three days of competition among the bands that will include marching exhibitions and concert numbers.

The schedule calls for registration of the various bands prior to 6 p.m. on Wednesday. Also on Wednesday evening a cocktail party and dinner for band directors and officials is planned.

On Thursday, the first day of the festival, activity will shift to the Virginia Beach High School where students will open at 10 a.m. Starting at 12 noon the stadium will be opened to the public and at 1:15 p.m. all competing bands are to be on the field.

The celebrated Tropical Knights from the Hialeah, Fla., High School will put on a one-hour show starting at 2 p.m. The TK's are under the direction of Logan Turrentine, who is also executive director of the festival.

Most of Friday morning and afternoon is set aside for practice by the marching bands with the actual marching competition scheduled for Friday night in the Virginia Beach High School stadium.

The grand parade is listed to begin at 10 a.m. Contestants will have free time Saturday afternoon and a dance for all participants is scheduled for Saturday night at the Virginia Beach High School.

Awards and medals in the various events will be announced and presented during intermission at the dance Saturday night.

In addition to Turrentine, who is the director, the music festival has attracted three outstanding judges in the persons of O. V. Kraushaar, Dr. Paul Yoder and Roy Wood.

There will be approximately 1,500 youngsters participating in the festival and officials are predicting that more than 3,000 persons will witness the three-day event. Tickets sell for one dollar for the entire three days and are available at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Convention Center, at Virginia Beach and Princess Anne High Schools and from the music departments of all area schools.

Pembroke Manor Has New Feature

PEMBROKE—Pembroke Manor will be the first large-scale housing development to have utility lines at the rear of the homes, a spokesman for the Virginia Electric and Power Co. said this week.

Expense of the rear-line installation will be absorbed by the builders, Terry Corporation. Asphalt-surfaced, soil cement based roads will also be installed.

Pembroke Manor, a community of 1,100 homes, is scheduled to open in a few weeks.

DST Time Now Until Labor Day

Daylight Saving Time went into effect Wednesday at 12:01 a.m., showing clocks throughout the state ahead one hour. It will remain in effect through Labor Day, Sept. 3, when standard time returns and clocks will be set back an hour.

Virginia Beach postal service will be operated on DST, Postmaster Joseph T. Crosswhite, Jr., announced this week.

Library Here To Add Branch

VIRGINIA BEACH—A building has been leased for a branch of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County Public Library and the new facility may open next month.

The building is located on Virginia Beach Boulevard, adjacent to the Pembroke Manor entrance. It is convenient to Aragona Village and Princess Anne High School.

"This is a temporary location," Miss Margaret Capps, librarian, said, "because the property will eventually be absorbed by a shopping center. But we plan to keep the branch in that area."

Formerly a home, the branch will incorporate three rooms as a children's section, the main reading room and a stock room. The kitchen will be converted to a work area for the staff.

Mrs. Earle Thornton of Aragona Village, once employed in the children's department of the Norfolk Library, will be staff librarian.

Improvements on the building will include air conditioning, lighting and shelving. Most of the furnishings, including fibre glass chairs, formica top tables and steel bookshelves, have already been purchased.

Over 3,000 volumes have been processed and catalogued for the branch by Miss Capps and Mrs. Paul Maestas but this number will expand to about 5,000 as the need arises.

Library hours have not been determined, Miss Capps said, but the branch will be open one night a week and on Saturday mornings.

The new facility will relieve the bookmobile from the regular Aragona Village stop, which has been issuing over 1,000 books a month, for service in other areas.

The main library on 22nd St. has been growing steadily since its opening three years ago and now has 16,000 card holders. Over 5,000 cards have been issued in the past 10 months.

Next Year's SCA Heads

Student Council officers for 1962-63 were installed in impressive candlelight ceremonies Tuesday at Virginia Beach High School by the sponsor, Mrs. Betsy Darst. They were: (standing, left to right) Kitty Boshier, president and Stephen Strickler, treasurer; (kneeling) Bonnie Berry, secretary and Candy Todd, vice president. Mrs. Darst was presented a gift for her work with the SCA.

Water Issue

'We're Ready' - Kellam

VIRGINIA BEACH—"We are ready to meet and get this water situation straightened out," Sidney Kellam, chairman of the Princess Anne County Water Committee, said Wednesday. "If we have it back in our laps, as Norfolk says, then let's do something about it."

Kellam's statement came in the wake of comments made by Norfolk City Councilman Roy B. Martin Jr. and City Manager Thomas F. Maxwell Tuesday when the Tidewater Association of Home Builders appealed to the council for a solution to the water problem.

Martin requested that the TAHB letter be sent to the Water Committee, stating that "This puts the monkey back where it ought to be—on the Water Committee."

Maxwell said he hasn't heard from the committee since it met with Norfolk officials in April.

The latest flare-up in the water situation came about Monday when Julian Rashkind, president of TAHB, asked Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors for a "prompt and effective solution" to the problem. A similar request was made to Norfolk City Council.

Housing developers in the county are unable to get city water from Norfolk until an agreement can be reached on a 25-year water contract Norfolk City Council offered the county a few months ago. Six developers did receive water service recently because their applications were made prior to the merger campaign.

The contract states that Norfolk will sell water to the county providing the merged city does not secure its own water supply for at least 25 years. An unofficial source has said that Norfolk offered to sell the county water at a bulk rate of 60 cents per 1,000 gallons. The bulk rate charged Virginia Beach now is 27 cents.

Beach Lions Seeking State Meet for '65

VIRGINIA BEACH—A program designed to draw the Lions Club State Convention to Virginia Beach in 1965 is now being planned by the Virginia Beach Lions Club.

A capsule with the slogan "We're Reserving Space for You in 1965" will be displayed at Roanoke when the state meeting is held there this summer.

The local program is headed by Lion Bill Snider with the assistance of Bill Lillyman, director of convention sales for the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center, and Ed Doty of The Cavalier.

Jim Cox, sponsored by Lacy Robinson, was added to the growing list of new members of the Virginia Beach club at a meeting Monday night. He is in the Navy, stationed aboard ship here and was a Lion in the state of Washington.

Leon Johnson, chief engineer of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel and a member of the local group, showed slides of the world famous operation that was started April 20, 1961.

The bridge-tunnel, which will cover 23 miles from each approach and span 17.62 miles of water, is the largest and first of its kind in the world. Most of the equipment has been made especially for the project.

VIRGINIA BEACH—W. Russell Hatchett will be city manager of the new City of Virginia Beach after the merger with Princess Anne County becomes effective January 1.

The announcement was made Monday after a closed meeting of City Council, the Princess Anne Board of Supervisors and the merger executive committee.

Manager

W. RUSSELL HATCHETT

Richard J. Webb, executive secretary of the Board of Supervisors, who was being considered for the managership, will be given a top administrative position, possibly head of a water and sanitation commission, the printed announcement stated.

Ivan D. Mapp will be commissioner of revenue for the new city and W. H. Phillips present commissioner of revenue for Virginia Beach, will be his assistant.

V. Alfred Etheridge, county treasurer, will retain that post for the new city and will be assisted by Lewis E. Smith, present Virginia Beach treasurer. George Vakos, Virginia Beach city attorney, will serve in the same capacity for the new city.

As city manager, Hatchett's duties will include setting up the merged governments into one city and serving as executive and administrative head of the city.

Hatchett is a native of Yanceyville, N.C., and came to Tidewater in 1930 to go into the shipping business in Norfolk. He entered politics in 1938 being elected treasurer of what was then the town of Virginia Beach. In 1943 he ran for the office of commissioner of revenue and was elected, but later resigned to become town manager at Virginia Beach for a short period in 1959. He entered the real estate and insurance business in the 1950s and in the fall of 1959, he became city manager of Virginia Beach.

He attended public schools in Yanceyville, at Trinity Park Prep, and at Trinity College, which is now Duke University. He is married to the former Lucy Marshall. The Hatchetts have three children, all married and nine grandchildren.

Dragway Draws Record Crowd

CREEDS—The opening races of the new Freedom "7" Dragway Wednesday attracted more than 5,000 spectators and more than 100 racing cars here.

The track opened at 12 o'clock noon and entries were so heavy that the races did not get started until 4 p.m. It required more than two and one-half hours for time trials.

Officials had not anticipated the unusually large crowd and as a result the track will change its opening hours so that the trials may be completed in time for races to begin at 3 p.m.

More races are in store for drag strip enthusiasts as a full schedule of races will be staged each Sunday at the Freedom "7" Dragway, which is the old Creeds airfield.

The drag strip is being sponsored by the Creeds Volunteer Fire Department and the Virginia Beach Safe Drivers Association. Entry fee for cars and driver is three dollars and admission to the dragway for spectators is one dollar per person.

Beach People Set Own Fashion Wear

Oh yes, I have found that in Virginia Beach you may wear anything you feel like wearing, and you will always be right—or wrong.

Down here the only un-nervacking invitation is the one that says "black tie." But the one that says "informal" or "don't dress" is the one that is totally confusing.

It can range from blue suits

LYNNHAVEN AFRICAN VIOLET SOCIETY

Proper care for the growing of African Violets was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Paul Tower at the May meeting of the Lynnhaven African Violet Society held at Mrs. Tower's home in King's Grant.

Ribbons were awarded Mrs. J. S. Speight, Mrs. R. J. Bashford, Mrs. W. R. Payne Jr., Mrs. Harry Billups and Mrs. Tower for men and short evening dress for women to tie and slacks. This is the one fact that makes the telephone companies a fine profit—meaning that after you ask everyone of your friends (including the hostess) what to wear, you get nowhere and end up wearing what you planned to wear in the first place!

Make a point of being like a good omelette — neither over nor under done.

A sheath dress will go everywhere. But just to be on the safe side, take a silk scarf and use it as a head cover, if you like, and if you feel "under done," take an attractive pin along with you and attach the scarf to your shoulder. It will give you that little "extra" that you needed.

Orange and greens are the 1962 fashion colors of this month.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Mr. Hatchett Moves into A Big Job with Merged City

A challenge faces Mr. W. Russell Hatchett as city manager of the new City of Virginia Beach, which will come into being next January 1. The challenge is not limited to Mr. Hatchett, but to all public officeholders and every citizen as well.

We have no doubt that Hatchett will accept and meet this challenge in the same commendable way that he has served the present Virginia Beach as its city manager. Mr. Hatchett has made this city a fine city manager and his experience will be of tremendous value for the city.

Mr. Hatchett not only has served Virginia Beach well, but in looking to his new job as city manager of the greatly expanded City of Virginia Beach it can be remembered that Mr. Hatchett is acutely familiar with the county territory and its complex problems since he has maintained a close relationship with the county over the years. He, at one time, served Princess Anne County as its commissioner of the revenue. So, Mr. Hatchett is by no means a stranger to the area he will manage starting next January 1.

The news of the shape of the governmental offices of the new city came this week in a joint statement by Mayor Frank

A. Dusch and Chairman S. Paul Brown of the county board of supervisors. It followed a joint meeting of the present city council and the supervisors.

In addition to Hatchett's appointment the group recommended that Richard J. Webbon, executive secretary to the board of supervisors, be considered for "the next top administrative job." It was also recommended that Ivan D. Mapp, present county revenue commissioner, assume the duties as commissioner of the revenue for the new city, and that V. A. "Jack" Etheridge, present county treasurer, become the city treasurer. In each instance the present city revenue commissioner, William H. Phillips, and city treasurer, Lewis E. Smith, would become assistants to Mapp and Etheridge.

We congratulate the members of the city council and the board of supervisors in their wise handling of these positions. The Sun-News feels that the three offices involved in this announcement are in capable hands and the individuals heading these offices have demonstrated their ability over the years. The new city will be administered by experienced public servants and this should benefit all of the citizens of the new City of Virginia Beach.

Letter Is Food for Thought

A letter from a Sun-News reader appearing elsewhere on this page raises an interesting question that no doubt is of a controversial nature and for that reason the thought contained in the letter will draw the usual pros and cons.

The letter is from Mr. Donald Webb, who proposes that some thought and serious consideration be given to the idea of certain nearby military installations be given up by Federal and State governments for the orderly growth of Virginia Beach.

Specifically, Mr. Webb refers to Fort Story, the Federal military installation to the north of Virginia Beach, and to Camp Pendleton, the State reservation to the south of the city. Mr. Webb states that now is a good time for the proper authorities to look into this matter and he cites recent testimony of Thomas D. Morris, assistant Secretary of Defense, to back up his reasoning.

Mr. Webb quotes Mr. Morris as saying: "Since their establishment many years ago, some of our installations have become surrounded by highly populated areas due to the growth of adjacent communities . . . thus, the underlying land has greatly appreciated in value and the continued growth of these communities will be facilitated by our release of these properties and the relocation of our operations to other more suitable installations of lower value . . . disposal of these properties will benefit local communities by placing tax-exempt federal property on local tax rolls and providing needed areas for community expansion."

We say again Mr. Webb's letter gives food for thought.

Letters To The Editor

May 23, 1962

Editor,
Virginia Beach Sun-News
Virginia Beach, Virginia
Dear Sir:

"As you have been previously advised, our Temporary Disaster Office at Virginia Beach was officially closed on May 18, 1962. We believe that the Virginia Beach area and adjacent seaside communities are well on the way to complete recovery from the disastrous storm of March, 1962. We are glad that this administration could have a small part in the rehabilitation of the disaster victims."

We wish to convey our personal thanks for the fine coverage rendered for our work by your newspaper.

Everyone in the community has been most cooperative with us and it was a pleasure to work with such nice people during our stay in this vicinity.

Very truly yours,
C. Raymond Shaw
Field Office Manager

Editor, Sun-News:

Dear Sir,

The growth of the present community of Virginia Beach is completely barred on the south and north by state and federal military installations and, for residential use, its growth is substantially barred to the west by Oceana Naval Air Station.

In addition to barred-growth, the said community is beset with problems of beach erosion in its commercial sector and serious unfilled needs for water and sewerage facilities.

The return to private ownership of Camp Pendleton and Ft. Story would far toward alleviating all of the sand problems . . . and certainly with no interference to the national defense effort.

Camp Pendleton consists of about 1,000 acres of the finest land in the coastal region; temporary-type buildings were erected thereon during World War II and the camp is now used for only a period during the summer. It is beyond doubt that the function now performed by Camp Pendleton could easily and perfectly be performed by any one of several other existing camps.

As for Fort Story, hardly since the War Between the States has it had a bona fide reason for existence based on necessity for defense, yet, last December, Fort Story was provided a "permanent status" by the Army. It is my understanding that the use to which Fort Story is now being put is that of Military Transportation training.

Fort Story's four and one-half miles of oceanfrontage and its 2,000 odd acres would provide unequalled residential sites for many thousands of citizens. The proceeds from the sale of Fort Story should easily provide an adequate and like-ly far superior substitute location for military transportation training.

In response to bringing the above to Senator Byrd's attention last January, he suggested that if the authorities of Princess Anne County would make a request to the governmental agencies, giving the reasons why the properties (Camp Pendleton and Fort Story) should be sold to private ownership, he would be glad to take it up and do all that he could to arrange for meetings between the said authorities and the proper officials of the government.

In testimony last month before the House Armed Services Committee, Thomas D. Morris, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Installations and Logistics, stated: "Since their establishment many years ago, some of our installations have become surrounded by highly populated areas due to the growth of adjacent communities . . . thus, the underlying land has greatly appreciated in value and the continued growth of these communities will be facilitated by our release of these properties and the relocation of our operations to other more suitable installations of lower value . . . disposal of these properties will benefit local communities by placing tax-exempt federal property on local tax rolls and providing needed areas for community expansion."

The federal government now owns about 26% of the continental United States and is constantly increasing its holding; from Secretary Morris' testimony, the federal government is now apparently willing to at least relinquish certain of its military installations where the adjacent community growth is seriously barred.

The time would seem to be clearly at hand for the local authority to begin the rescue of the present community of Virginia Beach by appropriate action in Richmond and Washington.

Respectfully yours,
DONALD O. WEBB

Local Girl Is Winner

NEW YORK — Lynne H. Church, a student in Mrs. C. Bernard Brown's class at Country Day School for Girls, Virginia Beach, Va., has been named a winner in TIME magazine's 26th annual Current Affairs Contest.

The 105-question "test" was taken this year by more than 150,000 college and high school students in the U. S. and Canada. It covers recent news events in the fields of national and world politics, the arts, education, religion, science, entertainment and sports.

Top scorers in each of the nearly 4,000 schools enrolled in the TIME Education Program receive a certificate from The Weekly Newsmagazine and a choice of either a world globe or a book from a specially selected list.

The test, distributed by the TIME Education Department, has been taken by more than 3,000,000 college and high school students since it was created 26 years ago.

Miss Church is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Church of Virginia Beach.

Your Social Security

The amount of money payable on your Social Security account depends on your average monthly earnings as shown in your Social Security record.

You have a responsibility in seeing that your record is correct. Failure to show the correct Social Security number resulted in Uncle Sam rehandling over 300,000 Social Security records in 1961. If the correct number is not shown or if the correct name is not shown, there is always the danger that the earnings will not be posted to the proper record. This would result in a lower average monthly earnings on your record and a lower benefit payable to you and your family. It could even mean the loss of all benefits. You must have been in work covered by the Social Security Law for a certain length of time, to qualify for monthly payments for yourself or for your family. Incorrect reporting can result in a real loss in benefit amounts, for monthly payments to individuals vary from $33 to $119 while payments to a family can run as high as $254.

Businessmen and farmers have an additional responsibility. In addition to filling proper returns for their employees, they must report their earnings and pay their Social Security self-employment tax each year as part of their individual income tax return, if their net earnings are $400 or more.

Farmers may still obtain Social Security coverage, even if there is little or no net farm income, by using one of the alternate methods of figuring net earnings. If the gross farm income was not more than $1800 for the year, they may report two-thirds of the gross, or if the gross farm income was over $1800 but the actual net farm income was below $1200, they may report $1200.

You are paying for your Social Security protection. Be sure you receive the credit you pay for by showing name and Social Security Account Number clearly and correctly on proper returns.

Ft. Story Golfer Has Double Eagle

FORT STORY—A Fort Story soldier wrote a new page in the history of Eagle Haven Golf Course at Little Creek Naval Base when he carded a double eagle on the course's 475-yard fourth hole.

Sergeant Robin Brisbane of the 247th Transportation Company accomplished the feat by following up a powerful 300-yard plus drive with a 160-yard six iron shot that bounced once in front of the green and rolled into the cup. Five is par for the hole.

Playing with the sergeant at the time were Master Sergeant Vincent J. Davis, Plans and Operations, 14th Transportation Battalion and Sergeant First Class Thomas Anderson, Special Services Division, 4th Transportation Command.

In Sailing Regatta

This twin-hulled design has been clocked at speeds over 18 knots under sail.

Aqua-Cat Sailing Regatta Saturday

VIRGINIA BEACH — New York, Connecticut and local entries will race in Virginia Beach's first Aqua-Cat Sailing Regatta, Saturday (11:30 and 3:30), Sunday (11:30).

Norfolk's Dick Vail, national Jolly Boat Champion, will race in the event.

Setting the colorful scene on the ocean in front of The Albemarle Hall at 24th Street will be approximately 15 of these fast sailing 12' boats.

The Aqua-Cat is noted as a remarkably safe catamaran which owes its origin to the Polynesians.

The informal regatta is under the auspices of the Aqua-Cat Catamaran Sailing Association with F. Ferebee Trafton, owner-manager of the Albemarle Hall, host for the event.

Spectators will be extended a courtesy sail by members of the association after the completion of the regatta.

In case the ocean is not suitable for sailing, the regatta will be held on Broad Bay.

Entry Blanks For Pro-Amateur Sent to Courses

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA—Entry blanks and tickets for the July 20-22 Tom Fergusson Memorial pro-amateur golf tournament at Bow Creek went out to Tidewater golf courses Monday, general chairman Gus Meloni announced.

Proceeds of the three-day, 54-hole tournament, entry fee for which will be $25 each, will be contributed to the Heart Fund.

The tournament will be played in honor of the late Tom Fergusson, golf writer for The Virginian-Pilot and a staunch supporter of golf in this area for over 25 years until he died of heart disease last November.

Meloni said entries will be closed out four days before the tournament begins. Pairings for the pro-amateur teams will be drawn from a hat, and each pro will be paired with three amateurs.

The pro-amateur will be played on a handicap basis with amateurs receiving three-quarter of their club handicaps, which must be approved by their club professionals.

Prizes will be awarded for the top four teams in the pro-amateur division; the three leading amateur gross scores; the leading five amateur net scores, and the low seven professional scores.

Tickets for spectators will be $1.

Working with Meloni, an active sportsman in Tidewater and a close friend of tournament's honoree, will be Bow Creek pro Fred Sappenfield. The idea of the Heart Fund pro-amateur was originated by Harold (Shorty) Oatman, Naval Base professional.

Two Sunday sessions, at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m., are reserved for teams of four, with no eliminations.

Winners will be awarded trophies. Awarded for the first time will be the Stella Landauer Memorial Trophy for the player scoring the most master points in all events of the tournament.

Between open pair sessions Saturday, a buffet supper will be served.

CAVALIER COOK-OUT

VIRGINIA BEACH — About 100 members of the Cavalier Golf and Yacht Club attended a cook-out Saturday night at the club.

Charcoal broiled steaks were on the menu and dancing was held around the pool terrace to the music of Les Larson and his musical group.

Lounge Opens For Service Men of Area

VIRGINIA BEACH — A servicemen's lounge and bath house opened Wednesday, May 30th, at Virginia Beach, and will be in operation through Labor Day.

Located at Atlantic Avenue & Eighteenth Street, the Service Center is sponsored by the Lutheran Service Commission and The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd. This will be the sixth season these facilities have been offered to the servicemen at the Beach.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all men in the armed forces to use the Service Center as headquarters while at the Beach. Last summer over five thousand servicemen enjoyed using the lounge where they played ping pong, rested after swimming, wrote letters, read, and relaxed in attractive and wholesome surroundings.

The bath house enabled the men to really enjoy the beach and ocean. Hostesses are on duty to check valuables and to assist whenever needed, and of course, there is no charge for these services.

The center is open Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sundays 12 noon to 8 p.m.

"I feel it is a privilege that our church is able to offer a needed and worthwhile service to the men of the armed forces in this area," said Pastor J. D. Keister.

Seahawk TIDBITS

By DARLA SUE DESKINS

Staffs for the student publications for the 1962-63 school term have been announced.

April Ramey, Pam Crutchfield, Gail Kaplan, and Wendy Farmer — literary, and John Radcliff.

With this sort of staff backing Bonnie up, she should edit one of the best yearbooks ever to record the days of 'ole' V.B.

Sue Deskins

The Beachcomber — school newspaper — has acquired an energetic group of students to pound the news beat. Darla Sue Deskins is the new editor. She has a capable staff consisting of: Tuffy Camo, Eric Yates, Bobby Hughes, Sharon Jones, Beverly Voliva, Pat Noden, Clara Katsias, Cindy Case, Donald White, Linda Allen, Lyn Costenbader, and Paul deWitt. The tyroine will be handled by nimble-fingered Tom Treichler.

Positions to be held by those chosen for the staff will not be announced until fall.

The Jr. Civitan Club of Virginia Beach has suffered trial and tribulation and is just beginning to get back on its feet. Although the officers of this year were capable, they could not carry the load alone. A go-get-em attitude has been developed by the newly elected officers for next year.

They are: Mary Kay Newcomb — President; Vic Vanture — Vice-President; Elaine Zegan — secretary; Bonnie Walthall — corresponding secretary; Tommy Tarkenton — treasurer; Bunky Grimstead — Sergeant-at-Arms; and Harriet Gilliam — Chaplain. This club was the first one of the Junior clubs to be started in this area. With the capable leaders they have chosen, they should once more gain their footing among the top Civitan Clubs.

Four members of the Beachcomber staff attended the Tide-water Scholastic Press Association banquet held at the Lafayette Yacht Club. Clara Katsias, Sharon Jones, Lyn Costenbader and Darla Sue Deskins will all vouch as to the goodness of both food and speaker.

The speaker was the Rev. Robinson of Freeman Baptist Church. He discussed the good that journalist can do in the world — if they will try. The club adjourned for the summer after nominating Linda Roundtree of Great Bridge for acting Chairman.

Darla's Darlin's: The man who counts the drops of sweat — generally accomplishes little.

Builder's Problem

Rising Costs

Just about all the difficulties facing home builders add up to two words—rising costs.

There are mounting costs all along the line—cost of labor, cost of materials, cost of land and its development, cost of overhead, cost of taxes and cost of money itself. All these continue to grow.

Yet, the cost of a medium priced home has increased only $100 in the last five years. This is a sensational fact when you consider the rising costs of everything involved in a new home.

How was it done? Largely through the National Association of Home Builders, with which the Tidewater Association of Home Builders is affiliated. The NAHB is constantly seeking to hold down costs.

It works with manufacturers of materials and equipment to find new techniques and equipment that will hold down costs and yet produce better homes.

It strives for modernization of building codes in areas where out-dated restrictions are still on the books, standing in the way of progress. Often the horse-and-buggy codes block the use of new and improved techniques that would lower home building costs.

The big trade association is seeking, too, to bring down the cost of money. It recognizes that many lenders, such as savings banks, have found ways to effect economies in their operating costs. But it believes that more can be done. As banks seek out and find cost-saving methods, these savings should be passed along to mortgagors, just as builders pass along to the public the savings they can effect.

A reduction of fees and closing costs, also is a vital need. Builders and mortgage bankers are examining this wide-ranging subject, in hope of bringing about a reduction.

High among the problems of rising costs is the cost of labor. The pattern set recently in New York City when Local 3 of the Electricians' Union negotiated a 25-hour work week with a 56-cent hourly wage increase, has caused particular alarm. A spiral of exorbitant wage increases in all the building trades might be set off. Construction costs could soar.

The home building industry and the entire economy—building trades labor along with them—will suffer acutely if the continual demands for higher wages without corresponding productivity, do not cease.

The course of home building is affected to some degree by the state of the consumer mind. When there is uncertainty—such as tensions over the international situation, the call-up of reservists and similar situations—there is a noticeable reluctance on the part of the potential

Move Advanced to Convert School Into Community Center

SEATACT—A move to convert the abandoned Seatact Elementary School into a community center is under way by the Seatact Volunteer Fire Department.

The property was deeded to the Fire Department by the school trustees in 1961 for community purposes, and since March of this year committees have been set up and plans being made for the project.

An estimated $10,000 will be needed to form the center and less than $300 has been collected for the fund, a spokesman said.

A dinner to raise money for the center will be held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Mary Parson. The menu will include fried chicken, green and potato salads, candied yams, rolls and corn bread and will be served for $1 per plate.

Persons wishing to have the plates delivered may call GA 8-4584.

Churches, clubs and organizations throughout the area are asked to support the project to "help keep children off the streets."

Officers of the center committee include Aaron A. Parson, president; Mrs. Selma W. Hughes, secretary; Rev. M. R. Boone, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lynnhaven, financial secretary; Mrs. Johnnie M. Smith, reporter; Rev. D. P. Felton, pastor of St. Mark's A.M.E. Church of Oceana, building plan and program; Rev. T. M. Walker, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist Church of Seatact, by-laws; Rev. Clarence Owens, historian; Rev. David Wright, chaplain; and Rev. A. B. Groves, pastor of Chombell Chapel A.M.E. Church, Princess Anne, sergeant-at-arms.

Other members of the committee are: Mrs. Artie Womac, Mrs. Hazel Robertson, Mrs. Parson, Mrs. Rose Staton, Mrs. Matilda King, Mrs. Robbie Washington, Mrs. Francie Moore, Mrs. Mary Felton, Mrs. Mary Maytlien, Rev. J. M. Hall, C. I. Siler, A. L. Richard, Preston Watkins and James Fuller.

Mr. and Mrs. Landon Hilliard III and their young son, and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Faulkner Jr., of Charlottesville will arrive Monday to spend a week visiting Mr. Hilliard's parents at their home in Bay Colony.

Three Bands At Seaside

As the 1962 season moves into full swing at Seaside Park, Virginia Beach, three bands are swinging on the Park's Ballroom Bandstand for nightly dancing and weekend afternoon jam sessions.

D. Johnson and His Music Makers play for the Saturday Jam Session at 2:00 P.M. and on Sunday and Tuesday nights. Jimmy Hufton and The Hotshots are heard Saturday and Monday nights; the Upturns play for the Sunday Jam Session at 2 P.M. and other bands will fill out the schedule on an alternating basis.

The new Outdoor Stage which will be the setting for this season's free circus acts will be inaugurated Sunday, June 3, with Bradberry and His Six Little Buttons, an educated dog act, as the first attraction. They will be followed a week later by Wild Bill Cody and his western performers, doing sharpshooting, knife-throwing and similar exhibitions.

Memorial Day will be served Wednesday with a fireworks display.

Admission to Seaside Park is free.

J. Peter Holland IV and James M. Jordan IV will arrive Saturday from St. Paul's School in Brooklandville, Md., to spend the summer with their parents here.

Tri-Color Winners in Student Art Exhibit

Variety Is Keynote At School Exhibit

VIRGINIA BEACH—Variety judged the exhibit, awarding blue, red and yellow ribbons to the top exhibitors.

The collection was outstanding as a sample of student art, and many of the works would be noteworthy in any art exhibit.

On the whole the girls evidenced more skill in their drawings and watercolors than in the use of oils.

Anne Bennett received the best-in-the-show award by popular vote and a tri-color from the judges for her ocean scene done in oils. She paints with sophistication and taste and handles various media well.

Barbara Thomas' collection of drawings, watercolors and cartoons are delightful—reflecting talent and imagination.

Liza Sills entered a colorful and active "Cock-fight" and a series of attractive watercolors.

Hunter Joyce had several colorful abstracts and a pair of gay pen-and-ink drawings.

A sense of humor is evident in all of Caroline Horton's work, as well as a sense of balance and design.

Carol Bayne's drawings of people are outstanding as is her use of line and proportion.

A pleasing blue and green abstract was done by Peggy Coleman.

Laura Lambe amused her schoolmates when she slipped in an abstract watercolor done by her younger brother. It won a blue ribbon.

Many, many of the other young artists had works worthy of mention, and the exhibit deserved to be widely viewed.

It is hoped that the school will repeat the showing at least once a year.—JOY HAKIM

Nursery Owner Foresaw Future

By JOY HAKIM

VIRGINIA BEACH—Charles J. Hayes looks as hardy and sun-loving as most of his plants.

Dressed in a sport shirt, the owner of the Cavalier Nursery is equally colorful.

Hayes, and his wife, Jean, started the nursery at Hilltop five years ago.

"This is a good area for a nursery," he said, "the climate is good and there is a great interest in plants and flowers."

Beach Needs Specials

The nursery makes a specialty of growing plants that are suitable for oceanfront homes and that will not be harmed by salt-spray. For the oceanfront Hayes particularly recommends: ligustrum, euonymus, pittosporum, tamarix, indian hawthorne, rock rose, yucca and cactus.

"Other nurseries grow these same plants," he said, "but they don't worry about them the way we do. We have to."

Since the March 7th storm he

has been busy rescuing damaged yards. In at least one case he completely replaced a garden—soil, plants and all.

Most of the plants at the Cavalier Nursery are grown from cuttings that Hayes roots himself. He finds this one of the most satisfying parts of his work.

Because of the coastal climate, the Tidewater area is a "melting pot for plants," said Hayes. Plants from North and South will grow here.

"We are constantly finding new plants that will do well here," he said. "We find them by ordering seeds or bulbs from catalogues and trying them."

"Most of the Northern plants that grow here need lime added to the soil," Hayes said. "Particularly American elm, lilac and the Norway maple."

Produced Own Varieties
The Hayes' have registered two varieties of camellia, one called Cavalier's Lady, after the nursery.

They have also produced a new variegated forsythia.

Some of the unusual plants grown at the nursery include fatsia, a broad-leaved plant, and fatsiedora, a true hybrid, between fatsia and English Ivy.

Hayes has grown several varieties of Australian plants, like the exotic bottle brush, which produces bright red flowers that look just like a bottle brush.

A native of Pittsburg, Hayes studied horticulture at Penn State.

He says he was always interested in plants and nursery work, though he had no family background in the field.

He ran a landscaping and tree surgery business in Pittsburg and was in the nursery business in Norfolk.

Charles Jr., a sophomore at V.P.I. is studying ornamental horticulture and preparing to come into the family business.

Another son, Michael, is a student at Princess Anne High. Being a nurseryman has brought him many strange requests and questions said Charles Hayes, but the strangest was the woman who asked him to guarantee that her grass seed would not grow more than one season. He's still not quite sure why, except that she liked to plant grass every year.

Sandpiper Theatre Season Will Open June 28; Top Plays Listed for Summer

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH—Sandpiper Theatre will open its 1962 season with a variety of topnotch entertainment running a gamut of comedy and drama, highlighted with the musical production of "Brigadoon."

The producers—Wade Williams, Angie Alexander, Lee Lively, Joe Freeden and Maynard Allen—selected the musical, which was the first to win the New York Critic's Award, because it is a good family show, balanced with comedy, pathos and fantasy.

Musical numbers from the show include "Heather on the Hill," "Come To Me, Bend To Me," "There, But For You, Go I," and "It's Almost Like Being In Love."

Alternating with the musical in the first series, to open June 28, will be "Under the Yum-Yum Tree" and the classic, "You Can't Take It With You."

The second series, to get underway August 1, will alternate the ever-popular "Mr. Roberts" and a third production to be announced later with "Brigadoon."

Some Changes

Unlike last year, the shows will be alternated so that each will appear on a different night throughout the five-week run.

per series, each running two nights a week.

A change has also been made in the price schedule, Williams announced this week. Because of the added costs involved in the musical, this show will be slightly higher than the others. There will also be an extra cost for Friday and Saturday productions.

Season tickets for the five shows will be $12, the same as last year, but ticket holders will pay an extra 50 cents on Fridays and Saturdays and an extra $1 for "Brigadoon."

W. P. Covington III of Portsmouth has been named company manager of the theatre.

Directors for the first series will include Marilyn Ende, "Brigadoon"; Jon Dawson, "Under the Yum-Yum Tree"; and Dean Burgess, "You Can't Take It With You."

Sandpiper Theatre came onto the Virginia Beach entertainment scene last season rather meekly, scarcely rippling the pool of summer attractions. By September the ripple had swelled to a wave of enthusiasm that engulfed local residents as well as summer visitors.

Many things contributed to the success of Sandpiper—its colorful blue and gold tent, ample parking facilities at its 19th Street location, informal dress of the audience and comfortable surroundings.

But, above all, it was the quality of productions that kept drawing crowds night after night, many returning to see the same show for a second and even a third time.

"The secret of our success," Williams, one of the theatre's originators, said, "was keeping our costs down to a minimum but offering top notch entertainment."

Uses Local Talent

Overhead was cut drastically by casting local performers rather than professional or "name" actors. But there was nothing unprofessional about the performances these housewives and businessmen turned in. They were excellent.

Using the talents of local people proved to be a wise move, especially from the financial standpoint. There were no salaries. Each actor and technician shared in the profits the amount depending on the role he played. If Sandpiper had failed, each would have lost only his time.

But it didn't fail. It grew and thrived and ended as a financial success.

During the first few weeks, attendance was rather poor. Tourist participation fell far below the expectations, probably from lack of enthusiasm from hotel-motel owners, but residents supported it. By word of mouth rather than paid publicity, endorsement of Sandpiper spread and the 300-seat tent soon filled to capacity.

For the most part, establishment of the theatre was smooth sailing. City officials and local merchants gave it their wholehearted support and the area received it with open arms.

Now rehearsals are well under way for the theatre's second season and the resort eagerly awaits its opening.

Medical Program on WAVY Sunday

NORFOLK—Helping people to walk instead of hobble is the subject of MEDICINE IN THE 60's "New Joints For Old" to be seen on WAVY-TV, Channel 10, Sunday from 12:30 to 1:30 P.M.

In the program a new hip joint is installed by the use of a stainless steel cap, and a housewife is free from years of pain. One in five persons over the age of 50 is troubled by some form of hip disease of discomfort. Because of the great weight borne by the hip joint, any accident or disease that affects the smooth connective tissue forming the joint capsule can be aggravated by the wear and tear of normal living and produce pain and inflammation. The operation in which metal is used in reconstructing the joint is just one of the ways of treating these problems.

Next week MEDICINE IN THE 60's will present a special program on a new life for a "Blue Baby" and how, thanks to the miracles of modern surgery, the "Blue Baby" once doomed to early death can now enjoy a normal life.

Clowning Was Hot Business

Ball-Throwing Booth Drew Crowds

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN VIRGINIA, on March 8, in a furious naval battle at Hampton Roads, the Confederate ironclad Virginia sank the Union steam frigate Cumberland, disabled the Minnesota, and captured the frigate Congress. Virginians cheered their victory with foaming steins of beer.

For even then, beer was Virginia's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for Virginians, and a good living for the employees and suppliers of the Brewing Industry.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

School Carnival Is Family Fun

RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH — When does a school ground not resemble a school ground? When it becomes a carnival midway.

Linkhorn Park School was converted into a miniature fair grounds Saturday as the P.T.A. sponsored its annual money-raising event.

Play areas became tracks for pony and Jeep rides and classrooms became doll exhibits and a country store.

Whirling swings and small-fry airplanes took youngsters into "outer space" and the mouth-watering odor of hamburgers and hot dogs drew throngs of hungry people to the food booths.

Cars Made Hit

Children stood in line to board the popular Model "T" Ford cars driven by Welton Anderson and Doug Wakefield and Little Leaguers played havoc at the ball throwing concession.

Mothers donned aprons to serve everything from soft drinks to cotton candy and fathers shed shirts in the blistering heat to assemble booths and transport heavy equipment.

A medal of courage should be awarded Mrs. Buck Burton and Mrs. Fred A. Haycox Jr. who spent the entire day in hot, heavy clown make-up.

Also deserving a medal were Stanley Phillips, W. W. Washburn, Hall Snellings, Mrs. Welton Anderson and other parents who worked from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. without a break.

It was a lot of work (the entire carnival was carried from planning to completion in 10 days) but a lot of fun. And about $2,000 was collected for books for the school library.

Yes, sir, it was quite a day.

Choral Workshop

The Extension Division of the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg will offer a Choral Workshop for teachers of choral groups, grades 6 through 12, from Monday, July 9 to Friday, July 27, at Great Bridge. The workshop will be conducted by William Troxell, music director for Henrico County. The workshop will enable choral teachers to familiarize themselves with the latest choral selections, materials, procedures, techniques and teaching methods. Area teachers are invited to participate. Successful participants will earn three semester hours of credit. Persons desiring to enroll should contact W. C. Duvall, Norfolk County music supervisor, at LI 7-2121 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday. The final date for registration will be July 9.

Classes in Elementary Spanish and Intermediate Spanish Readings will be held in the Schools Building at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek. Registration will be held at 7 p.m. on Monday, June 4. These classes are the first semester courses in first and second year Spanish, respectively, and will meet two nights each week for eight weeks. Each course carries a credit of three semester hours. Members of the civilian community desiring to enroll should contact the Amphibious Base Education Office to make arrangements for entering the Base.

Students should be prepared to pay the tuition charge of $36 at the time of registration. For further information, call H. F. Purcell, Area Extension Coordinator, MA 7-8651 or KI 5-1613.

Cox High Tid-Bits

Since I announced last week the ninth grade Cox winners of the track meet at Princess Anne High School, I would now like to inform you of the eighth grade winners. These students competed with the Kempsville Meadows Challengers. Buddy Moore placed third in the 100 yard dash and Beth Lindblad ran second in the 50 yard dash. In the 220-yard run, Denise Moritz and Kathy Ackerman won second and third places respectively. Cox achieved first place by Carol Kowalczyk and the second position by Anne Folks in the running broad jump. First place in the high jump, Carol Kowalczyk, a two time winner, broke the old record of 4 feet 2 inches by jumping 4 feet, 5 inches. Also, Frank Mauck placed first in the high jump for eight grade boys.

The last edition of the Coxswain, was published May 29. COUNTY 4-H'ERS RECEIVE RECOGNITION AT ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

4-H Club members from all the clubs in Princess Anne County were present and participated in the annual County Achievement Program, at Kempsville Elementary School on Wednesday, May 16.

A beautiful array of approximately 1 dozen exhibits illustrating the many areas of 4-H Club work in which accomplishments have been made this year formed a background setting for the event which is looked forward to and cherished more than any other in the 4-H Club year.

GINGER OLIVER PRESIDES

A very effective and enjoyable program, designed by members of the 4-H County Council, included the following procedures:

Miss Ginger Oliver, from the Bayside Community Club and President of the Princess Anne 4-H County Council, presided over the meeting. A welcome to all the 4-H Club members, volunteer leaders, and guests present was extended by Miss Ann Buffington, of the Courthouse School Club, led the group in the Lord's Prayer, and salute to the flag. Miss Ruth Anne Oliver, from the Bayside Community Club and secretary of the 4-H County Council, was responsible for the roll call to determine how many 4-H Club members from each club was represented.

Presentation of Awards
A moment long awaited by 4-H Club members is the announcement of the winners in the many different project fields as well as various other areas, such as Achievement, County Contests, and Secretaries Record Books.

Awards in the forms of ribbons, medals, and scholarships, were presented in the Home Demonstration areas by Mr. E. R. Cockrell, Jr., County Agent, and in the Agricultural area by Mr. Keister Evans, Jr., Assistant County Agent.

Exhibit Awards

Perhaps the most difficult task of the entire evening program was in the hands of Mr. J. Curtis Payne, local Farm Bureau Representative, Mr. R. H. DeFord, Jr., President of the Farm Bureau, and Mr. Norman Beal, ASCS Office Manager, who were responsible for judging the exhibit awards and scrapbooks. The judging for these awards is done on the Danish system, in which any number of exhibits can place in any division.

Thalia Community Club was awarded a blue ribbon and a check for $5.00, for the best scrapbook on exhibit. For best exhibit showing project work accomplished during the past club year, the following clubs received a blue ribbon and a check for $5.00:

The Rideaway 5-H Club, Courthouse School Club, Kempsville Meadows School Club, and Bayside Community Club. The remainder of the exhibits received a red ribbon for second place. These awards were presented by Mr. Keister Evans, Jr., Assistant County Agent.

L. BELMONT WILLIAMS RECEIVES 4-H ALUMNI AWARD

The highest tribute which can be paid to a supporter of the 4-H Club Program was presented to Mr. L. Belmont Williams, of Southern States Norfolk Service, for outstanding support of the 4-H Club Program.

Mr. Williams, having been a 4-H Club member as a youngster, was elected into the Virginia All-Star Chapter and there held an important position of leadership. The All-Star Motto of service has been lived up to by Mr. Williams day by day, in his many contributions and efforts of support to the 4-H Club Program.

Numerous occasions of financial contributions and support are but one of the efforts exerted by Mr. Williams to the 4-H Clubs. Any person knowing Mr. Williams can readily detect his interest, love, and devotion to Club work and Club members. It is for this devotion to the 4-H Club Program that Mr. Williams has been awarded the 4-H Alumni Recognition Award, and I would like to offer our sincere appreciation to Mr. Williams from all the 4-H Club members in the County, the leaders, the Extension workers, and other supporters of the 4-H Club program, as I know of no person more deserving of such recognition.

CLUB AWARDS

The most strived for recognition by every club in the County is that of the Club Award. Each year a Club award goes to both the Junior and Senior Club in the County which has accumulated the most points throughout the Club year. This year, and for the second year in a row, the awards were presented to the Courthouse School Club in the Junior division, and the Bayside Community Club, in the Senior division. Congratulations to these outstanding clubs for such a fine job this 4-H Club year.

HONOR CLUB ANNOUNCED

The most sacred and impressive part of the Achievement Program was the tapping of members into an Honor Club which has been newly formed in Princess Anne County. Membership in the new Honor Club is quite an honor to any 4-H Club member, and is a goal desired by every 4-H'er in the County. All-Star Virginia Kelly, from the Thalia Community Club, presented the goals and objectives of the Honor Club, and the Honor Club selectees were escorted to the stage for the candlelight ceremony by All-Stars Ginger Oliver and Bobby Vaughan.

The Honor Club Candle Lighting Ceremony and the 4-H Club motto and pledge climaxed a very inspiring County 4-H Club Event.

Congratulations to all the 4-H Club members in the County for their outstanding work this past year.

Home buyer to make a large investment.

Indications are; however, that consumer confidence has replaced the consumer hesitancy of some months ago.

Recently, there has been a buoyancy in American thinking—a spirit perhaps generated by the orbital flight of Col. Glenn which psychologically may have resolved some doubts in the minds of America about the future.

Businessmen, consumers and the government seem to be moving on a new note of confidence that bids well to meet all the challenges and the limitless opportunities that may be ahead.

Ft. Story Unit May Have Record

FORT STORY — A Fort Story unit has established what may be an all-time high score for the Annual Army Training Test.

Research of U. S. Army Transportation Training Command records indicate that the Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment of the 10th Transportation Battalion have recorded the first perfect score by a USAATC unit.

The 1961 ATT score received by this unit was 98.3.

Other units of the battalion also achieved high scores for a battalion average of 96.7%.

The Army Training Test was conducted at Ft. Story April 28-29 under the direction of the 507th Trans. Group (Movement Control). It required the battalion to execute a beach landing, establish and defend a bivouac against company-sized guerrilla forces and conduct a logistic-over-the-shore operation, using the three terminal services and two amphibious truck companies organic to the battalion. During the play of the exercise the 870th and 566th Trans. Co's were given a rear area security mission and were under the supervision of another unit.

The ATT is designed to evaluate and test the state of tactical and technical training of the unit and the ability to perform its mission. Tests are given under simulated combat conditions with opposing aggressor forces and friendly support provided by TC units that are not otherwise participating in the test.

Individual unit leaders and scores of their units are as follows: Hq. and Hq. Det. 10th Bn., Capt. B. M. Cronin and Sgt. Major A. B. Brigham, 100%; 344th Trans. Co., Capt. L. Boone and 1st Sgt. M. E. Bilby, 95.5%; 347th Trans. Co., Capt. T. R. Gravette and 1st Sgt. J. Howard, 95.3%; 565th Trans. Co., Capt. J. B. Thomas and 1st Sgt. T. F. Fanelli, 98.7%; 566th Trans. Co., 1st Lt. F. Anderson, Jr. and 1st Sgt. D. DeAntonio, 96.5%; and the 870th Trans. Co., Capt. Hoover Alexis and Acting 1st Sgt. Sfc. J. Fidler 94.0%.

Lt. Col. Robert W. Larson commands the 10th Trans. Bn. and Maj. Henry Ernst is the Bn. Executive Officer.

The MIXING BOWL...

IT'S Fun TO COOK

Fresh Grapefruit Perks Up Salmon Salad

Fresh Florida grapefruit are abundant and attractively priced now, and one of the many luscious ways to use the sunny fruit is in this Sarasota Sea Food Salad. The plump, juicy grapefruit sections are combined with canned salmon, sliced celery and seasonings, arranged on crisp lettuce, and garnished with additional sections and tender spinach leaves. Mix up the zesty Sarasota Salad Dressing to go with it, and you'll have a healthful dish that's perfect for meatless days now and on through the summer.

How to Peel and Section Florida Grapefruit

Chill fruit before preparing. To section grapefruit cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Then cut slice from bottom. Or, cut off peel round and round, spiral fashion. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section, over bowl, to retain juice from fruit.

Sarasota Sea Food Salad

2 cups Florida grapefruit sections, drained
1/2 cup diced celery
1 can (1 pound) salmon, drained and flaked
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lime or lemon juice
Lettuce
Tender spinach leaves

Drain grapefruit sections. Reserve juice to use in fruit juice beverages. Reserve half of grapefruit sections for garnish. Add remaining grapefruit sections with celery to flaked salmon. Sprinkle with salt and lime or lemon juice. Pile on lettuce; garnish with reserved grapefruit sections and spinach leaves. Serve with Sarasota Salad Dressing*. Yield: 4 servings.

*Sarasota Salad Dressing

1 tablespoon lime or lemon juice
2 tablespoons drained pickle relish
3 stuffed olives, sliced
1 teaspoon onion juice
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
1/2 cup mayonnaise

Add all ingredients to mayonnaise; mix well. Yield: 1/2 cup.

News for HOMEMAKERS

SELECT IRONING TOOLS CAREFULLY

Homemakers should select their ironing equipment with care. An adjustable ironing board or table, designed to accommodate a person of any height, and which can be used whether standing or sitting, is a good means of conserving both time and energy.

Here are some things to be considered before buying an ironing table: Sturdy, rust-proof, metal ironing tables are preferred over wood because they do not warp. Ventilated tops permit steam to go down, keeping the ironing pad from holding moisture.

Ironing table tops are usually 54 by 15 inches, but are available in larger sizes. Adjustment of table heights will range from 23 to 36 inches, with more expensive models offering a wide selection of positions.

The ironing table should not close without releasing the safety catch. The feet of the table should be covered with rubber or other non-mark materials to protect floors and prevent slipping.

There is also a new design of ironing table on the market. It has one long, straight side, a new arc-shaped curve; and a new width of 18 inches at the widest point. Another new table has a triangular shaped drop-leaf at the narrow point which, when raised, offers a rectangular shaped board for ironing large articles.

Do your ironing in a well-ventilated area that has good light. Place ironing board near storage of articles being ironed. A good ironing table will make your job easier.

TRIM OLD SWEATERS

Do you have an old sweater around the house? You can spruce it up by adding some trim.

Trimming a sweater to go with a dress adds flair and beauty to the dress and usefulness and change to the sweater.

Try using a classic cardigan with short or long sleeves to complete a dress ensemble. The color of the cardigan may match, or contrast, with the dress color.

Trim for the sweater may be embroidered, velvet, or grosgrain ribbons, braids, fringes, edgings, and rickrack. You may wish to use lace, or make bands or simple applique designs from the dress fabric. But remember, simplicity is the key to a smart, fashionable costume.

Keep in mind the use of the sweater. For sports or casual occasions, use ribbon or simple appliques. For dressy occasions trim with lace, embroidered ribbon, or beads.

Pre-shrink any trimmings that will go on a washable sweater, then sew trimmings on the sweater with small hand stitches. Use thread that matches the sweater. If the trimming is heavy, you may need to put net backing on the inside of the sweater, or line with a lightweight fabric.

Any white elephants hiding in your clothes closet? Now is the time to search them out and discard them.

A good starting point is to give those garments you suspect of being "white elephants" the "wear" test. How long has it been since they've been worn? If you plan to wear them this season, how often?

You may wish to subject another group into the "Could-wear-if-restyled" test. How much time and money would be required for the remodeling? Can you do the work yourself? How much new material will be needed?

Are there some garments that belong in the "won't-wear-again" group? These do not deserve closet space and should be discarded.

LIME FRUIT AND CHEESE SALAD

1 package (3 ounces) lime flavored gelatine
1 cup hot water
1 cup fruit syrup and water
1 tablespoon Heinz Vinegar
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
1 cup canned fruit cocktail, drained

Dissolve gelatine in hot water; add next 2 ingredients. Divide into 2 equal portions. Chill 1 portion until partially set; fold in cottage cheese. Pour into 8-9 individual molds. Chill. Meanwhile, chill remaining gelatine until partially set. Fold in fruit. Spoon over jellied cheese. Chill until congealed. Unmold on lettuce. Garnish with maraschino cherry. Make 8-9 salads.

If your special pride and joy is a fish mold, try this Molded Tuna Salad. Serve it with Lorenzo Dressing.

MOLDED TUNA SALAD

2 teaspoons unflavored gelatine
2/3 cup cold water
1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained, flaked
3/4 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons Heinz India or Sweet Relish
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

Soften gelatine in cold water; dissolve over boiling water. Cool. Mix tuna with remaining ingredients. Add to dissolved gelatine. Stir well. Spoon into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on lettuce with Lorenzo Dressing. Makes 4 servings.

LORENZO DRESSING

1/4 cup Heinz Vinegar
3/4 cup salad oil
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons Heinz Chili Sauce

Combine ingredients; shake vigorously. Chill. Shake before serving. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

Princess Anne Happenings

By Leslie Russell

From "flying carpenters to proms," it has been a hectic week at Princess Anne High School.

The arrival of the Junior Class's rings brought elated shouts of joy from Princess Anne juniors.

Last weekend one of the most beautiful and looked-forward-to traditions took place—the Senior Prom.

From nine o'clock to one, the Seniors and their lucky guests danced in the beautifully decorated Princess Anne gym to the music of the V.P.I. Colonels.

The annual Princess Anne band concert was held last Sunday. With music selections from the West Side Story, The Unsinkable Molly Brown, and tunes from the Civil War. All who attended enjoyed the concert thoroughly.

The Trinity Tri-Hi-Y has announced the newly elected members. They are Connie Trueblood, Carolyn Singer, Susan Benbow, Jennifer Camper, Florence Reese, Susan McKown, Carol Blythe, Margaret Dudley, Ann Simmons, and Kathy Joy.

The 1962 Peerage was distributed last Saturday night at the annual party to those who had paid for their yearbooks prior to May 15. Grace Bamforth, Bally Spence, editors of the Peerage, and the rest of the annual staff are certainly to be congratulated and commended for such a fine job!

With only two more weeks of school (one more week till exams), graduation is nearing. The commencement exercises are June 9 at eight o'clock at the Princess Anne athletic field.

Congratulations to the Princess Anne Baseball Team! The Cavaliers placed second in the Eastern District. After a terrific record of nine straight wins and only three unfortunate losses, the Cavaliers ended a very successful season.

So, there it was. A fine assortment of junk that he had found by searching the ground all his life. And, in the process, he had missed the beauty of the red bird in the dogwood tree, the diamond-like sparkle of the early dawn on the apple tree, the glorious shadings in the sky during an early spring sunset, the clear blue sky of an October day, and, had even missed the loving sparkle in the eyes of a child. For, to see these things he would have needed to look up!

It's amazing how many people still miss the beautiful things in life that are seen by looking up, because they insist on going through life looking down for the spid, the trash, the things of ill-repute, the gain that is always stained, and the drags of living.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills. From whence cometh my help? My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."—Psalm 121:1-2

Two divisions — Va. Beach businesses and hotels-motels — will be solicited next week. These two campaigns were postponed from a previous date because of the March 7 storm.

Nell Owens is chairman of the business division and A. B. Crews heads the hotel-motel group.

Persons wishing to contribute to the Cancer Crusade may mail contributions to the American Cancer Society, 2603 Pacific Avenue, Virginia Beach.

Registration and testing will be held at the Friends Meeting House on Wednesday, June 13th at 8:30 A.M.

Further information may be obtained by calling GA 8-7511.

WHERE DO YOU SEEK HELP?

Several years ago, a rather popular illustration making the rounds in the ministerial circles concerned an event in the later years of a rather aged man who was relating to his friends the secret of his "success."

It seems that when he was a young lad, he was extremely fond of walking barefooted down the dirt roads and paths of the area in which he lived.

And, as he would walk along, scuffing up the leaves along the road edge, letting the hot, sandy soil filter between his toes, he would often uncover some choice article that a traveler had dropped along the way. It might be a hairpin, or a paper clip, or a chewing gum wrapper, or even a metal tag from a plug of chewing tobacco.

One day, he kicked at a mound of dry leaves, and uncovered a half-dollar! That settled it for him. From then on, he shuffled around a ten-mile area near his home, scratching up a prize here and there to add to his growing collection.

Now, he was getting feeble, and he wanted to impress his cronies with his treasure. So, with his dozen or so cigar boxes—that held his life's treasure—in front of him, he counted out his bottle caps, bobby-pins, balls of tin foil accumulated a fragment at a time, pieces of string that tied together into balls of twine, some odds and ends that defied identification, and—oh, yes—a dollar and fifty-six cents in small change.

"You've got to keep your eyes sharp for the corners," he said, "or else you'll miss the treasure under the leaves."

So, there it was. A fine assortment of junk that he had found by searching the ground all his life. And, in the process, he had missed the beauty of the red bird in the dogwood tree, the diamond-like sparkle of the early dawn on the apple tree, the glorious shadings in the sky during an early spring sunset, the clear blue sky of an October day, and, had even missed the loving sparkle in the eyes of a child. For, to see these things he would have needed to look up!

It's amazing how many people still miss the beautiful things in life that are seen by looking up, because they insist on going through life looking down for the spid, the trash, the things of ill-repute, the gain that is always stained, and the drags of living.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills. From whence cometh my help? My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."—Psalm 121:1-2

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The traditions of America are inseparably linked with religion, and the Church has been the most powerful factor in our national life. Its faith has inspired our highest achievements.

The influence of religion has sanctified our homes and fostered in them the solid virtues and strong faith which have molded our national character and shaped our course in world history.

Our public school system is the outgrowth of religious zeal and the desire of the Church to spread enlightenment among the people. It has invoked blessings on those who train our youth.

The home, the school, and the Church—these are the great triumvirate whose faithful and tireless efforts have made America the most favored land on earth. They are the pillars of our strength, the foundation of our hope.

Let us cling to these elements of national strength—make our homes the abode of happiness; make our schools centers of light and knowledge; and make God our guide as we move into the untold future.

SOYBEAN WEED CONTROL

Robert White called last week to ask about chemical control of weeds in soybeans. This prompted the following summary.

Virginia has not made a strong recommendation for the use of pre-emergence herbicides on soybeans. Herbicides currently available have not consistently given effective control under Virginia's soil and moisture conditions. The economics of the situation must also be considered. For these reasons, we cannot urge all farmers to include herbicide use in their soybean production program.

Older Chemicals

DNBP (dinitro)—"Dow Premerge" and "Sincox P.E." at 2 gallons or 6 lbs. per acre has been suggested for several years and used by farmers more than any other chemical. The effectiveness of DNBP applied immediately after planting of soybeans has depended largely on soil moisture and temperature conditions. If these conditions were ideal for rapid weed germination, very effective weed control resulted. Delaying the application until the time the soybeans start to crack the soil surface has consistently given good weed control. This delay in application should be suggested. Increasing the rate of DNBP application to 9 lbs. or more results in stunting and reduced stands of soybeans. The cost of 6 lbs. DNBP broadcast treatment is approximately $10.90 per acre.

NPA—"Alanap-3" at 4 lbs. per acre has been used in Virginia for several years. It must be applied only immediately after planting and on moist soil for adequate weed control to result. Weed control by NPA has been comparable to the results from use of DNBP immediately after planting. Occasionally temporary stunting of soybeans has occurred. This stunting is usually associated with rainfall moving the chemical down to the developing root system. In our research trials the soybeans have recovered rapidly and yields have not been reduced. NPA used at the rate of 4 lbs. per acre will cost about $9.50.

NPA plus CIPC — The combination of these two compounds used at the rate of 2 lbs. of each per acre has resulted in more consistent weed control without soybean injury in the research plots. This combination should be applied immediately after planting. Farmers' use of this herbicide has been small, but favorable results have been reported. The same environmental conditions as listed for NPA are necessary for effective control. The cost of this combination would be about $9.15 per acre.

Other—A number of farmers have used ¼ to ¾ lbs. of 2, 4-D per acre with acceptable results. Applications are usually made just before soybeans start to crack the soil surface. This treatment cannot be recommended because 2, 4-D might eliminate the stand of soybeans completely.

The Newer Herbicides
AMIBEN — "Amiben" has been tested in Virginia for 2 years with very satisfactory results. Recently the Pure Food and Drug Administration cleared it for use on soybeans that are to be consumed, processed or used for seed. Amiben should be used pre-emergence at the rate of 3 lbs. per acre. It has given excellent control of a wide range of soil and temperature conditions. The liquid formulation contains 2 lbs. of active ingredient per gallon; The cost of 3 lbs. is expected to be about $15.

PCP (Sodium pentachlorophenate) — "Weedbeads" or "Santobrite" pellets has been cleared by FDA for pre-emergence use on soybeans. Five years ago this material was removed from Virginia's suggested list due to insufficient crop residue data. About 20 lbs. of PCP per acre are required for effective weed control.

The material is available as a water soluble granule; therefore, it may be used as a granular application or dissolved in water and used as a spray. Cost estimates are not available.

LOROX — "Lorox" was released to experiment stations for testing in 1961. Clearance for pre-emergence use on soybeans grown for seed only has been obtained. Lorox has not been tested on soybeans at VPI. In preliminary tests on other crops, the weed control was favorable.

Three weeks of the training are devoted to the rifle range, where the recruits fire the M-14 rifle and receive instruction in other basic marine infantry weapons.

The new marines next will report to Camp Lejeune, N.C., for combat infantry training.
